FRESH FRUITS.

A Remarkable sermon on Intemperance.
One of the best, most courageous, earnest, and complete sermons on the subject of Intemperance ever had the pleasure of hearing, was preached on last Sunday evening in the Reformed and Lutheran church, of Weisport, by the Rev. J. E. Freeman, the pastor of the Reformed and Lutheran church of that place. Coming as it did from a clergyman of the Reformed church, we were more surprised than if it had been preached by a minister of the Evangelical or Methodist church, for as is well-known, this is a common subject with most of them, and the members are so disciplined and educated on temperance that they expect sermons on this subject.
The Rev. gentleman, took his text from Gal. V, 21. Drunkenness, revellings and such like—which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God. After giving the two principal words of the text in the German language, (sauffen, fressen) which mean with the English words, drunkenness and gluttony, he simplified the word revellings. He then, among many other excellent points and strong arguments against this gigantic evil, spoke as follows: "The reason for taking these two words for my text, is because drunkenness and gluttony generally go together," he then referred to the shrewdness of the drunkard in eating and the drunkard-maker in selling salt pretzels to create thirst, to be able to drink more. "Many are gluttons, and the proverb is true that 'more dig their graves with their teeth than with spades,'" said this plea of the drunkard and arguing that the custom of drinking is right, because many eat like gluttons, is very illogical, and yet we find some who excuse themselves in this foolish way. Because one thing is evil, does not make another evil right. Drunkenness and the custom of drinking is a very great wrong; to prove this I need simply refer you to the fact that 70,000 persons fill drunkards graves in the United States alone every year, picture to yourselves the misery which this habit causes, the death of the drunkard's family, the tears of the widowed mother, the sorrow and disgrace of the orphaned children, the rags and degradation, and awful misery of the poor drunkard himself. We have some in our own church in Weisport engaged in the sale of strong drink; but they say the man so engaged must make a living; but shall he engage in robbing others and making hundreds and thousands of drunks; shall one man pay a high rent, and make many business, by selling hundreds and thousands of bottles, it would be good if the hotels and saloons in which intoxicants are sold would be prohibited altogether, and I wish for the day when this great evil will be swept from the earth. We have drunkards in our own church, and we should not allow such to remain members. More strict discipline is necessary in our churches, and this is one of the things that make our churches comparatively powerless and corrupt. Many preachers are afraid to speak plainly on this subject, and many lack the backbone to face it for fear that it might drive some members out of the church, and decrease their salary, in other words, they will effect their popularity and pocket book; but it is time to talk plainly on this subject, and if I cannot preach here because I preach the truth, I can go to some other place and preach it. The church and church members should take a bold stand on the subject of Intemperance. The church should take a leading part in fighting the evils of Intemperance. This great evil would soon be swept from our land, if we had only the moral courage and the will to undertake it. We have the power to do it, by the laws which God has placed in our hands, and all that is wanted is the moral backbone to engage in the work of reform. Intemperance would be swept from our land very soon, if the strong hand of woman could do this. Many a man has been driven to drink, by a never-dry woman; that intoxicates, I was against taking the glass do not say that you are strong enough to stop before becoming drunkards, the experience of drinkers in the past proves the contrary, and the only safe way is to follow the bible and let it alone—"Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." We sometimes find young men, (in some cases, church members), sitting in front of hotels and lager beer saloons, if you have ever been in the city of Nazareth, you will remember the church should take the first step to drunkenness and ruin. I would like to give a little advice to the single ladies present in this: Do not marry a man if he drinks; do not even keep the company of a young man who drinks most brutally, avoid such a man as you would a black snake. Do not think you can make the young man sober by marrying him, for you will certainly be plunged into a life of misery."

Six Years to Repent.
In the Northampton county court, at Easton, Tuesday last Frederick Stark was convicted of having stolen a silver watch from a citizen and a pair of gloves from a merchant. Stark had been convicted of a felony before and while a serving a term in jail became involved in a fight by which a fellow prisoner lost his arm. Judge Betts sentenced him to three years imprisonment on each charge and ordered the terms to follow each other, making six years in all. In passing sentence the Judge said that Stark's past record and his failure to reform or attempt to reform and his want of principle in his recent life that led to the fall victim being imposed. The action of Judge Betts is very favorably commented upon by the people and the press of Northampton county.

