TOM EDISON.

Below we give a story relative to the early life of Edison, the inventor:

"I first knew Tom Edison," says Mr. Stewart, "in 1866. At that time I was an operator in Tennessee. Tom was employed by Colonel Coleman, the Superintendent of the Western Union office in Memphis. He was a gawky boy, about eighteen or nineteen, and was reading everything about electricity that he could pick up. He had a lean and hungry look, and seemed always to be under the influence of some great excitement. He had got in his head the idea of sending duplex dispatches and all his spare time was devoted to experiments in the office. Coleman stood it for some time, but at last began to growl. He allowed that Tom was crazy, and said that 'any damned fool might know that a wire can't be worked both ways at the same time.' He declared that he wouldn't have Tom puttering around the office with such silliness, and finally discharged him in disgust. The boy went back home to some town in Michigan, and I lost track of him.

"Some time afterward I was transferred to the Boston office. At that time wire No. 1, as it was then called, was cosidered the crack wire of the country. The fastest men were working it. For some cause the operator in Boston resigned. A half a dozen fellows tried it, but found it too much for them. One after another they dropped it like a hot potato, and sloped wiser than they came. There was a man in the office named M. P. Adams. He thought the world of Tom Edison, and recommended him for the place, vouching for him as a first-class operator. G. F. Milliken, the manager, telegraphed to the little town in Michigan, asking Tom if he would come on and accept the position. Tom answered yes, and without further words started for Boston, via the Michigan Central and Grand Trunk Railroads. In running through Canada he got snowed under, and was kept on the track for twenty-four hours in one spot, cold and hungry, without a bed. As usual, he owned but one suit of clothes, and that was on his back. Unfortunately, it was a summer suit. He might have frozen to death had he not bought an old rough roundabout overcoat from an old Canuck railroad laborer. But he finally got through all right.

"I was in the the Boston office when he arrived, and I must say," continued Mr. Stewart, bringing his his fist down upon the table, "he was the worst looking specimen of humanity I ever saw. The modern telegraph tramp isn't a marker. He wore a pair of jean breeches six inches too short for him, a pair of very low shoes, the Canuck jacket, and a broad-brimmed butternut hat, a relic of his life in Memphis. The wide rim was badly torn, and hung down so that you could see his ear through the opening. There was the slight trace of dirt on his upper lip that was called a moustache. His hair hadn't been combed for a week, and he wore the blackest white shirt that was ever seen on the back of a human being. Nervously pinching his upper lip—a habit he had—he inquired for the manager, and was sent to Milliken.

"'Are you the boss?' Tom asked. Milliken smiled and said he was manager. Tom then introduced himself and asked when they wanted him to go to work. Milliken stared at him as though he couldn't believe his ears, and said, 'At half-past five.' It was then well along in the afternoon. Tom began to look around the office for a clock, and Milliken said, 'Young man, you have to work a pretty heavy wire.' Tom gave what he called his moustache an extra twist, and with all the assurance in the world, blurted out, 'All right, boss, I'll be here at half past five.' He sloped so quick that it made his head swim.

"The operators burst into a peal of laughter. They had seen and heard everything, and their remarks were anything but complimentary to Tom. 'Oh,' said one of them, 'he won't last as long as that Jerseyman that tackled the wire the other day.' 'Why, that fellow can't read by paper, let alone by sound,' shouted another. A third declared that Tom was the worst he ever saw; and when the fourth wondered 'whether the walking between Michigan and Boston was very good,' there was a general roar.

"Well," continued Stewart, "half-past five came and so did Tom. Everybody was on the qui vive. Milliken was taking from the vault the supply of blanks for the night operators. As Tom came up he pointed to a pile of them, saying, 'Take what blanks you want and I will show you your table.' Tom innocently picked up the whole bundle, and followed Milliken to the table. The operators began to grin and snicker. They all thought he would get bounced after trying to catch one message. It was the No. 1 wire to New York. Jerry Borst, then considered one of the fastest senders in the country, worked the New York end. As Tom seated himself he heard the call 'B,' and turning to Milliken asked if that was the call for Boston. 'Yes,' replied the manager, wateing Tom's movements with intense curiosity. Thereupon Tom opened his key and ticked the answer, 'I, I!' Jerry began to whoop 'em up in his best style, and every eye was turned on Tom. He displayed no anxiety, but kept right along at his work as though he had been taken Jerry all his life. For four mortal hours did Jerry keep up one hundred pounds to the square inch, and four mortal hours did Tom take it down in a hand writing as neat and plain as reprint. For the first time in his life Jerry had rushed it until he was tired, without a break from the receiver. He was astonished. When he had finished, the following messages passed between them:

From Jerry.—"'Who the devil are you, anyhow?'

