The Carbon Advocate. H. V. MORTHIMER, EDITOR. LEHIGHTON, PA.: SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1878.

-Fifty cases of sumstroke and twenty deaths were reported in St. Louis Sunday. Some of the deaths resulted from substrokes on Friday and Saturday.

-The Cincinnati Commercial publishes crop reports from a number of places in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, showing not only a greater acreage but a larger average product per acre than in any former year.

-The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial recommends the adoption of some horrible, unimagined punishment for wife murder, in order to check the frequency of such crimes It would even revive the bratal custom of burying suicides at the crossroads with a stake driven through the heart.

It is stated that, instead of canvasting the departments for funds to be used in the opproaching elections, the Secretary of the Republican Congressional Committee has caused a circular to be distributed among the clerks and other employees, informing them that an "arrangement has been made with the treasurer" to be at a specified bank from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoons to receive contributions from those who have not yet made any. L'any of the clerks, it appears, have refused to respond to the call for cash on the ground that they are not politicians.

-The Supreme Court having sustained the action of the lower court in convicting Blasius Pistorius, the Catholic priest, of murder in the first degree, the necessary papers have been filled with the Board of Pardons asking for his liberation. The case will be heard on the first Thuesday in August, and his friends have strong hopes that the Board will recommend commuta tion of the death sentence to imprisonment for life. The prisoner himself has requested, through his brother, that he either be hanged or pardoned unconditionally.

-N. Y. Witness : The hallucination among the workingmen, if it is really among them and not merely confined to speculators and demagogues, that a depreciated currency would benefit them, is the most extraordi nary mistake of the present day. It would benefit spectators in real estate and all who owe money, but it would tell against every man who lives by his labor and whose in terest it is to get money of full value in pay-ment. The fact that all were apparently. prosperous when money was greatly deprecinted was a mere coincidence. The reason of the apparent prosperity was the great Government expenditure. We say apparent, for everything was dear in proportion as the currency became less value than gold, as everything is now cheap in proportion to the approximation to a gold standard. If depreciated legal-tender paper would make a country prosperous, these United States should have been remarkably so whilst the " Continental money" was running down to mothing, and so should the Confederate States whilst their legal tender currency was only worth ten cents or one cent on the dollar in gold. St. Domingo and Cuba and many other countries have a greatly depreciated currency, but this does not help them at all in the way of prosperity. So far from those who advocate a sound currency on a gold basis being inimical to workingmen, the case is just the reverse.

Points in Politics.

-Throckmorton of Texas, favors the repeal of the Resumption law and all the kindred projects of the inflation party. -Congressman Finley, of Ohio, thinks that Grant and Thurman will be opposing of the republican army, and that the boys will wheep it up to him."

-The major opinion of the bankers of Cincinnati who have been questioned by the Commercial seems to be that practical resumption will arrive before 1879. Some of them favor an immediate step in that direction, and others believe that the decisive date should be at least hastened by some months. A few are less sanguine and are even timid.

-The democratic convention in Ohio, which unsuccessfully ballotted six hundred times for a Congressional nomination, was, it is said, "one of the most highly respectable bodies of men that could have been called together," and its proceedings, though so long drawn out, were lamblike in deco-Tutit.

The Treaty of Peace Signed.

