INTELLIGENT EMPLOYES.

There are two kinds of intelligent hands or help, as every observant employer is doubtless aware, who has had much experience in hiring the services of others. The one is ready and skillful in doing the work given to them, and are usually classed under the head of "good hands." When they have accomplished the work assigned them, or have put in the time allotted, they have no other concern about it. The interest of their employer does not claim a second thought. They have fulfilled their contract in a literal sense, and whether good or ill befide their employer's business concerns them but little. They do not comprehend the importance it is to them that their employer's business should prosper and continue successful. Their intelligence does not reach so far as that or discover the close affinity of interests between the employed and employer.

There is another class of workmen equally skillful, who possesses not only the knowledge of how to deftly, but have an intelligent idea of the necessity of having the work done. The latter among those whom we hire, are the most rare and valuable. They are the men and women who make themselves a necessity to employers, or employers soon persuade themselves to think so. They take a portion of the load or care off of the shoulders of the master, which is by far the heaviest load among life's burdens. This kind of help soon mounts to the top round of the ladder, is not unfrequently offered a share in the business, is sure of the best and most lucrative place at least, in the gift of the employer. Such employes retain situations whoever else may be discharged. And all because they cultivate the unselfish faculty or an intelligent comprehension of the necessity of having the work done in proper time and in the best manner. Such men possess a reserved capital fully as valuable as money, which the employers of other men's labor are quick to discover and generally ready to offer for it its full value. The employe who comprehends the importance of the work he is about, stands nearest the man whose busy brain plans employment for hundreds of hands which would otherwise be idle, and makes possible the bread which is to fill the stomachs of many more.

—Just after the destruction, by fire, of Pardee Hall (Lafayette College), Easton, Pa., there was a good deal of scolding against the insurance companies having policies on the building, because of an alleged undue scaling down of the amounts payable by the companies. The aggregate of the policies was $120,000, while the sum paid was but $100,309. This was the basis of complaint. But there is another side to the subject. The sum awarded by the insurance companies was the result of a complete and fair survey of the property destroyed—the College, as well as the companies, being represented on the survey; the award fully covered the actual loss; and it is entirely satisfactory to the Trustees composing the Building Committee of the College. On the 7th of this month, the committee, Ario Pardee, Chairman, "resolved that the Trustees of Lafayette College, represented by the Building Committee, are entirely satisfied with the manner of adjustment and the liberality of the award of the insurance companies in the settlement of the loss sustained by the burning of Pardee Hall."

—Embezzlers of money belonging to the Treasury of the United States, says an exchange, should not afterwards enlist in the United States army. That was the mistake committed by Peter G. Clarke, an embezzling postmaster of Alabama, who, having spent his ill-gotten gains, enlisted as a private soldier. The Secretary of War has found a section of the Revised Statutes under which private Clarke cannot draw any pay until he has made good the deficit in his former accounts. He cannot resign, either, but must work out at the rate of $16 a month the amount of his stealings. This will require two years' service in the ranks, with nothing but army rations to live on, and presumably no credit at the sutler's store.

—There is much excitement among the Mormons at Salt Lake City, arising out of the imprisonment of Reynolds for Polygamy, the murder of Standing, the Mormon preacher, in Georgia, and the imprisonment of the trustees of the Brigham Young estate. Threatening letters have been published in the leading church paper, and inflammatory speeches have been made by Mormon leaders. The report that the State Department intends to send a circular to foreign countries in reference to Mormon immigration, is ridiculed. It would be absurd they say, to suppose that any European Government would establish an inquisition to determine the religious faith of emigrants, or their intention to become polygamists.

—Jesse H. Drake, a prominent citizen of Nash county, N. C., who died on the 8th inst., requested that his will should be read on the day of his death. In accordance with this death-bed request the will was opened and it was found that he had left his whole fortune, estimated at from $10,000 to $50,000, to three of his former slaves, Calvin Drake, Aaron Drake, Judah Drake, for their lives, with reversal to their children. His will was written on the 20th of March, 1877. He leaves all his estate, real and personal, to them, and says: "They have been my faithful slaves, and have remained with me since their freedom, nursing and caring for me in my old age, and I desire them to share my gratitude."

