-A man who gives his name as Moyor has been imposing on the charity of the people of the Whitehalls of late by representing that he had lost his all by the destruction of his dwelling house, over near the Salisbury Church, by a fire which bad originiated through the explosion of a coal oil lamp. He carries with nim a list of contributors, headed Messrs. Thomas Steckel, Enoch whard and S. A. Bridges, all of which signatures are forgeries. The fellow by the relating of his story has, as we believe, succeeded in touching the hearts and opening the purses of the benevolent to a degree that has benefited him quite largely, but inas-much as he is a bold swindler, we trust that as seen as this article gets out his game will be blocked, and that he will be given the "grand bounce" wherever he may call, or what would be still bet-ter, be conveyed to the nearest justice of the peace, that he may dealt with according to law .- Democrat, Letter from Mauch Chunk.

MAUCH CHUNE, Aug. 0, 1877. When my last epistle left me, the star of the striking element on both of our roads was still in the ascendant, as Uncle Sam's soldiers had not yet arrived. This latter event did not happen until Friday morning, when they were set down here, bag and baggage, about 300 strong. And from the moment of their arrival the strike began to decline, and already before evening scores of anxious men, lately on strike, could be seen running after the several Superintendents, begging to be reinstated and loudly protesting that they had bad no hand in the matter. And a more abject crew never kicked for a job. This sort of skirmishing continued all of Saturday, and on Monday the pressure was at its height, and while some succeeded in obtaining permission to work, others-perhaps equal'y as many-were refused the much-coveted boon. They are now thrown upon their own resources, or left to the cold charities of the world. But it serve them right. They might have known from the beginning that the rentiments of the community were opposed to the venture, and they should have counted the possible cost before entering upon it. But, as it is now too late to learn, it is to be hoped that hereafter they will be more prudent, and that all their future steps will be guided by the lamp of experience.

With both roads again in operation, things, though more lively than they a fortnight ago, are far from what they should be. And now it is the miners who are causing the trouble by an attempt at demonstrating to the rest of the world that if an individual can or the world that it all individuals can barely subsist by working steadily, his condition may be vastly improved by idleness. They call it a strike, but it's a strike in the wrong direction, I opine. If true, what I've learned to-day from various sources, much distress already exists in the Summit Hill and through out the Panther Creek Valley, where the people are clamoring for the wherewithal to keep soul and body together, and the merchants, heeging the lessons taught them by past experience, refuse to sell except for cash, and this the majority have not got. So what's to be done? Go to work? Not they, as they done? are evidently determined to ascertain how much misery, self-imposed, a man's able to bear. And yet there is certainly sufficient cause for a strike, but a strike in a different direction-an entire new departure ; a striking out EN MASSE from the poverty stricken coal fields of rom the poverty science coat acads of Pennsylvania to the vast agricultural regions of the Great West. Nothing else will do, and the sooner men will act upon 'it the better. Why starve "down in a coal mine," when comparative error and comfort may be yours tive case and comfort may be yours elsewhere? It is, indeed, the only way in which the much talked of labor prob-lem can be lastingly and practically solved. The consumer of to-day mus become the producer of to-morrow. there is to be overproduction, let it be overproduction of the staff of life. would at least avert the dangers of starvation. Anthracite will not do this. It will furnish heat, but will neither fill the belly nor enable us to purchase the staff of life, unless there first be a demand for the article to enable us to convert our labor into cash wherewith to purchase the necessaries. A strry state of affairs this; but how is it to be remedied while men persist in remaining where they are and court starvation by persistingly adhering to unprofitable employment? And now, after three months' reflection, Judge Dreher has at last granted Patrick O'Donnell another chance to do legal battle for life. As no other de-cision had been expected, the granting to the prisoner of a new trial did not surprise anybody and was accepted by all rather as a matter of course. That the prisoner will have better luck in the hands of a more intelligent jury is not to be doubted. Indeed, the number of those who predict an unqualified acquittal is already by no means small. Howwill surely be more interesting than the That he will be ably defended by Mr. Kalbfus may be accepted as a fore gone conclusion, also that a strong, almost superhuman effort will be made to invalidate the testimony of certain "spurious witnesses," (as Mr. K. calls them); and as the "sinews" will not be wanting to secure prominent assistant counsel, a grand legal fray will cer-tainly be in store for us during the ensuing session of the Court of Oyer and Terminer. Continually and free mingling with all sorts of people, surely ought to know something of that great power behind the throng-public sentiment—and this, I assure you, is rapidly changing in favor of O'Donnell, the man who, as nearly all are agreed, neither looks nor acts like a guilty But time will show how he is to fare.

