A few years ago F. F. Brightly, of the Philadelphin bar, son of the compiler of a digest of the law of this State, married Mary Emeline Howard, daughter of William B. Mann, who was for ten or twelve years District Attorney of Philadelphia, and who for the last three or four years has been Prothonotary of the Courts of Common Pleas. The marriage is said to have been happy until the tempter came in the person of a young New Yorker, well known in fashionable society. The rest of the story is told by young New Yorker, well known in lablion-able society. The rest of the story is told by the plea filed a day or two ago by the Rus-band in the United States Circuit Court. This document positively charges that Gouv-erneur Kortright, of New York, has been criminally intimate with Mary Emeline Howard, wife of F. F. Brightly, the plaintiff. The document charges that Kortright has ed a general feeling of insecurity (only too well founded, as the sequet will show) among the peaceful mercantile inhabitants.