The Congress, which held its first sitting at the Radiiwill Palace, Berlin, on the 13th of last month, closed its labors Saturday with the signature of the final treaty. The provisions of the important document having been, from time to time, given to the public, and the Anglo-Turkish Convention being an accomplished fact, public attention will, for the moment, he centered upon the details of the event which took place Saturday at Berlin and upon the characteristic rapidity with which England is preparing to modernize the island of Cyprus, which has fallen to her share in the general scratable for the Sick Man's territory. The signing of the treaty was marked with high solemnity, the display of brilliant uniforms, glittering orders, stately ceremonial and lofty courtesy. And it begins " in the name of Almighty God." There were general and particular congratulations, and at the banquet in the evening the Crown Prince of Germany pledged the health of all the plenipotentiaries and all the signatory Powers. In these gratulations we may, in the interest of peace, join; but somehow behind all the glitter and the joy there lurks an unquict spectre. It is very avident that for some time to come peace is evident that for some time to come passe is secured, but there is much grunbling, and that not alone on the part of the conquered, whose grumbling would not and never does much matter. Russia is, doubtless, tolerably satisfied, and England has made the best of a difficult position. Austria is not thoroughly pleased; Italy is angry and France is far from glad. Russia and England are nearer than ever to each other, and that is not the best guarantee in the world that peace will be enduring or that treaties will hold. It may seem ungenerous to hunt up the spectre while the glasses are clinking and the effu-siveness is general, but we are fortunately may seem ungenerous to built up the spectre while the glazese are clinking and the effu-siveness is general, but we are fortunately lookers-on only. To Earl Beaconsfield, however, the his-tory of the day is unalloyed triumph. It will not surprise us now to hear of the fam-ous "Oriental imagination" when the holst-ing of the British flag on the new possession announces that under his Ministry England has advanced from Malta to Cyprus, from one pest of the Crusaders to another, on the road to Jerusalem. It is rich, besides, with such memories as he prizes. Phenicians, Greeks, Egyptians—old Pharaolis and later Ptolemies—Persiana. Romaus, Crusaders, Venctiums, Ottomans pass before the eyes in many garbs and many civilizations. From the Egyptian to the Venctian, what a range of conquerors and possessors! They tred upon each other's gods. We may get a glimpse of what it was in the dim ages by a walk armid Cesnola's discutomed sculptores. of conquerors and possessors? They from upon each other's gods. We may get a glimpse of what it was in the dim ages by a walk armid Centola's disentombed sculptures; we see it vividly later on in the Cruades, and shall we dismiss as unhistoric the story told by the Bard of Avon of how the Moor, Othelio, loved and doubted there? The Venus of Cyprus vanishes into Desdemona, and now the the Turk rocodes before the Englishman. They will run ruitrads through the island, and joint stock com-panies will build hotels, and the Cockneys will make excursions to ther, and the wine of Cyprus—the rare vintage of the, Com-mandory—will be fabricated in White-chapel. It will be a stopping place for these going to take the Euphrates Valley Bail-road. What could be a more futting period to a worderful encer than this? It is the apotheosis of Disraeli, Captured by a in a wongeriul career than this? It is the apotheosis of Disraeli. Captured by a shrewd trick, it will be held with a tight hand, and while the Prime Minister makes his glowing mind-pictures out of the past and the future, there is a sound of the steam whistle in the present which is not romance but progress.—New York Hers/d.

-The Conl Trade.

There was a very quiet week in the coal trade last week, made the more manifest in the fact that it was the second, and, as is hoped, the last week of coal suspension by the Schuylkill coal region this year. It is the senartic contrepond they year. It is understood that there is a fair supply of orders for coal in the market, and the prices of coal are well maintained. There is no just apprehension that prices will be relax-ed—indeed, it is confidently expected that the prices for August will be fixed at an adthe prices for August will be fixed at an ad-vance on these for the current month. The collicries of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company will resume opera-tions to-day, and it is quite probable that there will be no other stoppages during the balance of the year. An improved demand for coal standily hence to the end of the year is confidently looked for, as it is now almost universally conceed that prices are at their universally concoded that prices are at their lowest. There is at present no prospect of a ruptare of friendly relations between any of the several interests connected with the coal trade. The threat which is sometimes thrown trade. The threat which is sometimes thrown out, that those who are now using anthra-cite may be induced to change to bitamin-ous, is one that has lost its force—there is really no such thing in contemplation. To make the requisite change for barning the hard and soft coals is quite too costly to be strempted from any slight cause.—Ledger, Monday.

-The Washington Post, referring to the the Watterson-Hewitt dispute, says that it hardly compensates the democratic party for the loss of the Presidency to prove anybody either an ass or a liar.

The republicans of Indiana feel the want of a leader since Morton died. The democrate are hopeful of gaining three or four of the Congressional district which in 1876 gave majorities to the other side.

-The Pottsville Miners' Journal says that Colonel James & Nutting ought to be again nominated to represent the Thirteenth district. It claims that he was fraudulently deprived of his seat in the last Congress.

-Alexandria (Va.) Gazette: "If the domocratic majority in the present Congress had tried during the late session to give the radicals reasons for obtaining a majority in the next House, they could not have succoeffed better than they did."

-The latest prognostication from the First Congressional district of Maine is that if the democratic greenbackers nominate General S. J. Anderson the republican groenhackers will nominate Mr. E. H. Gove, After all there may be only two aides to the fight

-Burlington Hambeye .- "It is not unlikely that General William D. Washburn, the youngest brother of the great office holding family, will be elected to Congress from Minnesota this year. As he is a great mill lar wo hops he will prove to be the flower builter.
