which the operation is performed. He considers the remedy infallible, and says it rarely injures the tenderest plants. Dr. Caudize has recently proven the practicability of photographing landscapes from railway trains running at as high a rate as forty miles an hour. He uses for the purpose a modified camera which he calls the gyrograph, and with which it is said wonderfully distinct views can be obtained after a little practice. An exposure of only a hundredth of a second may be had.

-Among the creatures which attracted Prof. Hackel's attention during a recent tour in Ceylon was the great black scor pion-nearly a foot long-which he found to exist in such numbers that he collect ed half a dozen specimens in the course of an hour. Snakes were also noticed in great numbers. Slender green suakes hung from almost every bough, and at night the great rat-snake hunted rats and mice over the roofs of the huts, Although these ratanakes are harmless. Prof Hæckel considers it by no means a pleas ant surprise when one of them, five feet long, suddenly drops through a hole in the roof into one's room, perhaps alight ing on the bed.
