Charity of Speech.

Charity of speech is as divine a thing as charity of action. The tongue that speaketh no evil is as lovely as the hand which giveth

To judge no one harshly, to misconceive no man's motives, to believe things are what they seem to be until they are proved otherwise, to temper judgment with mercy-sure ly this is quite as good as to build up churches, to establish asylums and to found colleges. Unkind seards do as much harm as unkind deeds; many a heart has been wounded beyoud cure by words; many a reputation has been stabbed to death by a few little words. They have separated famililies, parted husbands and wives, and broken the ties between dearest friends.

There is a charity which consists in withholding words, in keeping back harsh judgments, in abstaining from speech, if to speak is to condemn. Such charity hears the tale of alander, but repeats it not; it will not be the one to help the ball to roll. It listens in silence but forbears comment, and locks the unpleasant secret up in the very depths of its heart.

While the busy conscious world is wagging its tongue, charity sits dumb amid the clatter, refraining from passing judgment on that of which it has no proof, and which, even if it had, would prefer throwing the mantle of silence over the unpleasant mutter. Could it be possible for slander to make the headway it does, if reticence, instead of promulgation, was the universal rule? Could report be furnished with the hundred wings it has if there were not so many tongues wagging? Silence can still rumor, it is speech that keeps it alive and lends it vigor. It is to the heart that is kind and gentle that charity flies and broods quietly over it with the peacefulness of the dove. There it makes its home, and by the word withheld and the kindly word outspoken, we have the sign that the dove of peace is nestling in the

The heart which is filled with bitternes will give vent to it in words. It sees nothing bright nor beautiful, because it looks through a clouded vision. Words are a pretty good test of temper and habit of thought. As "to the pure all things are pure," so to the malicious and ill-tempered all things are black, unlovely, and of ill re-Words are the signs of thoughts, and if the thoughts be sweet and good the words will be kind and gentle, free from malice and all uncharitableness. Therefore, by our words do we proclaim what we are; the good fairy, dropping dismonds from her mouth, or the evil fairy, dropping toads.

-While the last act of the play of " May Cody" was being performed in Ford's Opera House, at Baltimore, Monday night, "Buffalo Bill " fired a pistol which happened to be loaded with ball cartridge and shot a youth named Michael Gardner, who was in the upper gallery. The bullet entered the upper part of Gardner's chest, inflicting a serious wound. The accident was not known until after the audience disposed, when Gardner descended from the gallery with some com-panions.

-From all we are able to learn, the ticket placed in nomination by the Democracy last Monday, gives general satisfaction to the members of the partylin this end of the county. Dr. J. G. Zern, for Assemby, is well and favorably known at this end of the county, and will certainly run ahead of his ticket. Michael Cassidy, of Nesqueboning, is not so well known; he is a young man a school teacher, having graduated at Millerstown. His strength at this end will develop as the cauves progresses. Chas. Meendsen, of Lower Towamensing, the nomince for Associate Judge, is one of the strongest men in this end of the county, and will no doubt be elected, as he should be, if honesty and capability go for anything. For County Treasurer the name of Max Schweibinz, is quite popular through the county, and his prospects, now, are good for an election. Bernard Phillips, who is now serving his first term of Register and Recorder, and is the nominee for a second term, has thade a number of friends during this term, and it will require the combined efforts of Greenbackers and Republicans to shake him from his position. For Commissioners J. J. Gallagher and Josiah Andrews are said to be just the men for the position, but as we are not acquainted with the gentlemen, we can scarcely judge of their strength. Dr. P. D. Keiser, of Mahoning, for Coroner, and H. A. Beltz, of Lehighton, and Samuel Motzer, square Democratic ticket. - Incomplete returns from Maine indicate that Connor, the Republican candidate for Governor, lacks about 6,500 votes of a majority; that the Republicans will have a majority in the State Senate, and that the Greenbackers and Democrats will certainly have a majority, exactly how large is not yet known, in the House. There being no election of Governor by the people, the latter body is required to send up to the Senate the names of two of the four highest candidates on the popular vote and the Senate must then choose one of the two Governor. It is naturally expected that the House will send up the names of Smith Greenback, and Garcelon, Democrat. Three Republican Congressmen, Reed, Frye, and Lindsay, are reelected; but Llewellyn Powers is badly beaten in the Fourth District by Ladd, Greenbacker, and the figures from the Fifth District continue to indicate that the Greenback candidate Murch, has laid out Eugene Hale.

