

The Army Worm.

Professor Comstock, the entomologist representation of the Agricultural Department, after revisit to Delaware, where he investi-gated the worm, has just made a report, in which he says: "The adult insect is a night flying moth of a dull brown color, marked in the centre of each fore wing with a distinct white spot, and with an expanse of wing of a little over Leaving fragmen on thy breath, an inch and three quarters. Lighten life of half its ills, The moth deposits her eggs in folds of Safe and potent Liver Fills.

leaves or grass or grain, nearly always concealing them from sight. During winters of nonsual uildness a succession of broads is kept up through the en-tire year. During the present winter ('79-'80) we have reselved fell grown worms, with accounts of damage to winter grain in the months of December, Janwary and February, from lo-calities as far north as Union county, South Carolina, and Marion county, Tennessee. Ordinarily, kowever, in the insect lies dormant through the win-ter months. We can safely state that it passes the winter both in the moth and chrysalls states. In either case, as soon as the weather becomes warm, in the spring, the moths emerge from their pupal cases or their hibernating quar-ters, and lay their eggs. The natural habitat of the army worm was stated by Dr. Fich to be 'in the wild grass of wet spots in swamps and on the best these States, and always further north wet spots in swamps and on the borders of marshes,' and in this statement he has been followed by nearly all succeed-ing writers. He then says that they may be destroyed by burning over the orthography excused himself by saying he lowlands where they are found. When discovered on cultivated lands they should be confined to the land where should be confined to the land where found. They may be crushed with zollers, and when they attempt to mi-grate to other fields ditches should be dug around the infested fields. The nov.12-1y. diches can be made quite rapidly; first, plough a furrow with the 'iand side' next to the field to be protected, and then with a spade make this side of the furrow vertical, or, if the soil be com pact enough to admit of it, overhanging. When the ditch is completed holes should be dug in it from one foot to eighteen linches deep, and from twenty to thirty feet apart. The sides of these holes should also be vertical, or, if posable, overhanging. The worms, un-able to climb up the vertical sides of the ditch, will crawl along the bottom of it and fail into the holes, where they soon perish. Where the soil is sandy, so that the ditch cannot be made with a vertical ride, it should be dug deeper than in other cases, and the side made as nearly perpendicular as possible; so that when the worms attempt to crawl up, the sand will crumble beneath them and cause them to fall back again. FARM NOTES.

A carpenter, who was always prognosticating evil to himself, was one day upon the roof of a five story building upon which rain had fallen. The roof being slippery he lest his footing, and as he was descending toward the caves, he exclaimed: "Just as I told you!" Catching, however, in an iron spout, he kicked off his shoes and regained a place of safety, when he thus delivered himself: "I know'd it; there's a pair of shoes gone,"

Cough Mixtures, but could get no relief. Mornings after getting up from my bed I would be so choked up that I could hardly breather : also frequently vomited severely. A friend directed me to use Dr. German's Cough and Consumption Cure. I did so, but with little faith at the time, but after using I changed my mind, and I can con scientiously say, after taking only one bottle I did not only obtain relief but am not troubled with that fullness in the morning. My cough has stopped, and I can obtain a good night's sleep—something not enjoyed by me for weeks before.
