A Brutal Attack. Sunday night at Frackville, Schuylkill county, several boys were turning a party of Hungarians who could not speak English, when one of the Hungarians in his rage attacked Benny Kuntner aged 16 years, an innocent spectator, with a hatchet, crossing his skull and cutting a deep gash across his face. Fatal Explosion. An explosion of sulphur occurred in the Buck Ridge colliery, near Shamokin, Saturday, causing the instant death of James Lawrence and Frank Orman, and fatally burning David Green and Frederick Hoffman. Green has since died. Hoffman had entered a breast with a naked lamp, while the other men remained behind the battery. An unexpected body of sulphur was met, which ignited from the lamp, causing a terrific explosion, and hurling the men with great force against the gateway timber. About two hundred tons of rock was dislodged, which fell on Lawrence and Orman. Green and Hoffman were terribly burned, and the former died the following day. This mine is over 1500 feet deep, and has always been remarkably free of gas.

Reformed Classic. The Lehigh Classic of the Reformed Church, in the jurisdiction of which the county of Carbon is embraced, met at Blain, Berks county, on Friday evening, and continued its business session Saturday morning. The opening sermon was preached at 10 o'clock by Rev. A. Bartholomew of this borough. The general business routine was preceded by the reading of a parochial report by each pastor giving account to classes of the errors and difficulties, joys and triumphs of the year. The general state of each ecclesiastical charge in this way brought to the attention of last year's session a report of the general business is presented to Classis in form for transaction by the reports of the Standing Committees, such as the Committee on Religious Services, Overseers, Class Minutes, Synodical Minutes, &c. In this way the items sent down from the synods of the church are brought to the attention of the Classis for proper action, together with any action recorded in the minutes of last year's session, requiring attention. The religious services were various and interesting. Saturday afternoon services were held preparatory to the Holy Communion, which was celebrated on Sunday morning. On Sunday afternoon there was a Sunday school meeting, with addresses by Rev. T. N. Reber, of Macungie, and Rev. J. H. Hartman, of this borough. In the evening there was a religious meeting consisting of worship and address on the Field of Foreign Missions, the Field of Domestic Missions, and the Method of Raising Missionary Funds, by Rev. J. H. Leitch, of Bradford. The closing proceedings were characterized by great unanimity. There was, indeed, hardly enough variety of sentiment to give spice to the proceedings.

Anniversary of the Centre Square Literary Society.

On Friday evening, 19th inst., the Literary Society connected with the Centre Square Select School, held its first anniversary. The exercises were held in the Evangelical church, near New Mahoning. Rev. W. K. Wiesend was present and opened the exercises with prayer. Miss Emma Kistler furnished the music for the occasion. Great credit is due her for the manner in which she conducted her work. Her services were very choice and timely. The Society, several solos and duets were especially admired by the audience. Essays and poems were delivered by the following members: Daniel Sitter, A. J. Balliet, Emma L. Seidle, Anselm Kistler, Nathan Balliet, Lily Arner, Amanda E. Balliet, Prof. A. S. Miller, formerly a member of the Society and at present principal of the East Mauch Chunk High School, delivered the Anniversary oration. His show "Antennae" was his subject. His address was pointed, interesting and practical. All the members of the programme acquitted themselves well. The success of the anniversary reflected great credit on the Society, and gave evidence of good, faithful work. The church was filled with an appreciative audience. The people of Centre Square may well be proud of the advantages of literary improvement their young people have in their midst. The Society has collected the nucleus of a good library, consisting of about 20 volumes of choice books, including Hume's England, Gibbon's Rome, Young's History of Rome and a full set of Abbott's popular histories. Efforts are making to increase this library, which will be of much value to the young people of the community.