—Reports from all parts of Northern New Jersey, received in Morristown, indicate a decided revival in the iron trade. Mines, furnaces and forges, idle for the past six years, are reopened, and, in many of them, work is pushed night as well as day. New mines are opening, and new furnaces built, notably a Chester and Port Oram. The only place in the entire region which shows no sign of revival is Boonton.

—There has been no material change in the aspect of the yellow fever epidemic at Memphis during the last week, and no spread of the disease to other places. One peculiar feature of the epidemic the present season is that the blacks are attacked as well as the whites. Some days the cases among the negroes have been more numerous than among the whites, and the deaths are about in equal proportion.

—The Philadelphia newspapers say that Mr. Gowen, President of the Reading Railroad Company, sailed from Liverpool for home last Saturday in the Arizona. His arrival may be, therefore, expected early next week. It is said that he will bring with him $5,000,000 borrowed in London for his company.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

"Morley's" Letters from New York.

NEW YORK, August 13, 1879.

MIDSUMMER IN THE METROPOLIS.

Doubtless many of your readers will gasp and call for a fan at the bare mention of a Metropolitan August—but let them save their pity for more needy objects! The tenement-house population indeed suffers with summer heat, as it does with wintry cold, and with foulness, and disease, and endless suffering through all the year. These are the accompaniments of extreme poverty almost everywhere—God pity its poor victims over all its beautiful world! But the average dweller in Gotham I am not speaking of; and he gets about as much comfort during these hot days and nights as in any part of the year.

For a

PALTRY HALF DOLLAR

he can take a sail down this matchless Bay past Sandy Hook, past the Highlands of Navesink, the last land a traveler sees in leaving our shores, and the first to greet his return; and on, ploughing the blue-green waves of the Atlantic Ocean, thirty miles in all to the great Iron Ocean Pier at Long Branch; spend seven hours on the beach, and take thirty miles of Ocean and Bay back again to his city home. No such sixty miles for fifty cents is offered anywhere that I know of.

Or for like sum, he can go by boat or rail to Coney Island, once the haunt of monte-men, gamblers and roughs, but now the most delightful of family resorts, whose visitors often number 125,000 in a single day.

is a low, narrow strip of sand lying along Long Island facing the ocean. It is six or seven miles long and about half a mile wide and is separated from the main land only by a sluggish, narrow stream that a good horse could jump across if the banks were firm. The sea front is divided into four different localities or settlements, almost, and in some cases, quite touching each other, and is known as "Manhattan Beach," "Brighton Beach," "West Brighton Beach" (formerly "Cable's,") and the "West End" or "Mike Norton's." The latter is the oldest, and is kept by ex-Senator "Mike" Norton, and is still the favorite resort for people of a certain class. Here the buildings are rough and low, like most of their habitues, though the beach is very fine. A mile above comes West Brighton Beach, where hotels and summer gardens are thick, and the big Centennial Observatory offers a fifty mile view of Old Ocean; the Aquarium exhibits its wonders of the deep; the big three story Ocean Pier offers its manifold attractions, and German bands, boulard your cars at every turn. Two huge railroad depots stand here from whose wide doors the crowd pour steadily outward from morn till dewy eve, and where, till midnight, every portal is choked with throngs wending their way homeward again.

A marine, narrow guage railway now runs from Norton's Point to West Brighton, bringing crowds who prefer the sail down the Bay to the all-rail route. Half a mile further east stands the hotel Brighton on "Brighton Beach." It is a huge building of handsome design, finished throughout in Eastlake, with piazzas 50 to 75 feet broad running the whole length. Hundreds of people sit on these magnificent piazzas at supper, while the band from a big stand directly in front discourses such music as you would pay a couple of dollars in winter to hear at Steinway's or the Academy, while often ten to fifteen thousand people crowd the planked walks around. The Brighton Beach railway has its depot directly in the hotel. It would be presumption to attempt a description of this beautiful scene at night, with the long lines of brilliant lights, the dense masses of ever moving people, the shouts of merry bathers in the roaring surf, the sweet music, and, above all, the powerful rays of the electric light, shedding a brightness almost like that of the sun over all the scene.