of Summit Hill, for Auditors, completes the ticket. Altogether it is claimed to be a good

LATER.-Returns from all but five Assem bly Districts in Maine, indicate the election of 65 Republicans, 2 " Democrats supporting the Republicans," 21 regular Democrats, and 58 Greenbackers. This will give the opposition a majority of 9 on joint bollot, but it is a question whether some of the hard money Democrats may not affiliate with the Republicans. A charge of fraud in the Fourth Ward of Portland makes a chance to change 4 votes to the Republicans, whichwould ensure them a majority on joint ballot, unless the 2 "Democrat-Republicans" vote with their party for Governor. The election of Murch, Greenbacker, to Congress over Eugene Hale, in the Fifth District, is conceded by 600 plurality.

-The yellow fever plague in the South is only abating where it has killed or driven away the greater part of the population, and in most parts its ravages continue to increase The timid and selfish continue to flee from the seene of danger, whilst the generous, self-denying, and courageous continue to hasten to aid the perishing. Many of these heroes of both sexes have fallen, and some are falling every day; but others take their places, just as the heroes of the battle field close up their fast falling ranks. This national calamity-for when one member of the body suffecs all suffer with it-has also evoked a noble spirit of charity, including, as that term does, love and liberality; and offections are being everywhere made for the relief of the plague-stricken cities. It is to be remembered that in those cities all businesses are in abeyance but those of the pastor, the physician, the nurse, and the undertaker. There is neither work nor wages nor food for the laboring people, unless supplied from without; and this is being rapidly and well done.

The Statue of "Liberty"-A Grand Gift of France to the United States-French Sculpture-A trial of American Ploughs-Useful and Ornamental Employment of Terra Cutta de., de. Panis, Aug. 27th, 1878.

Paris, Aug. 27th, 1878.

The head of the new Colossus, "Liberty" which is in future to light all nations into the harbor of New York, has produced a profound impression on the visitors to the Exhibition. It is placed on the left-hand side of the grounds of the Champ de Marelooking towards the Seine. The lace is very fine, somewhat resembling that of the Apallo Belvidere, and the effect from the other side of the grounds, two thousand feet off, or so, a remarkably grand. For the first time is Belviders, and the effect from the other side of the grounds, two thousand feet off, or so, is remarkably grand. For the first time a madern sculptor has achieved that in which the Greeks seemed to find no difficulty what-ever, namely, the necessary exaggoration of parts to produce effect at a great distance. M. Bartholdi has had a great success so far. The astenishment of the mass of visitors is amusing and their presence serves to bring out to an observer the full grandeur of the work by comparison. A staircase is estabwork by comparison. A staircase is estab-ished within the head, and bundreds of lished within the head, and hundreds of visitors ascend every hour, while thousands wait their turn. The staircase leads up to the eyes of the figure which serves as win-dows. From head to foot the Colossus will measure just about one hundred feet, half the height of the Monument of London; the arm which holds a "flambeau," that is to say, the lantern of the lighthouse, measures forte feet, but the details read even more furly feet; but the details read even more currously. Thus, the arms measure nearly seven feet in diameter, the hand is more than fourteen feet long, and twenty inches in diameter; lastly the finger nail measures more than fourteen inches by twelve. The more than fourteen means by tweeve. The platform which is to surround the lantern, will measure nearly four feet in width and will hold ten persons, and allow space for them to circulate without difficulty. The head is surrounded by rays which are to be illuminated. The Colossus is to stand on a base erected The Colossus is to stand on a base creeted on a rock, the base containing the keepers residence and the accessories of a lighthouse. This base will measure more than eighty feet high, so that the top of the head of the figure will be little short of two hundred feet from the ground. The whole is formed of sheets of copper repeases and bolted together, and the quantity of metal required will be thirty tons; while the iron framework, including the staircare within the statue, will weigh about seventy tons more. The statue of the Republic, a grand seated future, by Clesinger, which is placed in the

Sculpture is certainly in the ascendant just now in France; last year a sculptor.
M. Chapu, took one of the Grande Prix d' Houseur and the Prix de Salon, a travelling Homeur and the Priz de Salon, a travelling scholarship, and this year the Salon juries have awarded both of the Grende Priz, as well as the Priz de Salon to sculptors—M. M. Barrias, Delaplanche and Hector Lemaire. The group in bronze which won M. Mercis the Priz de Homeur in 1874, is perhaps the most remarkable example of the sculptor's art produced in France since the last Publisher. sculptor's art produced in France since the last Exhibition; it consists of two figures, an angel bearing the dead body of a warrior, with froken sword still clutched in his hand, with wings dustretched, and feet just about to quit the earth; the figure of the angel is remarkably noble, and admirably posed. This work stands at present in the central garden, in the Champ de Mars building, but it is to be erected in the Square Moutholon.

