MISCELLANEOUS.

—No, he didn't feel strong enough to push a baby-wagon, although it was a fine, bracing day, and his wife said the exercise would do him good; but in the top-room, that evening, it took three men to keep him from licking the apothecary's clerk, who wanted to see him drink that he wouldn't dare to tell how he became so bald-headed. —Ex.

—A chest is a strong box, a strong box may be a safe, but a chest protector will not frighten away burglars. The above was furnished by a juvenile reader who has not yet attained the dignity of studying logic.

—The best of reasons: A story is told of an old gentleman who always took notes of his minister's sermon and on one occasion read them to the minister himself. "Stop, stop!" said he, at the occurrence of a certain sentence, "I didn't say that." "I know you didn't was the reply, "I put that in myself to make sense."

Money for a Rainy Day.

"For six years my daughter was sick from kidney and other disorders. We had used up our savings on doctors, when our domestic advised us to try Parker's Ginger Tonic. Four bottles effected a cure, and at a dollar's worth has kept our family well for over a year, we have been able to lay by money again for a rainy day."—A Poor Man's Wife.

—An unprofitable witness: In the old days of lordly servants the subordinate was put on the stand as a witness. "Did you ever see your master the worse for liquor?" was the sharp question of the attorney. "No, sir," was the quick reply, "but I've many a time seen him the better of it." "Well, sir, have you ever seen him intoxicated?" was the next question. "No, sir," said the servant with emphasis, "never in my life, because long before he reaches that state I am myself in no condition to see anybody or anything."

—Musical: The cat is the great American prima donna. If bootjacks were boxpoers, her nine lives would be strewn with roses. —Ex.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist Church here, and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in many chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of six of Albany's best physicians several years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use, and is now healthy and strong. Three bottles, many of which have also been cured of their several ailments by them. D E R Warren.

A good Democrat was overheard bearing his friend how to vote. "Now, mind, I've made up my mind to vote the straight ticket, every man Jack of 'em, from the head of the ticket to the tail of it, and I'm going to vote for Sharp, and I'm going to vote for Shiras, and I'm going to vote for Collins, and I'm going to vote for Quay, and I'm going to vote for Mercer, and I'm going to vote for Lowry, and I'm going to vote for Lee."—Ex.

—Hymeneal: There had been a meeting between the lovers. One Mr. Emile's schoolmate ventured to question the subject and asked how it went. "What did he say?" "Two words—no matter." "What were the words?" Trying to get over the topic. "Did he appear to be much agitated?" "So greatly," returned Emily, "that it took all the strength of pape's new bull-dog to hold him."

A cure at last.—Specifics without number for the cure of Catarrh have been extensively advertised, and doubtless there is some virtue in them all, but the observation is overwhelming that Ely's Cream Balm goes more directly than any other to the seat of the disease, and though it is a comparatively new discovery, it has resulted in more cures within the range of our observation than all the others put together.—Wilkesbarre, Pa. Union Leader, Dec. 19, 1879.

It is no exaggeration to say that Ely's Cream Balm is a cure for Catarrh, Hay Fever, &c.; for many cures have been made among my customers. Cream Balm should be resorted to by everyone thus afflicted. With me no other remedy has ever equalled the Balm either in good results or sales. A. J. Odenwelder, Druggist, Easton, Pa. Oct. 2, 1880.

—A soft answer: "Ah!" he exclaimed, as he pressed her tenderly to him at parting "Shall I hold you in these arms again to-morrow and paint our future with bright pigments of the imagination." "No," she said, calmly, "Not to-morrow. To-morrow's washday."

—Evils of pedestrianism: "A very fine sermon, Mr. Jones," said Deacon Brown to the parson at the close of service Sunday. "Several laps ahead of anything you ever gave us before." "Yes," replied Parson Jones, blushing slightly, at which moved that I made a pretty good score." Thus doth the verse of the walking match permeate and prevent all classes of society.

—Don't forget that Sines' Syrup of Tar, Wild Cherry and Hoarhound takes all the prizes for curing coughs and colds if you have been unfortunate and contracted for one during this wet weather.

