H. V. MORTRIMER, Foreman. "The Tailor Makes the Man."

Since the tailor makes the man, it must be evident to the most casy-going mind but the best millor makes the best mun. This, of course, must be taken with limit-ations. However, it is a fact admitted by all, that as man must have clothing be might as well have it to fit him neatly and made in becoming style as to have it dis nise him against all recognition by hi riends, as it too frequently does. For the surpose then of having their patrolis prais purpose then of having their patrols praise them because of their becoming appearance and well made garments, thous & Bro, the popular merchant tailors, of Lebighton, make a point to give their customers per feet fits and garments well and artistically made.