From Tom.—"'I'm the new man. My name is Tom Edison.'

From Jerry.—"Well by (a ripper—Rep.) you're the man I've been looking for for the last ten years, and you're the only man I ever saw that could take me without a break. Shake.'

"And they shook. The astonishment of the boys in the office was unbounded. There was no more jibing or snickering. Everybody was Tom's friend at once. The next day Milliken picked up a sheet of Tom's manuscript, and reflectively stroked his long beard. 'I never saw such a pretty copy,' he said. 'He is as good an operator as I ever saw.'"

THE BEST AND MOST POPULAR PULMONIC IS

Hale's Honey of Horehound & Tar.

It invariably Cures Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup and other Affections of the Breathing Organs.

Its soothing influence upon the irritated lining of the air passages, is due to the fact that its ingredients are the most efficacious pulmonic simples known to medical botany, the basis of the article being the HONEY of the HOREHOUND PLANT, chemically united with the medicinal principle of the ABIES BALSAMEA or Balm of Gilead. There are besides, five other botanic elements which give additional efficacy to the first named two.

Those who have used it say that HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR is not only wonderfully remedial in all cases where the organs of respiration are effected, but also that its action is unusually rapid. A few doses frequently serve to relieve a very obstinate cough. It contains nothing that can disorder the stomach, a fact that can be alleged with truth of but few cough remedies; it has an extremely agreeable flavor, and is sold at a figure which enables those of the most limited means to avail themselves of its virtues.

It is simply madness to trifle with a Cough, Irritation of the Throat, Chest and Lungs travels rapidly, and what is a trifling and easily conquerable difficulty in those organs to-day, may in a few weeks envelope into Bronchitis or Consumption, two diseases which carry more victims to early graves, than any other in the long list of bodily disorders.

A Cough may be fitly termed the Preliminary Stage of Consumption, a malady of which HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR, is the surest known preventive. Those, therefore, who would arrest the progress of the destroyer should delay not a moment to take this CERTAIN remedy.

CHILDREN derive great benefit from its SOOTHING properties, when suffering with the paroxysms of Croup and Whooping Cough. The first named disease is especially desirous in among young children and this reliable remedy should be kept on hand in all households. BUY THE LARGE PACKAGES AND ECONOMIZE.

PRICES, 25 cents and $1 per Bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

GLENN'S

SULPHUR SOAP,

The Leading External Specific

for DISEASES OF THE SKIN and Beautifier of the Complexion.

It renders the Cuticle Healthfully Clear and Smooth, and is the Best Possible Substitute for Expensive Sulphur Baths.

It is an Incomparable Remedy for Bruises, Ulcers, Cuts and every irritable or unhealthy condition of the skin, and is a most serviceable remedial agent and source of speedy relief in cases of Gout and Rheumatism.

It is a most desirable DISINFECTANT OF CLOTHING OR BED LINEN, worn and used by persons suffering from obnoxious or contagious diseases, and is a capital Remedy and Preventative of them, when used as an injection. Persons unwilling to have to resort to Sulphur Springs for bathing purposes.

As an adjunct of the TOILET, it is far more desirable than any Cosmetic, since it does not, like article of that nature, conceal Complexional Blemishes but removes them.

TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, and the like, speedily yield to its clarifying influence; and it is the very best Soap to shave with, because it leaves the skin smooth and free from the irritation produced on a sensitive cuticle, by the application of the razor. It also completely eradicates DANDRUFF.

Housewives declare it to be excellent for washing WOOLEN, LINEN, LACE, and other fabrics, and ladies moving in the best circles of metropolitan and rural society speak of it in the highest terms.

Testimonials pour in from all quarters of the Union upon the Proprietor, many of which have been published in the form of the a neat pamphlet procurable of Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers, the originals being open to public inspection at its MEDICINAL WAREHOUSE, No. 7 SIXTH AVENUE, NEW YORK. The article is moreover indorsed by the Medical fraternity.

Like most other Famous Remedies GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP has been imitated. Soaps without the smallest fraction of remedial efficacy have been and are foisted upon the unsuspecting and unobservant, as genuine Sulphur Soaps, possessing properties identical with or equal to the Great Specific, whom their vendors seek to rival by underhand competition. The public should therefore be careful to inquire for GLENN'S Sulphur Soap by its full name, and see that they get the real article.

All respectable Druggists, Fancy Goods Dealers and Grocers keep GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP, and will on demand for it, supply the GENUINE THING to their customers.

PRICES, 25 cents per Cake. 1 Box, (3 cakes) sent by mail, prepaid, for 70 cents.
