—If you dream of a peckmarked rhinoceros eating asparagus with a silver spoon, and fanning your mother-in-law with the O. P. side of its tail, it is a sign that there will be a christening in your town or somewhere in the adjoining county, and that everybody and his wife will hire their carriages at David Ebbott's popular livery, on North street.

—A Wilkes-Barre dispatch of the 30th ult., says, "Charles Schuler, a Justice of the Peace, was arrested at Hazleton to-day by Detective Parkins, of the United States Secret Service, charged with conspiring a felony and manœuvreing in office. He was placed under $2,000 bail. Schuler released from custody a "Molly Maguire" named Dominick McGlynn, who was arrested for passing counterfeit."

The Poor House Project.

Parties interested in the success of the movement to establish a poor house in the lower end of this county, should now begin to take a little more interest in the matter; the day of election is rapidly approaching, and should the project fall through, on account of the lukewarmness of its friends, we have reason to know, from our short experience on the Poor Board of this borough (Lehigh), that the people, and especially the heavy tax-payers, will have cause to regret their apathy in the matter. The principal reason of the parties who oppose the measure, is not because they do not believe that we need and should have such an institution in the lower end, but because their own or friend's property, in which they probably were interested, was not chosen for the location. Such opposition to the measure is simply ridiculous, childish, indeed. Why the temporary arrangement made for keeping the poor all in one house in this borough, has saved to our tax-payers not less than $1000! Yet in this case we had no employment for our poor. Malhonng's tax of some $600 will fall short of meeting the demands made upon the Overseers for relief. Parrisville is almost exhausted in her effort to supply the means for keeping the vast number of persons who have and are applying for help; while the cost of maintaining the poor of Lower Townemansing, so far, cost upwards of $2800 the present (official) year. In fact, the cost of keeping the poor in ten townships and boroughs, out of which it is proposed to form the new district, will not cost more than $8000, and for this sum the Commissioners affirm they can clear one hundred acres of the selected tract; erect the necessary buildings, pay for the land, &c. The gentlemen comprising the commission, are men of integrity (every one), generally large holders of property, and of course heavy tax payers, and consequently have an interest in using economy in the matter—it is not likely that such men would proceed deliberately to increase the already onerous burden of their taxation. No economy and retrenchment is their motto, and we urge our people to a fair and unbiased view of this matter, and the erection of a poor house in this end of the county is a settled matter. The friends of this project are requested to call at this office for tickets, which are now ready for delivery.

Huntzinger's Appeal Refused.

Jacob Huntzinger and J. Albert Huntzinger, who were convicted in the Quarter Sessions of Berks county a short time ago, and were on January 23rd sentenced each to pay fines of $500 a piece, and to repay to the prosecutor the sum of $24,000, made application last week to the Supreme Court for a special allocatur and writ of error renewing the case from the lower court. They also prayed that an order might be entered suspending sentence and allowing them to enter bail pending action on this writ. This application the Supreme Court refused to grant.

Suspected of Poisoning.

The residents of Moonsstown and Bath, two small villages a few miles from Easton, have been greatly excited for the past few days over the sudden death of a widow lady named Houser, and circulated a report that she had died from the effects of poison, and named as the culprit a Mrs. Spangler, who lived with Mrs. Houser and her aged father. The rumor gained as it went the rounds and it was asserted that the old gentleman desired to marry Mrs. Spangler and that he had made over to her nearly $6,000 worth of his property. Mrs. Houser was buried Monday, and Tuesday the District Attorney, together with the County Coroner, had the body examined and a post-mortem examination was held, resulting in discovering no traces of poison, and the jury thereupon rendered a verdict that deceased died from natural causes.

Wonderful!

East Mauch Chunk, and indeed all the Chunks, is the scene of considerable excitement and gossip, and likely to continue so for some time to come. The cause of all this gossip is termed one of supernatural power, the truth of which, your correspondent will leave to your readers, as they peruse the following facts. The place whence all this excitement emanates, is the parsonage of Rev. Father Heiman, of the German Catholic denomination, at East Mauch Chunk. It became current in the early part of the week that at the parsonage lay a young woman who had not eaten anything for nine weeks, except a little milk, water and apples; that she is afflicted with hemorrhage or bleeding of the lungs; that these hemorrhages have occurred as often as four times in one day for the last nine weeks; that on Monday morning at 6 o'clock she became speechless, and has continued so ever since; that although speechless, she hears and is perfectly conscious of all that is going on; that this (Saturday) morning at 8:30, she will die, and at 9:30 a. m. the priest, Father Heiman, through supernatural influences or powers, will bring her to life again, and that the public are invited to witness the transition as above-mentioned. These facts having become known to the community, naturally excited every one's curiosity to see the sick woman, and it was soon ascertained that every one, of whatever creed or denomination, was cordially invited to come and see her for him or herself. Ever since Tuesday (Saturday) morning, from two to six, could be seen wandering their to Rev. Heiman's, and the talk became so general, that your correspondent could no longer resist, but go and see too. In company with several other gentlemen, we visited the place on Wednesday forenoon. On entering the house we passed a large number of persons, mostly ladies, and on enquiring whether we were permitted to enter the sick-room, we were allowed to pass up stairs, which we all did. The door being opened we entered a room about 10 x 20 feet, which was quite dark, and in which we found quite a number of persons. At this moment one of the Sisters of Charity, in waiting on the patient, raised one of the window-blinds sufficient to admit light enough to recognize one another. Of course, your attention was drawn to the sick-bed, and there we saw a woman, about 35 years old, lying in a half-reclining position, a white cap on her head, a crucifix fastened to her neck, her hands crossed, her eyes closed, her face wearing the expression of a dead person. Her breathing seemed natural and at regular intervals. During our stay she raised her left hand to her face twice. Her hands and feet are not emaciated as one would suppose from so long and close a confinement. The Sister in waiting was very talkative and courteous, and ready to answer any questions. In response to questions put to her, she stated that the lady lived in quiet confinement and the color of a dead person. Her breathing seemed natural and at regular intervals.