Met the Wrong Man.
While Edward Bentz, of the Lehigh Mountain Brewery, was returning home from Bethlehem late Tuesday night, he was assaulted by robbers in the Lehigh University grounds. When in the grove opposite the library building he was suddenly struck on the right side of the head behind the ear with a blackjack or stone in the hand of some one unknown to him. The blow stunned him and but for coming in contact with a large tree he would have fallen to the ground. An attempt was made by his assailant to go through his pockets, but Bentz was quick for the robber. Striking out with his fist, he succeeded in knocking down, by a single hammer blow, the man who was nearest to him. Although very dark Mr. Bentz discovered that he had to do with three persons, and according to his own story, he was not long in making up his mind to knock the highway men out of time or die in the attempt. The noise of the scuffle attracted the attention of a watchman and the robbers beat a hasty retreat. Mr. Bentz did not recognize any of his assailants.
A Sunday Bless in Allentown.
At half past four o'clock Sunday afternoon the forest fire Allentown has had for several months broke out in an old unoccupied frame carriage factory and in a remarkably short time the building, together with Charles Losch's large livery stable and a small frame dwelling, was burned to the ground. The Pennsylvania Hotel and Seventh and Linden streets, caught fire at the rear and its total destruction was feared for a time, but the fireman by hard work saved it. Several brick buildings east and north of the burning stables were on fire, but were saved by the firemen. Mr. Losch's loss is estimated at $4,000 to $5,000 on which he has insurance to the amount of $3,000 in the Lehigh County. Constantine Losch's livery stable was also for a time in great danger, and his sheds were ablaze. The total loss is placed at about $5,000. The fire spread over nearly an acre of surface, and the heat was intense.

Sharper Nabbed.
Several days ago two strangers, well dressed and apparently business men, arrived in Allentown, Schuylkill county, representing themselves as traveling agents for wholesale military stores and visited a number of leading clothiers, where they left articles of clothing to be repaired. While the proprietor was engaged waiting on one of them the other was helping himself to pieces of cloth. This programme was successfully carried out in the stores of Messrs. Knaloung, Bentz and Conating, who did not discover their loss until Saturday evening, but the sharper had left town for Allentown, where it was learned the stolen goods had been shipped. The Chief of Police of that city was notified and succeeded in arresting the thieves when they reappeared at the express office for their goods.

Missed the Bird, but Hit the Man.
Robert Parker and Hiroo Neisewiner have for a long time been rival sportsmen in Shenandoah. Each had a good record at pigeon-shooting. Saturday afternoon they met on Ringwood Mountain to test their merits as shots. A large crowd witnessed the match. A number of birds had been shot, when Neisewiner fired at a bird, which, when released, flew towards the spot where Parker was standing. Neisewiner missed the bird and struck Parker. The top of Parker's head was blown off and his brains were scattered all around. He expired in the arms of a friend. He was twenty-two years old and unmarried. Neisewiner is twenty-four years old. Neisewiner gave himself up to the authorities.

MALARIA
Malaria is an almost indescribable maldy which not even the most talented physicians are able to fathom. Its cause is most frequently ascribed to local surroundings, and there is very little question, but this opinion is substantiated by facts. Malaria does not necessarily mean chills and fever while these troubles usually accompany it. It often affects the sufferer with general lassitude, accompanied by loss of appetite, sleeplessness, a tired feeling, and a high fever, the person afflicted growing weaker and weaker, loses flesh day after day, until he becomes a mere skeleton, a shadow of his former self.
Malaria once having laid its hold upon the human frame, the patient will find himself unable to perform his ordinary duties, the digestive organs will perform their function, the liver becomes torpid, and other organs will be affected. It is a dreadfully distressing and painful disease, and should be diagnosed and treated as soon as possible.
In addition to being a certain cure for malaria and chills and fever, BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is highly recommended for all diseases requiring a certain and efficient remedy, especially indigestion, dyspepsia, intermittent fevers, want of appetite, loss of strength, lack of energy, etc. All respectable druggists and chemists, as well as dealers in medicine, price $1.00 per bottle.
