Packer. The convenient and odd but handsome and cozy market wagon used by Dildine Snyder, Parryville, was built by them, and, we believe after a pattern peculiarly their own. They now have a patent pending in the U. S. Patent office on a sidebar and spring to be used in what is known as the Brewster buggy. The patent device prevents the vehicle from hanging or ca-eening when used by a single occupant. In the winter they manufacture and keep in stock sleighs of the various patterns, intended either for pleasure or business. Of their Portland Cutters, the handsome one recently made to order for Dr. N. B.
