THE TALE OF A TRAMP.

Let me sit down a minute :

A stone's get into my shos. Don't you commence your cussin'-I ain't done nothin' to you. Yes, I'm a tramp-what of it? Folks say we ain't no good

Tramps have got to live, I reckon, Though people don't think we should. Once I was young and handsome, Had plenty of cash and clothes-That was before I got to tipplin',

And gin got in my nose. Way down in the Lebigh Valley Me and my people grew; I was a blacksmith, captain, Yes, and a good one, too.

Me and my wife, and Nellie-Nellie was just sixteen. Beauxy Why, she had a dozen, Had 'em from near and fur, But they was mostly farmers-None of them suited her.

But there was a city chap,

Haudsome, young and tall-

Ah! curse him ! I wish I had him To strangle against youder wall ! He was the man for Nellic-She didn't know no ill; Mother, she tried to stop it,

Bubyou know a young girl's will. Well, it's the same old story— Common enough, you say; But he was a soft-tongued devil, And got her to run away. More than a month, or later,

We heard from the poor young thing-He had run away and left her Without any weddin' ring. Back to ber home we brought her, Back to her mother's side; Filled with a ragin' fever.

She fell at my feet and died. Frantic with shame and sorrow, Her mother began to sink, And died in less than a fortnight-That's when I took to drink. Come, give me a glass now, colonel, And I'll be on my way.

And I'll tramp till I catch that scoundrel

If it takes till the judgment day.

Why I Joined the Detectives.

"Can I sit with you?" "Certainly, sir." "Nice weather." "Splendid, indeed."

"Crops growing finely?" "Yes; couldn't do better."

I was sitting in a car on the Wisconsin ailroad one day years ago, when a goodlooking, pleasant-spoken man came slong, stopped at my seat, and the above conversation took place, the latter part of it after I had given him part of my seat.
