From the County Seat.

About 11 o'clock p. m. on Sept. 19, the sad intelligence flashed across the wires that President James A. Garfield was dead.

Those of our readers attending the Lehigh County Fair next week can see both the plow and the fence.

Services in memory of the late President, James A. Garfield, will be held tomorrow (Sunday) at 10 o'clock a. m. in the Evangelical church.

Services in the M. E. Church, E. W. North, Pastor, on Sunday, at 10:30 a. m. Subject—Death of President Garfield.

Wetsoot Items.

Miss Mary V. Dittler and her sister Mattie are sojourning with friends and relatives at Allentown at present.

Misses Trent, Traylor, Oscar Engler, Al. Hixon and Chas. Heilmann, of Otsuquaga, were the guests of Supp. Dittler, of the Carbon Iron Works, on Sunday last.

The terrible drouth is still continuing in this vicinity. The rains of Thursday and Friday last was of little or no account, it barely settled the dust in the streets.

Our Young America Corn Band has again adjourned sine die. So says Dame Ramor. We suppose they want and are in need of a friend like any other organization of the kind.

E. Trapp, mine host of the Hunter's House, is having the saloon part of his dwelling house remodeled and repainted. When finished it will present a very fine appearance.

Owing to the absence of Prof. Snyder the public schools were closed the latter part of last week. He being on a business visit to Philadelphia.

The city folks who were boarding with the Bush family left for their respective homes in Philadelphia, on Saturday last. The ladies in their short stay with the people of this place have gained the respect and admiration of all those whom they met—especially refined and accomplished young ladies.

Miss Mary A. Snyder, we are informed, has closed her school owing to a sudden illness which overtook her. She intends to resume teaching here during the winter term.

C. S. Weiss was in town during the week delivering books.

J. W. Ruch was attacked suddenly with cramps on Tuesday last. Medical aid was at once summoned and at present writing he is doing well.

Our friend Dave O'Brien is on the sick list and has been for the past few months. We hope he may be speedily restored to his former health.

The suggestion mentioned in last week's items in regard to raising a fund for our Western Union Manager, at this place, seemed to take effect. A subscription list is at present going its rounds in this vicinity, headed by the most prominent men of this borough.

On Wednesday morning, at 8 o'clock, Mr. Ledwards, one of the employees of the Lehigh Valley railroad, was struck while walking on the track, by a down train, and fatally injured, from which death was the result.

We are sorry to report that J. F. Sackett is dead. In his death the community has lost a highly esteemed citizen, his church a constant and useful member, and his family an affectionate husband and indulgent father.

The wedding of Frank Schwartz, of East March Church borough, with Annie Schweitzer, daughter of Treasurer Max Schweitzer, of the same place, took place at the residence of the bride's parents, on Thursday last. Success to them.

A few establishments in Allentown enjoy a better reputation, and have worked their way to a prominent position in the business community in so short a time, as the young and enterprising firm of Anthony & Knecht. Having succeeded G. F. Wolter & Co., dealers in fine cutlery, guns and fishing tackle, and sporting goods generally, it is their aim to make a specialty of the same line of business, and their stock will always be kept up to common standard of excellence, and will be sold at more reasonable prices than heretofore.

In addition to the above line of goods, they have added a good assortment of general Hardware, Builders' Supplies, Farmers' and Mechanics' Tools, House Furnishing Goods, Oil, Paints, Glass, etc., in fact every thing usually kept at a first-class Hardware store.

The people are judges whether any one deserves to succeed in any branch of trade, and that the new Hardware store has already obtained success to a considerable degree is evident from the fact that in a few months Messrs. Anthony & Knecht had to enlarge their store, to accommodate their increased trade, which is proof sufficient that their way of dealing is satisfactory, and that it is only another way of saying that their prices are as low as the lowest.

Mr. A. A. Anthony, of the above firm, is a native of Lehigh, being engaged in the hardware business here ten years ago. Since then he has been in the wholesale business, in the same line, in Philadelphia and Easton. Both members of the firm being engaged in the wholesale trade in the city, they have a thorough knowledge of the business, and buying and selling goods for cash, they can do it on the lowest possible margin. We advise all our readers, when in want of good goods, cheap, or anything in the hardware line, to call at the new Hardware Store, 608 Hamilton Street, Allentown, Pa.

The Iron Trade. A Reading of the 18th inst., says: The Port Carbon, the Swoed, and the Minersville iron mines are understood to be in the hands of the Reading Railroad and Iron Company by a company of capitalists, and will soon be started in full blast. The rolling mill belonging to the Port Carbon furnace is also to be started, and the Clymer furnace is to be blown in soon. When these are in operation sixty of the eighty-six furnaces of the Reading Company will be in blast.

