From the County Seat.
-Says a Reading, Pa., dispatch: The elegant mansion of Rev. M. A. Dewolf Howe, Episcopal Bishop of the diocese of Central Pennsylvania, was entered by a gang of thieves Monday night and plundered of clothing and silverware. The thieves then hid the clothes and jewelry and had a feast in the parlor, not forgetting the wine cellar. While ransacking the house one of the lady occupants of an upper chamber was heard by the thieves and she was locked in her chamber by them. Three arrests of parties implicated have been made.

From the County Seat.
-The citizens of Catawung were deeply shocked on Saturday afternoon by the announcement of the sudden death of their aged and highly esteemed fellow townsman, Mr. Jonas Heary, while in the clothing store of Mr. Hill. He had a short time before left his home to go to a barber shop for a shave, and on the way stepped into the clothing store for a little chat, and where he soon after dropped dead. He was a native of Scotland, and had resided in this country for many years. He had given no evidences of illness or prostration before, and was seemingly in the enjoyment of his usual good health.

From the County Seat.
-The upmost topic in the northern part of Wayne county is the discovery of a vein of anthracite coal on the land of W. W. and C. D. Mumford in Starbuck township. In the early part of last month the owners of the land employed James Hoyer, a practical coal miner from the Wyoming coal region to test the land. He began operations in a rocky ravine two miles from Starbuck village. On Friday last, at the depth of twenty feet, he struck a vein of anthracite two feet thick. This he says is the certain indication of a thick, paying vein beneath. The coal found is of excellent quality.

From the County Seat.
-A CHIEF MELLOW ARRESTED.—Officer H. Brelsford, Thursday afternoon, arrested a man named Patrick Murray, who lives near the Lehigh, and who is a laborer. He was arrested on the charge of being drunk, and for some time has shown symptoms of serious mental derangement. He was charged with being drunk and disturbing the peace. He was arrested on Monday. Of course it was purely accidental, and is another sad accident resulting from the rapid increase of the population in our rural or legal remedy. The last is "duck on the rock" is a poor game for boys to amuse themselves at, and no wise and discerning parent will engage in it. It is a game that is not only unbecomingly, but is a disgrace to the name of a Christian.