"PEU DE RIEN, PEU DE SOIN" the only scienc-tooking individuals one meets with upon the streets are the boys blue. They are being fairly lionized by our citizens, wherefore "soldier on the brain" is said to have lately became a very general complaint here. But, poor fellows, not having been paid for over four months, and as likely to be compelled to whistle for pay four months longer, their case is a hard one indeed, and soft bread a luxury that but few can indulge in. East Mauch Chunk has at last been made happy by the appointment of E. R. Cooke to the position of postmaster. That he will fill the position with credit to himself, satisfactorily to the public and acceptably to the department, no one doubts, although many were at first opposed to his appointment. The fact Mr. C. is a gentleman of too out-oken a character to be generally ted. With somewhat more of the dissition of a spaniel in his make-up, he would, no doubt, he just the man to suit the multitude; but, fortunately, he isn't. But for a fair, square sort of a funeral sermon to a large and deeply-man, give me Cooke -if he is a Republican, (much as the latter assertion is J. K. Knerr, of Welssport. J. C. B.

-- "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may resist the evils of the Devwas the text of Rev. E. F. Erdman's sermon to the congregation here, preached last Sunday morning to a large and attentive audience. The evils of the great adversary in his warfare against christianity were set forth and the adaptability of each piece of the armor was explained: the Helmet of Salvation, as the covering for the intellect of man exposed to the many isms by which men are ensuared to the rain of their souls ; the Breast-plate of Righteousness, in order that we might resist the evils and snares found in our every-day path of life, and the feet shod with the preparation of the Gospel of Peace, that we might flee from them; and, above all, the Shield of Faith, ing clothed with every man, to matter under what circumstances, could ex-claim for himself, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." In conclusion, it was his parting advice to put on the whole armor, an advice, if followed, he said, by each, would be sure to secure the conqueror's crown, Rev. Erd-man left here on Monday for Middle Creek, where he resides, and he left this place with the best wishes and kindest regards, not only of his own congregation, but of the citizens of Al-brightsville and vicinity.

Yours, etc., Du Albrightsville, Aug. 7, 1877. DUPLEX,

Died, suddenly, at her place of residence near Parryville, Carbon county, on the 5th of August, Mrs. M. Wentz. wife of Daniel Wentz, Esq., aged 73

The death of Mother Wentz was entirely unexpected. She arose early on Sunday morning, being the anniversa-ry of her birth. She had invited her children and grandchildren to celebrate ber birthday by partaking of a sumptu-ous meal which was to be prepared for the occasion. After she had performed some of her household duties early in the morning, before any of the members of the family had yet been up, and as her daughter in law came down stairs, she, to her great grief and dis-tress, found the aged mother dead and gone, without a sign of life visible. It was a very serious shock for the fami-ly, the day of her death being her 73d birthday. Her remains her 73d birthday. Her remains were interred in the Parryville cemetery, upon which occasion Rev. J. C. Bliem preached the foneral sermon to a large and deeply-

He undoubtedly wanted the lion's share (as is customary on such occa-sions) of the collections lifted, but in this he will now be greatly disappointed. The members of the church have as much to do as they are able to attend to at the present time, and the commit-tee have acted wisely in refusing to comply with his unreasonable requests, besides we can do very well without a camp meeting.

BIG CHREK, Aug. 8, 1877.

The Coal Trade.

The anthracite cost trade has a more prosper one outlook, enforced by circumstances over which the several companies engaged in the production and marketing of cool have had itstie, if any, control. At the beginning of the coal sesson persistent efforts were made to hit upon some line of policy by which the produc tion of coal should be brotight within the marketable demand. What the chief companies failed to effect in this regard has been pretty off ctualty accomplished by lawiess violence prohibiting both production and transportation. The miners for about ion days have stopped production in five of the mining regions, leaving the only source of coal supply for that time to the iteacing Coal and Iron Company's mines in the schulkili region, the most of the mines of the individual miners there having stopped On the 1st instant the Reading Coal and Iron Company issued an "meneded circular," in which the prices of coal for the line and city trade for the current month were advanced in cents per ton on shove and egg suses and a cents per ton on shove and egg suses and a cents per ton on shove and the advanced in cents per ton on shove and the advanced. The shipping per coal this company at the same point and show an advance of should be sustained to the company at the same point and show an advance of should be cents per ton. These facts and figures show a consistent policy in the management of the first ing italized Company from the time of the breasting up of the old "combination," which implied to give the market the fallest simply of osa possible. It has done so, and there is now a prospect, if the men of the Security shift per countries of the security in the rewarded with reinderestive prices here. For all will exercise a grain of sense, that it may be rewarded with reinderestive prices henceforth to the coil of the year. On Friday and over the beings, while gold, however, does not sense that the coil of the year. On Friday and over the beings, while gold, however, does not sense the other was allowed to the sense of the other was the strength of the coil of the year. On Friday and over the beings was a substantial of the sense of the other was the other was the other week the other of the sense of the sense of the tone of the sense of the sens Company issued an "smended circular." in which the prices of coal for the line and city