This Society is connected with the Centre Square Select school, founded in the spring of 1877. This school has a very good, at least for the high grade it maintains. Its special object is to prepare young men for college and trade. A few years ago three of its students entered Sophomore class in college. It has at present classes in Memorabilia of Soerates, Cicero, Geometry, Algebra, Cosm., Virgil, Physiology, Mental Science, &c. The people of Centre Square enjoy special educational advantages. They have school 10 months in the year. It is at present in charge of Messrs. Geo. K. Musselman and Tig. M. Balliet.

Wesport Fencibles. —Miss Nora F. Smith, an esteemed lady, of Berwick, Pa., was visiting her numerous friends here last week.

—The one absorbing topic during the week has been the grand sociable of the L. S. C., which was held in Linderman's hall, Lehighton, on last Friday evening. From all accounts the many words of appreciation, it must have been a grand success. It is wonderful to listen to the brilliant panegyrics of some of those who were present. One lady in particular was so enthusiastic over the event that, in the height of her ecstasy, she declared she would attend no delightful affair ever evening were it possible. Judging by these and similar remarks we are constrained to call it a grand success. The net proceeds, above expenses, are to go for the benefit of the Club, which is a worthy institution in our midst.

—Miss Belle Nausbaum was on a pilgrimage to West Chester and Philadelphia during the latter part of last week. She enjoyed her trip very much.

—Mr. Wm. Brown, of Lancaster, and Mr. Melpot, of Kutztown, were the guests of Mr. A. F. Snyder over Sunday.

—On Tuesday evening a large party took Mrs. Amelia Knecht, the accomplished wife of our popular postmaster, unawares, and surprised her, it being her birthday. A large number were present with refreshments and enjoyed themselves merrily. Mr. K. was fully up to the occasion, and furnished a liberal supply of oranges, nicknacks, candies and other dainties. It was indeed a pleasant evening for the participants, and will be long remembered by them.

—Dr. J. G. Zern is making extensive improvements to his residence.

—The spirit of improvement and repairing has seized a number of our people, and chief among them Mrs. Maria Colton, who is putting down a stone pavement and erecting a new fence in front of her handsome property. Mrs. C. is one of the live busy women of this valley.

Ozo.

—A. J. Balliet has introduced the straw hat in this vicinity—he claims it is too warm for our kind of weather.

—The Centre Square Literary Society will meet this (Saturday) evening in the school house. The question for discussion is debated. That had books are more numerous than had company. The society is in a flourishing condition, and the people begin to appreciate it.

—Rev. W. K. Wiesend delivered an able sermon on Saturday evening in the chapel at New Mahoning.

—The choir of St. John's church met last Sunday evening at the home of Mr. H. H. Peters for practice, and will meet there again next Sunday evening. They are progressing finely.

—F. W. Smith is back from the Theological Seminary, at Lancaster. He will finish his course next year.

—David B. has commenced the manufacture of canes.

—Amanda Kistler was at West Penn on Saturday visiting friends.

—Some persons claim that man should have experience both in literary and practical company. Some attend to both on the same evening. They must surely obtain some benefit by it.

O. C. & Nav. Co.—Divided. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company Tuesday announced a semi-annual dividend of two per cent, payable on the 25th of June, the transfer books being closed ten days previous. We learn that the business of the Lehigh Navigation Company shows a marked improvement over the same period last year. Notwithstanding the great depression in the coal trade, the production of the Company's coal has increased, and at a reduced cost per ton. The tonnage of the canal is 14,000 tons greater, and the miscellaneous business on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad shows a large increase. For the remainder of the year the prospects are regarded as very favorable.

—A. W. Wonnaschke, is putting down a substantial stone pavement in front of his vacant lot adjoining his dwelling, West Broadway.

—Dennis Mulhearn has put up a frame building adjoining his mother's lot on West Broadway, so used as a store, as he intends to embark in the mercantile business, at once. The more the merrier.

—The Broadway entrance of the L. & S. office, near the railroad, has been favored with a new coat of paint. So far, so good. We hope that the Company will not neglect defraying the expenses of the choir.
