Rose Cold and Hay Fever.

Being seriously troubled with Hay Fever and Rose Cold, I (at the solicitation of a friend) tried Ely's Cream Balm and was surprised in obtaining almost immediate relief. I heartily indorse and earnestly recommend it to all similarly afflicted. W. P. Andrus, Druggist, Metuchen, N. J., August 20, 1877.

For Hay Fever I recommend Ely's Cream Balm. It entirely relieved me from the first application; have been a sufferer for ten years. Going from home and neglecting to take the remedy, I had an attack; after returning I immediately resorted it, and found instant relief. FARMERS' COLUMN.

Insects Killing Insects.

It is often found that the human interference with the arrangements of animal life does more harm than benefit. Many a time the destruction of birds as the supposed foes of the farmer has left the ground free for the worse devastations of unchecked insect life. In a recent article, commenting on some of Sir John Lubbock's entomological observations, the writer says:

"While men have been devising scientific schemes for the amelioration of insect plagues, and fondly imagining that upon ourselves has rested the burden of keeping the animal world within proper limits, the insects themselves have taken the matter in hand, and been actively carrying into effect the plans and suggestions which, if left to us, would never have got beyond the preliminary stages of consideration. In the orchard the fruit farmer watches with lamentation the depredation of the wasps among his plums, and his children come crying to him with the tale of their sufferings, how they picked up a fallen pear and were stung by the wasp inside. Yet all this time, so naturalists tell us, there are wasps that sting wasps and hornets that lie in wait among the tempting fruit to carry off or decapitate the smaller depredators. In the hot summer days flies annoy us, but it is a comfort to know that whenever they sit down on bushes their enemies are on the watch for them; that not only spiders catch and eat them, but winged things of their own kind devour them readily. The cockroach is an abomination in a kitchen; but if he ventures to walk abroad the Pompilus takes him by the nose, and, having stung him senseless, drags him away to some convenient chink that serves it for a larder. The spiders that creep about where they have no business to be, and spin threads across pathways, so as to catch the faces of passers by, are constantly beset by fly foes, who treat them with a delightful contempt, using their fat, round bodies to lay their eggs in, and even storing them up like apples to feed the young flies when they are hatched. The caterpillars that destroy our vegetables and work havoc in the flower garden are not the irresponsible tyrants that they seem, for they go in mortal terror of their lives all day long, not only from other caterpillars that eat them, but from a number of winged creatures that take a truculent delight in their tender bodies. The beetle which we all call a cockshafer, and which in France does almost incredible damage, has another beetle told off to it, whose only duty is to hunt and kill it. The wheat fly snug though it thinks itself tucked up inside the husks of the grain, is found out by a special fly whose whole work in life is to lay its eggs in the other's body; and even the gall flies inside their secret chambers, the clover fly hidden in the little flower, and the wireworm under ground, are each of them the particular objects of pursuit and slaughter to appointed insects. To this complete chain of crime and punishment man can add nothing, but he can at any rate take the broad hint which the insects give him, and assist them to indulge their beneficial appetites."

FARM NOTES.

—A mixture of bone dust and ashes is said to be a good fertilizer for strawberries.

—Kerosene oil is sure death to insects of all kinds and in every stage of their development, according to Prof. Riley.

—Fowls seldom tire of milk. They may eat too much grain or meat for health, but milk in any form is both palatable and healthy.

—A little bunch of lilies of the valley sent from New Orleans by mail, has been received in fresh condition in Providence, R. I. They came enclosed in a potato, the inside of which had been dug out, leaving a thin shell.

—To groom a horse feed him on any nutritious food, keep his skin clean, brush and rub the hair thoroughly, and often. Blanketing will aid materially in giving smoothness to the coat.

—Turkey raising is carried on extensively in Tehama county, Cal. One man in addition to raising and tending a large flock of sheep, raised nearly 700 turkeys last year. Large flocks of from 1,000 to 1500 are frequently met with, tended by women and children.

—Although there is no question that liquid or extracted honey is sometimes adulterated, fortunately, it is said, the fraud is easily detected, as upon the approach of of cool weather, pure honey will always crystalize, or "candy," while honey containing glucose will remain in a liquid state.

—To exterminate rats get a few pounds of common potash, such as used by soap makers, and expose it to the air until it softens to the consistency of putty, then spread it thickly in their runways, put it in the holes, and all rats and mice will leave. The caustic nature of the potash makes their feet sore, and then they lick their feet and that gives them trouble with their mouths.

—A noticeable old lady is Mrs. Lawrence, of Craftsbury, Vt. She is seventy-one years old, and for six years past has been totally blind. During the past two years, nevertheless, she has spun, doubled, twisted and knit 1400 knots of yarn, making everything from a man's cap to a syrup strainer. One of these years she has taken care of the butter of ten cows, with the assistance of a girl ten years old, and also assisted about the cooking and general housework. She has never but once during these years made a misstep, at that time falling from the piazza into the road breaking one wrist and spraining one ankle, from which injury she has never fully recovered.

—There is no forage crop equal to corn.

—Mangle wurzel plants and also sugar beets can be transplanted with success.

—The aggregate number of live stock in the United States is set down at 82,000,000 head.

—Sixty-eight thousand pounds of maple sugar have been shipped from Nashville, Mich., this season.

—Pumpkin seeds act as a diuretic on cattel. Cows in milk should never have access to them. Before pumpkins are fed the seeds should always be removed for they decrease the flow of milk very rapidly.

—In hoeing or weeding young strawberry plants it is always best to pluck off the blossoms of fruit buds, as it is almost impossible to grow good strong plants capable of bearing a profitable crop of strawberries if they are allowed to bear at pleasure the first year.

—Chamois skins are not derived from the chamois, as many people suppose, but are the flesh side of sheepskins. These skins are soaked in lime water and in a solution of sulpheric acid, fish oil is poured over them, and they are then carefully washed in a solution of potash.
