STATE. VICE PRESIDENT, ORANGE ROBLE, of Erie. JUDICIARY. ASSOCIATE JUDGE, HARRY E. FACKER, of Mauch Chunk. COUNTY. TREASURER, SAMUEL RICKERT, of Summit Hill.

THE HERALD PRESIDENT.

Can James G. Blaine afford to remain in his present position in President Arthur's Cabinet and compromise his integrity by associating with the present administration of a third term? True, Gen. Grant says he has retired from politics forever...

President Arthur's shrewd politician.

He has long been trained in a school and among men, whose keenness of intellect and shrewd diplomacy, have carried the day on many hard fought political battles.

Gen. Grant's hours in the society of President Arthur.

Gen. Grant spends his hours in the society of President Arthur. If Arthur would profit by Grant's experience, and heed the mistakes he made, to might make a very creditable President.

last is equally true of all the Germans, none of whom were sent to represent their government, but came as private citizens only, representing Van Sturben family.

Every little while the notorious Schnyler Colfax tries to burnish up his infamous reputation by making an explanation. But he gets left every time.

George S. Boutwell, of Mass., wants to succeed Attorney General MacVegh. It will surprise a good many to hear that Mr. Boutwell proposes to be a lawyer.

In the Criminal Court at Washington Wednesday, after argument by counsel for Guitou, the case of the assassin was postponed until November 14th.

WASHINGTON.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 27, 1881.

The indications are abundant and to be seen on every hand, that Washington - the Federal Capital - is to become the winter residence and resort of the wealthy.

By his course President Arthur has won praise as a man who means to administer the high office with entire regard for the responsibilities of the position, without regard to political necessities.

Rutherford B. Hayes was never elected President of the United States, but he held the office for four years, enjoying its salary and emoluments, most of which he quietly saved and added to the snug little fortune he possessed before the Presidency and installed him in office.

That phenomenonally lucky speculator James R. Keane, who started life in California a poor boy and went to New York with $500,000, which he has nearly doubled by successful operations since his removal from the Pacific coast, has scored another victory with his famous ransacking horse folly.

CASTING A TWENTY-TWO GUN. Fifty-six thousand pounds of molten iron were ready at the Reading Iron Works, Reading, Pa., Monday for the casting of the Lyman-Haskell accelerator, or multi-charge gun, and an interested company gathered to see the casting.

This morning in the Criminal Court, Judge Cox, Mr. Geo. Scoville, the counsel for Guitou, was early in attendance. There were present only a few members of the bar, because it is said many were fearful that if Mr. Scoville asked for the assignment of counsel to assist him they might be assigned if present.

Upon the historical spot where Cornwallis surrendered there was gathered a larger crowd, military and civil, than it is likely ever to see again.

The length of the gun will be 25 feet, and its weight, when cast, will be about 60,000 pounds. We claim that the amount of powder in this gun, while doing enormous more effective work than is done at present, will be much less than upon the guns now in use.