—An innocent little creature: "There, child," said grandmother, "you mustn't be vain; don't stand there at the mirror admiring your dimpled cheeks. Dimples are pretty enough, no doubt, but they will change to wrinkles one of these days." Little Emma turned from the glass, with just a suspicion of a pout on her rosy lips. She sat silent for a moment, then looking up she said, "Grandma, what a lot of dimples you must have had when you were a little girl—all over your face, wasn't they, grandma."

Complications.

If the thousands that now have their rest and comfort destroyed by complication of liver and kidney complaints would give nature's remedy, Kidney-Wort, a trial they would be speedily cured. It acts on both organs at the same time and therefore completely fills the bill for a perfect remedy. If you have a long look and disordered kidneys use it at once. Don't neglect them. —Mirror and Farmer.

—Calculated to fill it: "I tell you," continued Primgrey, "Brown isn't fit for the place. In fact, I don't know of a place that he is calculated to fill." "Don't be impetuous in your remarks, Primgrey," said Fogg "you forget his stomach."

Diphtheria.

A cold or sore throat may not seem to amount to much, and if promptly attended to can easily be cured; but neglect is often followed by consumption or diphtheria. No medicine has ever been discovered which acts so quickly and surely in such cases as PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. The prompt use of this invaluable remedy has saved thousands of lives.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER is not an experiment. It has been before the public for forty years, and is most valued where it is best known.

A few extracts from voluntary testimonials read as follows:

PAIN KILLER has been my household remedy for colds for the past twenty-seven years, and have never known it to fail in effecting a cure.—L. B. Cochran, Williamsville, N. Y.

For thirty years I have used PAIN KILLER, and found it a never-failing remedy for colds and sore throat.—Rev. O. Fouce, Lowndes, Ga.

Have received immediate relief from colds and sore throat and consider your PAIN KILLER an invaluable remedy.—Geo. B. Peart, Dodgeson, N. Y.

I have just recovered from a very severe cold, which I thought I'd be sick for some time. I could get no relief until I tried your PAIN KILLER, which relieved me immediately. I will never again be without it.—E. O. Fouce, Lowndes, Ga.

Have used PAIN KILLER in my family for forty years and have never known it to fail.—Ransom Lewis, Morgan Co., Ga.

I have used PAIN KILLER in my family twenty-five years and have used it for rheumatism, and have found it to be the best. I shall consider it the best medicine ever offered.—Geo. Hooper, Wilmington, N. C.

I was suffering severely with bronchitis, and my throat was so inflamed I could scarcely swallow any food. I was advised to try your PAIN KILLER, and after using a few doses was completely cured.—C. Wilkinson.

Dr. Walton writes from Cochecton: Your PAIN KILLER cured chills and fever, sciatica, rheumatism, bilious fever, and cold chills, so many children have died here. I was afraid to call a physician, and tried your PAIN KILLER. Two doses broke the fever, and on seeing my wife Christmas day. It was a wonderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor unfortunate sufferers. This fact you should make known to the world.

Mrs. Harriet Macoy writes: My son was taken with chills, so many children have died here, I was afraid to call a physician, and tried your PAIN KILLER. Two doses broke the fever, and on seeing my wife Christmas day. It was a wonderful cure, and I wish it could be known to the poor unfortunate sufferers. This fact you should make known to the world.

For Chills and Fever PAIN KILLER has never failed. Returns when everything else fails. Delays are often dangerous. A bottle of PAIN KILLER in the house is a safeguard that no family should be without.

All druggists sell it at 25c., 50c., and $1.00 per bottle.

FARMERS' COLUMN.

The First Thing to Do Now.