Manhattan Beach lies about half a mile still further East, and here stands the hotel made famous by Mr. Corbin's declaration that "no Jews are wanted." Like Brighton it is very large, very elegant and very lucrative. A room to be secured in either of these monstrous houses must be engaged weeks ahead. But even their immense profit from regular boarders at $4.50 a day is dwarfed by the income from the tens of thousands who visit each of these beaches daily.

Coney Island is a mushroom. Hotels are going up wi h a rapidity that would seem incredible, and all are fairly coining money. Next year we shall have a big Seaside Park just beyond the Manhattan Beach and goodness only knows what else. Brighton has a race course now, and Manhattan rivals it with a balloon, while West Brighton, besides the Aequarium and observatory, boasts a variety theatre.

ROCKAWAY

still further East, up n another island, draws its thousands and maintains a whole fleet of fine steamers which ply between it and the city.

But I'm less than half through the story of our Summer comforts, and the admonition comes to "cut it short." I will! MORLEY.

Our Letter from Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 11.

The Sunday which rose upon the city to-day has had a touch of autumn in it, though midsummer has scarcely passed. It was, however, but a faint trace—a foreshadowing of things to come. There was not a strange voice in any of our pulpits. The riverside abounded in excursions. The parks, never greener, drew crowds, and Washington was quiet and content. The hills around the District cities are all being cut down, baked into bricks and built up again in their new form as sumptuous and convenient dwellings. The savage dug a hole in the hill and dwelt there, but the civilized man puts the hill in a hole or grinds it up into clay and presses it out into bricks for dwelling. The entire hills of the city were long ago converted into rows of two-story houses, and still the brickyards climb the hills on the edge of the city, and as the hilltops sink the clay rises into houses. The great hole in the northwest and southeast sections of the city that formerly dominated the surrounding neighborhood are being rapidly "brought to grade" by busy brickmakers, and soon the city will have swallowed up its last hilltop and assimilated it into a well-built street. The home supply of clay needed, however, is far from sufficient, and for years the Virginia hills, across the Potomac, have been carted, in bricks, across the Long Bridge. Washington has sent out a brickmaking colony to occupy the nearest hills, and at Fort Runyon, the first mainland that the road reaches after having crossed the Long Bridge and Alexander's Island, is a populous village of brick kilns, and shows the capital a column of smoke by day and of fire by night. These kilns are surrounded by factories that use the most improved machinery, and employ many hands.

One of the most affecting incidents of the times is the interchange of epistolary compliments between Hon. Carl Shurz and His Excellency Spotted Tail, chief the Brule Sioux. It appears that old Spot has detected certain faults in the civil service of his administration and desiring the assistance of an expert to rectify these, naturally turns his attention to the most celebrated professor of civil service reform now living. It affords one great pleasure that Mr. Shurz has accepted the invitation of his red brother, and will shortly proceed to reform the civil service of the Brule Sioux. There is no information as to what method of reformation it is proposed to pursue whether he has some special plan, or intends to proceed in the regular way, at $900 per night and found. Probably the Secretary himself has not yet decided upon a course of procedure, but intends to be governed by the exigencies of the case as they may present themselves on the spot. All that can be said at present is, that in case he elects to proceed in the regular way much of his precept must be lost, owing to the poverty of the Sioux language in technical terms. It is also expected that he will visit the New Idria Mining Co., in whose favor he recently rendered a decision worth over $10,000,000, leaving poor McGarahan in the cold.

