There come the boys ! Oh, dear, the poise The whole house feels the racket; Behold the knee of Christle's pants, And weep o'er Bertie's jacket !

THE BOYS.

But never mind; if eyes keep bright, And limbs grow straight and limber; We'd rather lose the tree's whole bark Than find unsound the timber.

Now hear the tops and marbles roll ! The floors-oh, woe betide them ! And I must watch the banniers, For I know the boys who ride them !

Look well as you descend the stairs, I often find them baunted -By ghostly boys that make no noise Just when their noise is wanted.

The very chairs are tied in pairs, And made to pronce and caper; What swords are whittled out of sticks

What brave hats made of paper. The dinner bell peals loud and well To tell the milkman's coming! And then the rush of "steam car trains' Sets all our ears a-humming.

How oft I my, "What shall I do, To keep those children quiet?" It I could find a good receipt I certainly should try it.

But what to do with these wild boys, And all their din and clatter, Is really quite a grave affair, No laughing, trifling matter.

"Boys will be boys"-but not for long; Als, could we bear about us This thought how very soon our boys Will learn to do without us. How soon, and tall, deep voiced men

Will gravely call us "Mother," Or we be stretching empty hands From this world to the other.

More gently should we chide the noise, And when night quells the racket, Stitch in but loving thoughts and prayer While mending pants and jackers, -Housekeeper.