And the very first, if not already attended to, is to secure all the SEED, wanted or likely to be wanted, before midsummer, for the field, or the garden, or flower bed. The plowing, and the harrowing, and the cultivating will be labor lost if there is not enough corn seed. If on the average only three vigorous stalks of any crop grow well where four might grow, that is, a loss of 25 per cent, as other work and expenses are the same for a full crop as for a 75 per cent one; and this lost 25 per cent is where the real profit comes in, because 50 to 75 per cent of almost all crops is eaten up by the cutworms. If one seed out of four is not healthful enough to send up the most vigorous plant, it helps the 25 per cent. If one has all needed seed, let it be immediately tested, as noted elsewhere. If any seed is to be bought, order them now, not only to test them in time, as there is much poor seed this year, but especially because seed dealers will soon be overcrowded with orders, and many will run out of the best quality of perhaps just the seed one may want. If uncertain where to get seed, turn to the advertising pages, and send at once for the catalogues of one or more dealers. The cards of a large number of the best seed dealers throughout the country will be found; we admit no one we would not buy of ourselves. Finally, no one is now living so remote, that he can not get pretty good sized lots of seed by mail, at small expense. One cent an ounce pays the carriage 4,000 miles or more.—From American Agriculturist for April.

Seeding to Clover.

Our best success has been in scattering the seed over growing wheat, on a cool morning early in April, when an inch depth of frost opens the ground in cracks into which the seed falls and is lightly covered by the thawing earth. Both this and the wheat, but especially the clover, are usually benefited by a broadcast sowing of ground plaster in May. So marked is this sometimes that one can write his name in large letters with plaster sowing, and the letters will be distinctly visible in the more luxurious green, when the clover plants, at first protected from the sun by the wheat plants, have a chance for full growth, after the wheat is cut. The experience of many who raise much clover is, that a good catch is most certain, if the seed is not sown until the soil is warm and mellow. The clover starts into growth at once and strong plants are quickly obtained. The chief danger of delay is that the still feebly rooted plants may be caught by dry, hot weather and killed. While plaster is a good top dressing for clover on most soils, if one's own experience or that of his near neighbors does not indicate this, other light top dressings may be useful—some soluble fertilizers, as superphosphate or muriate of potash. Clover responds to any attentions of this kind, and makes a good return in the mass of foliage and rich material it gathers from soil and air—material it gathers from and air—material which, when plowed in, richly prepares the soil for other crops.—American Agriculturist for April.

Early Cucumbers.

Those who have hot beds or frames can sow cucumber seed, in these, after the plants are removed, and by covering at night and in cold days, greatly hasten the plants. Those who are without these, can forward the plants very much. Take a piece of good sod, lay it grass-side down upon a board, and cut it in 3 or 4-inch squares will a sharp spade or an old knife. Sow in the earth of each square half a dozen or more cucumber seeds, and place the board with the sods, in some warm place, under the shelter of a building or fence; provide another board to cover the sods. Expose during the day and cover in the afternoon before the day grows cool. When the plants appear, of course the cover must be raised by props of some kind; bricks are handy. When the plants are large enough, and the weather settled, place each square of sod in a well manured hill; make frames of 6-inch stuff, 12 or 15 inches square, a box without top or bottom; cover one end with millinet or mosquito net tacked on, and place one of these over each hill. This is the best way to keep off the striped bug. Should very cold nights occur, cover the tops of the boxes with shingles or any other handy stuff. It is not so much trouble as may be inferred from the description, and will greatly advance the cucumbers. Melons and summer squashes may be treated in the same manner as suggested for cucumbers.—American Agriculturist for April.

Beets for the Garden.

Those who only know the long lane Blood Beet," have yet to learn the difference in beets. As soon as any part of the garden can be worked, a sowing of early beets should be made. Select a light soil if possible, and manure it well; make the rows a foot apart, sow the seed thickly, at least two inches deep, and press down the soil firmly with a light roller, or pat it down with the hoe. The earliest varieties are the "Egyptian," and "Blood Turnip." The "Bassano" is not quite so early, or so fine grained, though good. The thick sowing is advised in order to have plenty of young beets at thinning; when two or three inches high, thin to 4 to 6 inches in the row, saving those that are pulled out to be used as "greens." Many prefer them even to spinach. It is well to sow seed for a succession, one in two weeks up to July. The "Blood Turnip" is so much superior to any of the large beets, that we prefer it for winter use. For this purpose the seed should not be sown before the middle of June, else they grow stringy.—American Agriculturist for April.