One of the Republican Congressional Committeemen who has been spending a week in Maine, returned here to-day. He says that Senator Blaine reports that he has his party in excellent working order, and for the first time since the canvass was begun he feels sure that the Republicans will carry the State. Blaine has dropped the question of finance, or at least has made it a secondary place, and is running the campaign on the old war issues, especially in regard to the question of State rights. His estimate of the vote is that there will be 135,000 votes cast. Of this number he gives 70,000 to the Republican candidate, 50,000 to the Greenbacker, and 15,000 to the Democratic candidate. In reaching these figures he thus estimates that there were 11,000 Republicans who did not go to the polls last year who will vote this year; that there are 13,000 Republicans who voted the Greenback ticket last year who have returned to the Republican party, and will at the coming election vote the ticket of that party.

Rapid progress is being made in the construction of the new building for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, at the corner of Fourteenth and B streets, southwest, and it already gives promise of being one of the finest specimens of brick architecture to be found anywhere. The structure at its present stage is an interesting subject for study. The site chosen is a commanding one. The spaciousness of the grounds and those of the Washington Monument, and the parks south of the White House, give the building an unobstructed view to the north nearly half a mile in a direct line. To the east lie the grounds of the Agricultural Department, the Smithsonian Institute, and the Botanical Gardens, forming a continuous ornamental park between the Potomac and the Capitol, fully a mile in length. The walls of the new building are more than three feet thick. Seen from within, with the skeleton of massive iron girders and supports, they seem designed to last forever. The chief feature of interest is found in the elaborate system of outside ornamentation. A water-line of gray granite and a continuous sill of the same material mark the floors of the first and second stories. The window sills and a portion of the ornamental work around the entrances are of Brown stone All the remainder is of brick, in two colors, but moulded into a great variety of patterns. Each story has its special pattern of ornamentation, in pressed brick, while over the whole there runs a series of springing window arches, supported upon piers which extend from the ground to the roof. The main entrance is a "study" in brick and stone. Delicate columns of brick support the arch panels of brick with sunflowers fill the spaces and overhead hangs a graceful baleony supported upon half arches of the two materials combined. Ornamental work of a still higher order, also in brick, is promised within.

POINTS IN POLITICS.

THE JURISCONSULT AND THE OYSTER.

Two men disputed fiercely o'er an oyster,
Which they upon the seashore found one day.
When, as their tongues grew dry, their palates moisture.
A judge came down that way.

They both agreed, because of his great learning,
He should decide the question in dispute;
And lo! he showed a mind the most discerning
In listening to the suit.

He looked as sober as a monk in cloister
When, after pondering the matter we l
He split the bivalve, gently ate the oyster,
And gave them each a shell!

The story's old, but new the application,
Since Pennsylvania presents her claims
To represent the mighty Yankee nation
Before the Court St. James.

While Hartranft, Wayne MacVeagh, and others quarrel,
And angry talk in steady current flows,
'Tis strange that none of them can see the moral That's plain as Cameron's nose.

For Mr. Evarts, with fine intuition.
When he has thought upon the subject well,
May take the oyster of the English mission—
And give the rest the shell.

New York Sun.

—Secretary Schurz intends to leave Washington for Cincinnati on the 30th inst. He will speak once in that city, and then go to Yankton to visit the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies, and other points on the Upper Missouri. On his way back he will visit Denver, and pass through Kansas and the Indian Territory.

—Charles B. Salter was arrested Monday afternoon at the instance of the Riot Bill Investigating Committe, on a charge of corrupt solicitation of members of the Legislature in connection with the Riot Claims Bill, and entered bail for his appearance in Dauphin County. Wm. H. Kemble was also formally notified to enter bail at Harrisburg on a similar charge. The investigating committee held a meeting Monday at Harrisburg, when the details of the prosecution were arranged. They have engaged as attorneys for the prosecution Senator Matt Carpenter of Wisconsin, Judge Jere. S. Black of Pennsylvania, and Franklin B. Gowen, President of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company. Chairman Wolfe says that the case will be vigorously pushed, and the trial is expected to come on early in September.

