THE DEMOCRATIC WARDN.

BY "K." Come all ye tolling millions Who want to take a ride. Our wagon is now waiting. And our team is true and tried : From now till next November We'll ride through every storm And drive the Rads from power With our weapons of reform. Chorus-Then wait for the wagon The Democratic wagon,

LEHIGHTON, CARBON COUNTY, PA., SATURDAY, AUGUST 28, 1880.

Its running gear is good, *I'ls made by honest workingmen. Of good old hickory wood. We've statesmen for our drivers, They are our country's pride; Then jump into our wagon And we'll all take a ride Brave Hancock holds the ribbons, Elected he will be, For Garfield's mule will fly the track At our shouts of victory. And there's the veteran English, Who sits by Hancock's side,

The plowholder's wagon

Our wagon's plenty large enough,

And we'll all take a ride.

With two such galiant leaders We all may safely ride. Chorus-The Rads bave had full power, For, lo! these many years ; Their rule has brought but rule, And caused the widow's tears ; They gave us thieving syndicates, And Belknaps by the score; Such stealing from the Treasury

Was never known before. Post traderships were plenty, And gravestone contracts, too, De Golyer jobs and whisky rings, To fat the thieving crew; But justice now is on their track, Their day of grace is o'er, And soon we'll place them all inside The penitentiary door.

It was a hundred years ago, Amid war's sulph'rous storm Our father's fought for equal rights, And brought about reform ; And now their sons are rallying, To fight for rights as dear, And sweep corruption from the land In this victorious year.

They tell us Garfield's bonest, But that's beyond belief, For he who pockets stolen goods Must rank beside the thief: The man can not be trusted. As honest, true and brave, Who took the bribb, and then denied

What Oakes Ames swore he gave. The enemies we have to fight Are loaded down with spoil, They've stolen from the earnings Of our hard and honest toil: The weapon that we use will be The ballot-priceless boon; And then to cleanse the Capitol, We'll use the hickory broom.

Then rally, Sons of Freedom, To snatch from vandal hands The Government you love so well-Your liberty, your lands; With Hancock, English and Reform, We'll place the ship of State In the hands of honest patriots, Refere it is too late. -Then jump into our wagen,

The Democratic wagon, The good old hickory wagon, And we'll all take a ride. LOVE AND BEAUTY.

BY W. S. GAPPNEY. As Summer reigned o'er Winter's tomb, I in a garden spled A rose, in sweet, delightful bloom-

A bud was by its side, The twain, I mused, so rich and fair, May make me doubly blest; The rose I'll place in Ella's hair, The bud upon her breast. For, know, my paragon of grace,

My queen without a peer! The gentlest of her gentle race, Was to my heart most dear. Now from a fair, Madeena brow, As Parian marble white, The rose reflects a healthful glow

On one sweet face and bright ! And deep within a swan-like breast, The rose-bud's secret charm, With magic power crept to rest

From jealousy's alarm. That I was fortune favored, blest, All mortals will allow; For love now reigns in Ella's breast, And beauty on her brow !
