Prozen Facts About Apportionments. Legislature sat five months-the full period it could draw pay-in regul r usion, and failed to perform one of the important public duties that is made mandatory by the Constitution every legislator is sworn to obey. That im postant public duty is the apportionment of the State in Congressional Legislative and Judicial districts. Having failed to perform that important duty, Governor Pattison has con Toned the Legislature in extraordinary session for the special purpose of passing the apportionment bills, and it is freely given out that while the Ja ticial bill is likely to pass, the Congressis nal bill is in great peril and the Legislative bill is foredoomed to defeat, Upon what grounds are these possible or probable falleres based?

If the Democrats had partisan contro of the Senate, as they have of the House and the Governor, they would pass regular Democratic gerrymandering apper tionments, of course. They all do it and when cither criticize the other by unfairners, it is simply pot calling kettle black. But the Democrats have the House and Governor and the Republieans baye the Senate, and there can be no partisan gerrymander for either side In other words, both parties are com palled by necessity and not by choice to m ske reasonably fair apportionments, it they are to be made. The one vantage gr and held by the Republicans is in their old Republican gerrymandered apportionments, which continue in case of fillure to pass new bills.

The Republicans publicly profess t favor fair apportionments. Do they really mean it? If they do, they will take the Presidential vote of 1880, the full-st and fairest test of relative party strength divide the quota of voters by the numb er of Congressional districts, and thus what would be a fair division of C n gresamen. Tested by that infallible rule the Republicans would be entitled to a fraction less than 15 Congressmen and the Democrats would be fully entitled to 11. But there are insuperable geographical obstacles to an absolute fair appertionment, as the Democrats have 76,000 voters in Philadelphia, and no sort of Congressmen, while perfectly natural them none at all. Indeed, the Demo eratic wards must be bunched to give them one certain district, In like man ner, Allegheny has 22,000 Democratimake them voiceless.
