Thousands, if not millions,of young and old Americans. delight in the reputation of being smart men, and would not hesitate to set every principle of deceney and monhood at defi ance if the dollar pile only hes at a long lase of infancy. Those men want wealth without work and distinction without the character that deserves it. The greed; vulgar spirit of speculation has spread from the Senate House and Wall Street into the factory and the dry goods store, the chure and the printing office.

There are countless persons who would disown their parents, their brothers and their sisters; who would deceive their friends and betray their country, for the chance of mak ing a little money, without work, and of ppearing to be called "smart" by the dregs of society. They despise the old virtues of honor, probity, integrity, good sense, fine celing and understanding, and care for othing but fast living, flash dress false style and foolish friends. The "smart tolks" f our day are, as a rule, neither men nor boys; they have neither souls to be saved, as y uor nacks to be kicked; they beeng not to the class of fish, flesh, or even good red herring, and, as was once remarked about the Republican party, "They must go."