—Hon. J. S. Rutan, Collector of the Port of Pittsburg, has been interviewed about State politics, and he believes that Candidate Butler will receive 40,000 majority in the coming election. Mr. Daniel O. Barr, who continues to work along at his desk in the First National Bank at Pittsburg, says that he finds things looking well, and that the other fellow must look out for himself.

—The cases of Jesse R. Crawford, of Blair county, Alexander Leisenring of Carbon, Dr. Shoemaker of Dauphin, and J. McCune and Chris. Long of Cumberland, charged with corrupt solicitation of members of the Legislature in connection with the Riot Claims bill of last session, will come before the August term of Court at Harrisburg on the 25th inst. There is an additional charge of perjury against Jesse R. Crawford.

—The bonded debt of the United States was stated on January 1, 1876, to be $1,702,990,150. On May, 31, 1879, it was stated to be $1,987,464,760. On June 30th it was stated to be $2,027,207,250, and we observe that the Republican organs, of recent date, say it is $1,990,414,250. According to these figures the debt has actually been increased about $300,000,000 since 1876. It is no wonder that General Spinner declared that when he was in the Treasurer the public debt statements "never agreed with his books," and that "he was not allowed to publish truthful statements."

—The activity of Charles Foster's campaign work in Ohio may be judged by this epitome from his own lips of his labor within forty-eight: "I made a speech in Columbus on Friday; took a train in the afternoon for Lancaster, more than fifty miles distant; made five ten-minutes' speeches on the way; spoke at Lancaster for an hour between 2 and 3 P. M.; took the train for Portsmouth on the Ohio River; spoke there in the evening, and immediately started over the country by carriage for West Union, the seat of Adams county, a distance of forty-seven miles. The journey occupied all night, and we arrived at West Union about 5 o'clock in the morning. The roads were very rough, being among the most hilly in the state. When I made the engagement I understood it was only a little more than twenty miles. I made a speech during the forenoon to an audience of three thousand people who seemed anxious to hear the issues of the campaign discussed."

—An anti-Chinese club in Eureka, Nevada, has given thirty day's notice to all employers of Chinese labor to dispense with it under penalty of a loss of patronage.

—Detroit's city credit almost reaches that of the federal government. She has just marketed a loan of $200,000 bearing four per cenium interest—$50,000 at par and $150,000 at a premium of one-tenth of one per centum.

—The Cincinnati "Commercial" remarks: "One would suppose from reading the average Greenback speech that there is only one class of people in the country—namely, debtors—and that their chief aim is to avoid the payment of their debts."

—The convention of the Fusion party of Lackawanna county was held at Scranton Wednesday, and a bitter contest for the judgeship nomination was engaged in between F. D. Collins, W. H. Stanton and Ed. Merrifield. Mayor Powderly opened the convention and George Allen was permanent chairman. The following nominations were made: For Judge, F. D. Collins; Sheriff, Michael Grimes; Prothonotary, A. Miner Renshaw; Recorder, John Kelly of Carbondale; Treasurer, Philip Robinson; District Attorney, Cornelius Smith; Clerk of the Courts, Thomas J. Boland; Register of Wills, A. B. Dunning; Commissioners, Dennis Tierney and Joseph Seibert; Jury Commissioner, Michael Hannick; County Surveyor, A. J. Smith, of Waverly; Auditors, George Duhigg, Francis Johnson; Coroner, Dr. John Sullivan. The name of the Democratic-Labor-Greenback party was adopted.

STATE NEWS.

Large shops have been opened in Reading for the manufacture and repair of boilers.

The Pennsylvania Railroad now pays about $100,000 per month to its employes at Altoona, the shops running on full time.

The Harrisburg Telegraph reports that in the First and Second wards of that city there is not a man idle and not a dollar of rent due.

Samuel Blue and Jacob Mann, of Muncy, Lycoming county, cut in one day 100 oak trees. They also cut 175,000 feet of oak timber in nine days.

Mrs. Mary Lockard, of Bradford township, Clearfield county, celebrated the 104th anniversary of her birth Monday of last week by a basket picnic.

