Lehighton, and is a leading member of the Lutheran church.

What the fact that Mr. Clauss is a "leading member of the Lutheran church" has got to do with the failure, we cannot see. During the past few years—years of financial panic—men of all classes of politics and denominations of Christian churches have had to succomb to the pressure, but we do not think the church to which they may have belonged has ever before been brought into question, nor was there need for it on this eccasion. We opine the members of the Lutheran church, as a rule, are as honest Lutheran church, as a rule, are as honest Lutheran church, as a rule, are as honest and christian-like as the members of any other church, and to bring the church into this matter now was just as impolitic on the part of the editor of the Gazette, as nearly

As to the Aprocate being a medium of apology for crime, he cannot prove his assertions in any one instance, and the writer knows it. There is nothing in our article of last week which he can by any means construe in that direction. As to our "losing a great deal in every way," the writer we think is again out of his latitude.

We have substantial reasons for saying that the Carnos Apvocare is acceptable to the people, and this fact should be sufficient for the writer in the Gazette: since Novemclusion, we have not apologized, or attempted to justafy T.