The Phoenix Iron Works of the Lehigh Valley has raised the wages of its employees seven per cent. All the iron mills and furnaces in Reading, Pottsville, Norristown, and other places, are expected to follow suit. An order for 25,000 tons of steel rails was recently sent to Europe because it could not be filled in this country. There is said to be a moderate profit for the iron mills at present prices.

Corneilus Leahan was killed in the Eagle colliery, at St. Clair, on Saturday, by a fall of a roof.

The Coal Trade.

The anthracite coal trade during the past week, says the Philadelphia Ledger, of the 19th, has quickened considerably, and the outlook of the entire trade is most encouraging.

Indeed, the situation is much better than was expected. One intelligent operator in the trade has been asked by the intervention of Providence, the question of controlling the coal market by limiting the supply of coal, which has been received satisfactorily by a drouth so general throughout the anthracite coal regions as to shorten the production of coal, to the entire satisfaction of the producers.

The price of coal holds up well, and while the supply is large the stocks on hand do not increase. The New England market is taking very freely of the current production of coal, while the demand from the Western market for anthracite coal is in excess of the supply as well as of the facilities of transportation. While all this is true as to the situation of the coal trade, we do not see or hear of any disposition to advance coal prices. The drouth, in shortening supply, has quite as effectively and more satisfactorily regulated the market than any artificial restriction could possibly have done.

The product of anthracite coal thus far this year is nearly four million tons in excess of that at the same time last year. For the remaining three months of the current year it is not likely that this increase will be continued, from the fact that the tonnage of the corresponding three months last year was unusually large, and there is no stimulating cause now to keep up the present large production. There is a good supply of orders for anthracite coal, and at some of them the demand is greater than can possibly be met just at present. While the drouth still holds out in the coal regions it is no apprehension that it will much longer interfere with the trade. It is fair to presume, from all the surroundings, that supply and demand here to the end of the coal year will run fairly even together, thus removing all artificial restriction of any material nature, or fall in price, or any great excess in supply, or falling off in stock. An unusually severe winter will not do much to stiffen coal prices, and a warm winter and a full amount from manufacturers would correspondingly soften coal prices. Just at present the outlook for the next year is fairly encouraging, though it is not absolutely settled one way or another. Prices are not now large, yet fairly remunerative, without being so large as to inspire over-production with the opening of a new crop of coal.

A great grief was shown here on hearing of the death of President Garfield. Our places of business, and private dwellings, are wearing the dark coat of mourning. God denied the sympathies and prayers of his people, and we hope in this hour of National calamity "God still reigns and the Government at Washington lives." Great sympathy is expressed for the wife and fatherless children. Among those who have their dwellings draped and show sympathy in this time of affliction, are Joseph Webb, H. T. Miller, Isaac Bumbach, A. W. Marsh, N. Snyder, J. D. Zern, Josiah Ruch, H. Knapp, Dr. J. G. Zern, and a number of others.

The females of cat and dog nurseries in relation to our neighbor was omitted, owing to other news of more importance. It will be mentioned next week.

Several young men, among whom are John Lacey and Wesley Fatzinger, who, feeling the need of larger opportunities for mental and social culture than are ordinarily presented to persons engaged in these active pursuits of life, agreed to meet one hour each evening, Sunday excepted, for mental study and improvement. Recently two evenings have been spent on the study of Turkey, finding much to interest them in that semi-barbarous country, especially in the late war, which promises to result in more religious liberty. At present they are engaged on Greece, studying its history, its people, its literature, art, etc. Mr. Lacey informs us that Switzerland is the study for next week, and is preparing to describe. A beautiful description is likely to be. We have said much of this in order to stimulate others to adopt the same method.

Quint. The following items were taken from the Packerton correspondence in the "Washington Herald," of last Wednesday:

The wife of David Hatch, engineer on Lehigh Division, died of Cancer on Sunday the 11th inst. She was a sufferer for many years. Her remains were to be buried at Reading, Pa. (former home) for interment.

Miss Anna Bell McDaniel, the obliging Postmistress of this place, has been dangerously ill with erysipelas. We are glad to note an improvement in her condition.

Since the promotion of John S. Lentz as master car builder of the L. V. R. R., the long needed improvements at this point have been decided upon, and under his supervision are being pushed towards completion. The first is the erection of a paint shop—the old one having burned down—the new one to be of brick, 50 feet long and 40 feet wide. Also an extension to the blacksmith shop, making that building about 500 feet long. About eighty five will be in use. The machine shop will be enlarged. This and the blacksmith shop are under the charge of James Long. Also another building to be used as a warehouse for the taking off and putting on of wheels. Length, 60 feet, width, 40 ft. In addition to the work at the shops, Mr. Lentz is superintending the building of a large Forwarding office, for the use of F. B. Harris, Esq., and his corps of clerks. The old one being too small for the increase of work in the department. This building will be of brick two stories. J. B. Beers has charge of the wood work, and it is expected that the building will be ready by the first of December.