Eddie Eberman, of Bethlehem, aged 6 years, ran against a rose bush accidentally two weeks ago, pricking his cheek with a thorn. A few moments after in play he rubbed his cheek against the suppurating vaccination sores on a younger brother's arm, and the result is a well-vaccinated jaw.

Mrs. Lydia N. Johnson, of Paradise township, Lancaster county, has sued Daniel Espendale, of the same township, for $5000. Mr. Espendale charged that while taking up a collection in church recently the widow abstracted twenty-five cents from the plate; hence the suit.

George McGilpin, of Lancaster, went to Belmont, that county, one night recently to visit a family named McIlvain, for whom he had at one time worked. During the night he attempted to rob the house, but was over powered and taken to jail.

—Discouraging matrimony: "And phat wud ye want sich a man as Pathrick for?" said Mrs. McGlone. "Ye niver cud thrust him out of yer sight onliss ye was wid him."

—Curious phenomenon: When a man's chestnut curls begin to turn gray it means that he is over fifty years old; but when they begin to turn black—that means that he is sixty.

—Bound to suit: It is a Frenchman, not an Irishman, who advertises: "A rare chance For sale—Superb dining room furniture, genuine old oak; warranted brand-new."

—Excitement in politics: At a state ball. Madame follows with her eyes her daughter, who is dancing with a young "detache" of a foreign embassy. The latter makes his court to mademoiselle. "Your mamma is always on the watch. Haven't you a friend who would talk politics to her?" "Papa does that when he wants to send her to sleep!"

—Thought he heard something: "Where is the use of making so much fuss over the little eccentricities of others at the table?" exclaimed Fogg "Why should humans make any more bother about such things as pigs?" "But you must remember that we are not used to dining with pigs," said Pingrey, spearing the last potato with his fork. "Some of us are not, and some of us are," replied Fogg. For some occult reason, everybody looked at Pingrey and smiled.

—From the frying pan into the fire: A Memphis darkey who stole a mule tried to engage a lawyer who once saved him prison. The lawyer said he could not help him until he paid his fee in the former case. "Why, boss," exclaimed the discontented darkey, "I stole dat mule 'specially to sell him and pay you." At last accounts he was still without a legal adviser.

—Washington's occupation. An English turfman visiting Mount Vernon engaged in conversation with a native and after a few priliminary remarks observed: "I dare say Mr. Washington didn't care much for 'orses. You cawn't tell me, I suppose, if he was ever a 'orse breaker!" The Virginian eyed him a few seconds doubtless and then answered: "I ain't much on history, but to the best of my recollection the General was a lion tamer."

—An umbrella story: A gentleman, who had no umbrella and who had just come into town on a local train, perceived before him as he stepped into the street a person whom he took to be an acquaintance and who had a fine new umbrella hoisted over his head. Running up to him, therefore, he clapped him on the shoulder, saying, as he did so, by way of a joke: "I'll take that umbrella, if you please." The individual thus addressed looked around and disclosed a perfect stranger, but before the other could apologize he said, hurriedly: "Oh, it's yours, is it? Well, I didn't know that. Here, you can have it," and broke away, leaving the utensil in the hands of the first party to the conversation.

—As popular as Lord Roscoe: Lord Y., whose popularity was not excessively excessive in a certain Scotch town, having refused an importunate beggar, she renewed her application: "Now, my lord, if ye'd just gie me ane little sixpence I could treat every friend ye have in the toon."

The New York SUN, for 1882.

THE SUN for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and great, in contempt and unhappy, republican and democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The SUN'S light is for mankind and womankind of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

THE SUN of 1882 will be a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of THE SUN. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modelled after THE SUN. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of THE SUN'S example.

THE SUN of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper.

By a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and measuring its importance, not by the traditional yardstick, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with THE SUN. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or Bokhara.

In politics we have decided opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That habit is the only secret of THE SUN'S political course.

THE WEEKLY SUN gathers in onelight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues.