Horace McQuay, aged eighteen years, sat down on the railroad track, near Watsontown, on Thursday afternoon, 7th inst., fell asleep and was cut to pieces by a train.

The One-hundred-and first regiment Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers will hold a reunion at Leechburg, Armstrong county, on the 1st of September. Colonel A. W. Taylor, formerly of Beaver county but now of Washington City, will be the orator of the day.

Governor Hoyt on Friday, 8th inst., issued warrants for the execution, October 9, of John O'Neill and Peter McManus, the Northumberland county Mollie Maguires, convicted of the murder of Coroner Hesser, near Shamokin, Pa., in 1874. Also, for the execution of Andrew Tracey, of McKean county, who murdered a young lady to whom he was paying attentions.

Edward Herbert, Hugh Murray, George Shuman and Peter Hall, were severely burned by an explosion of gas in the big tunnel at the Pottsville colliery Friday morning, 8th inst. The explosion was caused by the carelessness of a miner.

A conference of Christian Railroad men will be held at Altoona from September 18 to the 21st, inclusive. The conference will be held in the reading room of the Railroad Men's Christian Association, at the above named place.

The oldest couple, perhaps, in the State of Pennsylvania, are Pope Bushnell and wife, of Dyberry, Wayne county. They are ninety years of age. They were married in 1812, and built the house they now occupy in the heart of the woods in 1817.

In Pittston, Friday night, a man named Hopkins accosted very rudely the wife of a blind man, who was leading her husband. The latter drew a pistol and fired in the direction from which Hopkins' voice came, and inflicted upon him a dangerous wound.

Meetings of the Pipe Line men have recently been held at Oil City, and it is learned that one of the results of this has been an order for heavy shipments. All possible tank cars have been pressed into service, and shipments from this time on until the pressure has been relieved will be heavy from the Northern district.

A Dr. P. M. Nelson, hailing from Pittsburg, recently settled at Emporium, Cameron county, represented himself to be worth $100,000, drove well and dressed well. He won the affections of a lady, and just as the knot was about to be tied an officer from Jefferson county arrested him for numerous crimes. He persuaded the officer to remove the handcuffs, slipped out the back door and has not been seen since.

The York Evening Dispatch states that Professor Lincoln, of the University of Pennsylvania, who is attached to the geodetic survey of Professor Haupt, in this State, has an observatory erected on Round Top, Warrington township, York county, where he has instruments, reflectors, etc., by which he can communicate with another corps of surveyors who are stationed on the Welsh mountains, along the border of Lancaster and Chester counties.

A correspondent of the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, writing from Bedford Springs, has this to say: "The right of the Anderson heirs to charge visitors for the use of the water at the Springs will not be tested this year. I examined the original in the Recorder's office, and find that they have a right to charge enough for the use of water to keep the grounds adjacent thereto in fact that their title of it is now clear."

These are a few of the evidences of the prosperity in business in the State, taken from the Labor Tribune, a strong Greenback organ published at Pittsburg: The mills at Conshohocken are running on full time. The old rolling mill at Scranton will start this week. The rolling mill of Wood & Co., at McKeesport, is running full in all departments. The rolling mill at Duncansville will start up as soon as the necessary repairs can be made. A new rolling mill is to be established at Fredericksburg, Lebanon county. The Hampton mines at Wilkinsburg are running with nearly all the men at work.

Owen Maloney and John Lafferty, principals in a recent "glove fight" near Pittsburg, were arrested Monday, and committed in default of $1000 bail each, for violation of the law against prize fighting. The use of the gloves did not prevent them from inflicting considerable injury upon each other.

The Hope Iron Works, at Tottstown, are now in full blast and giving employment to seventy men.

Mr. David Weaver, of Allentown, who is seventy years old, jumped out of a second-story window on Sunday while suffering from pain and was killed.

Benjamin Fink, of Reading, died in that city, on Monday, in his eighty-first year. He was prominently identified at one time with Democratic politics in that city.