A trial of ploughs on a large scale recently took place with the authorization of M. Krantz, at Petit Bourg, near Ivry on the Lyons Line, on the farms of M. Decauville, who worthily inherits from his father the title of one of the most eminent agriculturists in France. M. Decauville is a large purchaser of American agricultural implements, and habitually uses on his property both steam-ploughs, as well as steam-rollers, scarifiers, and harrows of American manufacture. All these were in full work at the trail, and nearly monopolized the attention trial, and nearly monopolized the attention of the wondering peasantry, who flocked in great numbers from neighboring communes. The rapidity and neatness with which steam-The rapidity and neatness with which steamploughs do their work make spectators marvel that any others can be used, but the prime cost of machinery is a great consideration to small farmers. There were plenty of more old-fashioned specimens of agricultural labor to be criticised: four-horse and two-horse ploughs; four-ox and two-exploughs; and one plough with six heavy horses and seven men, whose performance was pronounced a sad waste of labor, especially as a pair of oxen side by side with one man seemed to plough quite as deep and good a furrow. The jurors, among whom were the Senators Ferny and Foucher de Careil, who both are stated to be land-owners in the department, will not give their cas in the department, will not give their verdict for some days. Some Arab chiefs, wearing many decorations, and three Chi-ness of high rank walked after the ploughs and partock of a breakfast given by M. Decauville.

One of the most striking characteristics of the Exhibition buildings is the employment of terra-cotta and enamelled earthenware in their decorations. This employment meets the eye almost everywhere. The front and back of the building on the Champ de Mars have series of pilasters decorated with square slabs of brightly colored faience, the orna-mentation consisting of two designs alterna-ting with each other, one composed princi-pally of birds, the other of fruits and foilage. pally of birds, the other of traits and totage.

One of the most remarkable colors in these states is a fine bright red, and this is said to have been discovered during the experiments made, with the view to the production have been discovered during the experiments made, with the view to the production of the slabs in question. Another application of decorative pettery is to be seen around the doors of the pavilion of the City of Paris, in the enclosed garden in the cen tre of the Champ de - arr, where is a double border of large square slabs, terra-cotta and faience, in reality I believe only imitations in plaster. But the most remarkable application is that on the fronts of the pavilions of the fine art galleries which face the doors of the city pavilion. There are works of great magnitude, each front consists of three arches, the central one only pierced below with a door. Over the door, and on each side of the northern porch, are figures of poetry, painting, and other arts, larger than life, and three landscapes of great area, with a grand expanse of sea, and villages on the cliffs, architectural motives sandst grand trees, decorative colars, and other elements.
All this is executed in large tiles and with much success. The blues and greens in the coloring are remarkably fine, and the firing shows year few fulls, while the tiles are secoloring are remarkably fine, and the firing shows very few faults, while the tiles are so flat and regular, that the joints are only ap-parent at a very short distance. Alfina.

TWO NOTED GRAVE HORBERS." Our rerders will remember the account given in these columns of the robbing of the grave of the Hon. Scott Harrison, in Ohio, last May, the body being found in the dissecting-room of the Ohio Medical College. Public indignation justly brands any man as a scoundrel who will rob the grave of the dead. But there are two noted grave robbers in this country, so far from being the subjects of the people's wrath, are universally lauded for their virtues. The reason is plain. While the former class steal the dead bodies of our loved ones to submit them to odies of our loved ones to submit them to bodies of our loved ones to submit them to the dissecting knife, these only rob the graves to restore the living victims to our hearts and homes. Their names—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pur-gativo Pellets—are household words the world over. The Golden Medical Discovery cures consumption, in its early stages, and all bronchial, throat, and lung affections; Pleasant Purgative Pellets are the most val-nable laxative and cathartic. uable laxative and cathartic.
