All the earth is filled with blessing Which no forrow can destroy,

There shall come a day of joy. There are moments full of silver As the showers from Heaven which fall. And the tenderness of loving Is the blessing of them all.

Though the clouds may hang above us, Somewhere sunlight lingers still ; And the good of every moment Shall surpass the moment's ill. Love and trust are yet immortal,

Loving souls immortal, too,

And the glory of a jewel

But the tenderness of loving

Is the blessedness of all.

Sparkles in a drop of dew. Take the dew-drops as God gives them, He they moments, be they hours, So the stream of life which bears you Shall flow on through banks of flowers There are moments full of blessing As the showers of Heaven which fall,

DAISY'S LAST FOLLY

BY ETTIE ROGERS.

Among the cool, green trees the lamps shed a dim, delicious light, and the broad, smooth walks were filled with promenaders. Just beyond the park the long esplanade was erected a pavillion for a tavorite band-here was to be music and dancing-and here was to be the free and gay reception of the "Independent Guard," whose brilliant uniform ere occasionally seen in sad contrast with the coarse, rough gurbs of curious women and idle men.

Moving slowly through the restless, changng crowd which he scrutinized quickly and keenly as if searching anxiously for some particular face was a fine-looking, plainly dressed young man, who finally drew saide into a vacant space between the park and loving hand was needed to becken her about 10:50 o'clock, p. m., giving Philadel

Captain Stuart hung a thermometer on a tree shaded both from sun and wind. It was graduated to 127° F., yet so great was the heat of the air that the mercury rose till it burst the tube, and the temperature must thus have been at least 1280 F., apparently the highest ever reached in any part of the world. For 3 months Captain Stuart found the mean temperature to be over 1910 F. in the shade.
