Feminine Videlity.

BOW A WOMAN REEPS A SECRET. " Dorothy," said Ichabod, pale and trembling, to his wife; "Dorothy, I have a secret; and, if I thought you would keep it inviolate, I would not hesitate to reveal it to you; but, oh, Dorothy, woman -"

"Why, Ichabod, it must certainly be a secret of great importance, for you are in a woful agitation. You know, husband, you can place implicit confidence in your wife. Have I ever given you occasion to doubt my fidelity ?"

"Never, never, Dorothy; but the seeret I have to communicate is one that requires more than ordinary faithfulness and prudence to prevent you from divulging it. Oh, dear, I shudder when I think on't !"

"Why, husband, do you know how your lips tremble and your eyes roll? What is the matter? Ichabod! you surely cannot mistrust the confidence of one who vowed at the altar to be faithful to you. Come, unbosom yourself."

"May I rely on your fidelity?"

"Ishabod, you know you may." "Well, then, we are both rulned!undone? - I have committed murder!" "Murder!"

"Yes, murder!-and I have buried him at the foot of a tree in the orchard!"

"Oh, awfull Ichabod! Committed murder! Then indeed we are ruined, and our children with ust"

Ichahod left the room, and Dorothy harried off to a neighbor's. Mrs. Prattle observed achange in Dorothy's countenance, and in her general appearance-so great as to induce her to inquire the cause of it.

"Oh, Mrs. Prattle," said Dorothy, *I am the most miserable woman! I am guined forever!"

"Mercy, Dorothy, how gloomy and distressed you look! What has turned up to make you appear so dejected? Why, how you sigh, woman! Tell me the cause.'

"I wish I might, Mrs. Prattle; but the occasion of my unhappluess is a secret which I am not permitted to divulge."

"Oh, you may tell me, Dorothy; I shall never speak of it again."

"Will you promise never to reveal it to any person living?"

"You know, Dorothy, I never tell secrets."

"Well, Mrs. Prattle-I scarcely dare say it-my husband has committed murder, and burried him at the foot of a tree in the orchard! he told me of it himself. For Heaven's sake don't name it to any one!"

"Murder! Your husband committed murder! Indeed, indeed, Dorothy, you have reason to think yourself ruined ! Poor thing! I pity you with all my heart!"

Dorothy went home weeping and wringing her hands; and Mrs. Prattle, leaving her dough half-kneaded, and her infant crying in the cradle, hastened to hold a tete-a-tete with Mrs. Tellall. Soon after this last confab was ended, the report of Ichabod's having committed murder became general, and the disclosure of the fact was traced to his wife, Dorothy. Process was immediately issued against him by a magistrate, before whom, and in the presence of a multitude of auxious spectators, he gave the following explanation, and pleaded guilty to the charge of murder:

"My object," said Ichabod, "in the course I have pursued, was to test my wife's capability of keeping a secret-1 have committed murder inasmuch as I killed a toad, and buried it at the foot of a tree in my orchard. How far my wife is capable of keeping a secret has been sufficiently proved; and, with respect to the murder, those who feel an interest in it are at liberty to inspect the body."

It is said that the husband had cold dinners for a month, as a punishment for his joke.

A Pen Picture. A few months, or even weeks, since, her pallid countenance was the very type of ruddy kealth—the delight of the school and the pride of the household. She was always welcome wherever duty or pleasure led her. Diligent, punctual, and exemplary, in the class room, obedient and loving at home, she won the hearts of all. But alas! those she won the hearts of all. But alas! those glowing checks and lips are now blanched by consumption. The voice once so enchanting in laugh and song is feeble, husky and broken by a hollow cough. Let us approach her couch and gently take her bloodless hand in our own. Do not shudder because of its feeble, passionless grasp. The hand once so warm and plump shows its bony outlines, while the cords and tortuous veius are plainly manned upon its surface. hand once so warm shd plump shows its bony outlines, while the cords and tortuous veins are plainly mapped upon its surface. The pulse that bounded with repletion, imparting beauty, vivacity, health, and strength, to the system, is delicate to the touch. The enervated heart feebly propels the thin, scanty blood. Must we lose her while vet so young and so fair? No. There is relief. But something more is required than the observance of hygienic rules, for enfeebled nature call for aid and she must have it. Administer this pleasant medicine. It is invigorating. It silays the irritable cough, improves the appetite and digestion, and sends a healthy tingle through her whole being. The blood is curiched, nervous power increased, and the heart bounds with a new impulse. Her face brightens—the blood is returning, her voice is clearer, and her requests are no longer delivered in that peevish, fretful tone so deadening to sympathy. Her step is still faltering, but strength is rapidly returning. Let us take her out in the warm, life-giving sunshine. In a few weeks she will go without our aid and be able to join her companions in their pleasant pastimes and feel her whole being "warmed and expanded into perfect life." The change is so great that we think she is sweeter and nobler than ever before. And the medicine which has wrought this transformation, we look upon as a blessing to humanity, for there are other loved ones to be rescued from the grasp of the listidous destroyer. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Dis-covery has raised her. It will raise others.

WINE FOR EVENING ENTERTAINMENTS .-The Port Grape Wine of Alfred Speer, of Passaic, New Jersey, is generally pronounced the most reliable wine to be obtained, and is now being used by those fashionables and families who are the most choice in the selection of wines for evening entertainments.