The Board of Managers of the Lancaster County Agricultural and Horticultural Society have voted to hold their exhibition from the 16th of September to the 12th, inclusive.

Thomas Penrose and his stepson, a young man named McCormick, were instantly killed on Monday afternoon, in Waddell & Co.'s mines, at Mill Hollow, Luzerne county, by a fall of the roof.

The competition for trade between saloon keepers at Macungie, Lehigh county, is so strong that one of them has converted candy jars into beer glasses, for which the modest sum of five cents is charged.

The largest furnace of the Reading Iron Works, which went out of blast four years ago, was blown in Tuesday. This company is now building a new tube mill which, when completed, will give employment to 200 additional hands.

Andy Tracy, who is to be hung in McKean county on the 9th of October for the murder of his cousin because she would not marry him, regards his approaching end with very little concern. He says that if he cannot be pardoned he wants to be hung, as imprisonment for life would be worse than death.

THROUGH COUNTLESS LITTLE OPENINGS in the skin, invisible except through a microscope, the perspiration, in a state of health exhales, hour by hour, night and day. The total obstruction of these minute outlets would produce death; and when they become partially blockaded, the skin grows dry, yellow, and finally diseased, and the general health is injuriously affected. GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP, by opening the pores removes eruptions and unhealthy granulations on the skin, and imparts to it a healthful clearness, humidity and smoothness, banishing from the face of beauty complexional blemishes, whether attributed to impurities in the capillary circulation or to undue exposure to the sun and wind. For obstinate scorbutic complaints, like the itch, salt rheum, and erysipelas, it is a sovereign remedy, being quite as effective as Sulphur Baths, for such maladies, as well as rheumatism and gout. It is wondrously healing and soothing in its action, remitting the cuticle where broken by external injuries, relieving the swelling and inflammation attendant upon sprains, scalds and bruises, and curing the most obstinate sores and ulcers. Medical Profession sanction its use, and from all classes of society, voluntary avoidance in its favor is continually emanating. Ladies of fashion prefer it to any smaller accessory of the toilet and the bath, since it promotes not only health but personal attractiveness. As a disinfectant of disease contaminated clothing it has no peer. After they have been washed with GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP, garments and linen from the sick room may be handled with perfect impunity.

Sold by Druggists. Price 25c. per cake. 1 box (3 cakes) 75c., sent by mail, prepaid, on receipt of price. C. N. CRITTENTON, Prop'r, 7 Sixth Avenue, New York.

HILL'S HAIR AND WHISKER DYE, Black or Brown, 50 cents. 37-3.

YOU DON'T KNOW THEIR VALUE.

"They cured me of Ague, Biliousness and Kidney Complaint, as recommended. I had a half bottle left which I used for my two little girls, whom the doctors and neighbors said could not be cured. I am confident I should have lost both of them one night if I had not had the Hop Bitters in my house to use. I found they did them so much good I continued with them, and they are now well. That is why I say you do not know half the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend them highly enough."—B., Rochester, N. Y. 38-3

KENDALL'S This remarkable remedy will cure Spavin, Splint, Curb, Callous, &c., so as to prevent a recurrence of the disease. Read what HON. ELIHU H. BAKER, of Malden, Mass., says: "I have used KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE with the most satisfactory results. I have used it for Spavin, Splint, Curb, Callous, &c., on my horses for over fifteen years, and have never known it to fail to effect a cure. I have also used it in my family for Rheumatism, Sprains, Bruises, &c., and it has proved a most excellent remedy. I have recommended it to my friends and neighbors, and they have used it with the same success. I would not be without it if it cost five dollars a bottle." WITH OUT BLISTERING or causing a scar. No remedy ever discovered equals it for curability or action in removing the lameness and restoring the natural action of the muscles. Price $1.50. Send for circular giving Positive Proof and your nearest agent's address. Sold by druggists, or send to any address by the inventor, DR. B. J. KENDALL, M. D., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.
