

A very large quantity of rare silver coins was found lately at Borze-cie, in the Krotoczin district, in Prussia P. Land. A farmer was having a large stone removed from one of his fields, and the workmen found deep beside it a urn with 530 silver coins of Bohemian, German, Hungarian, and even Anglo-Saxon mintage. With them were some silver ornaments and a few silver bars. They were all taken to the Royal Museum of Coins at Berlin.

Massachusetts has a ten-hour law, enforced by the penalty of a fine ranging from $50 to $100 for the first offence. The last Legislature extended the provision of the act to mechanical and mercantile establishments. This effects many women employed in bakeries, millinery shops, retail stores, and boys in groceries, drug stores and other places. As yet, however, the small grocery slave laborers from the taking down of the shutters until the putting up of the same.

DuMaurier the humorous artist of Punch who brought Oscar Wilde into publicity by caricaturing the aesthetes, is a pleasant-looking man of middle height, with genial manners. He wears a light moustache and imperial, which gives him a foreign aspect, and is compelled by defective vision to use glasses. On account of his bad sight, he makes his drawings considerably larger than the impressions which appear in print. He is a rapid worker, doing the delicate details which abound in his pictures with wonderful facility.

The early years of childhood are the store house in which are hoarded the impressions that last through life; in them are gathered the influences that are to be ineffaceable in the after-career. We never forget the feelings we then experienced—the tones, the gestures, the faces of those we loved, or from whom we shrank, with the passionate intensity of our fresh hearts.

Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. True; but also out of the emptiness of the heart the mouth can speak even more volubly. He who can always find the word which is appropriate and adequate to his emotions is not the man whose emotions are deepest; warmth of feeling is one thing; permanence is another.

If we live rightly here we shall pass into the other world to live happily there. Hence we need not mourn the absence of friends who have gone any more than we should mourn of friends who have moved to another country and are enjoying life there.

Paul did not stop preaching because all of his converts did not hold out. Many of the converts even of Jesus went back, "and went no more with him." If a man tumbles into the river, are we to refuse to help him out because he may fall in again.

Use your prosperity with so much caution and prudence as may not suffer you to forget yourself, or despise your inferior; and consider, while you enjoy much, how little you deserve.

Let no one ever repudiate an honest effort, nor ever ask to have truth veiled behind ambiguous sentences of honeyed words, however hideous she may seem to those who know her not.

Modesty is to worth what shadows are in painting; she gives to it strength and relief.

The last, best fruit, which comes late to perfection, even in the kindest soul, is tenderness toward the hard, forbearance toward the unforbearing, and warmth of heart toward the misanthropic.

He who puts a bad construction on a good act, reveals his own wickedness of heart.

Ruskins says that the noblest building made with hands for perfection ends must lack the perfection of grace and beauty, unless lit from the lamp of sacrifice.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable. Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy luster, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it dispels no one.

Time to Stop it. It's too bad, Sir or Madam, but don't get frightened. Your hair is falling off—that's certain. A glance in the mirror, or an investigating committee of fingers tell the dismal story. We won't discuss the possible cause. It is enough that Parker's Hair Balsam used now will prevent further destruction. Is your hair somewhat gray, too, and crisp? Alas, yes! The Balsam will give back the original color, softness and gloss. Not a dye, not oily, elegantly performed, a perfect dressing.

—He only employs his passions who can make no use of his reason.

—Try Ayer's Pills and be cured. Misery is a mild word to describe the mischief to body and mind caused by habitual constipation. The regular use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills in mild doses will restore the torpid viscera to healthy action.

—One who is contented with what he has done will never become famous for what he will do. He has laid down to die.

—A pure strengthening tonic free from whiskey and alcohol, cures dyspepsia and similar diseases. It has never been equaled. Brown's Iron Bitters.

—The prejudices of youth pass away with it; those of old age last only because there is no other age to be hoped for.

—Five years ago my life was a dread all the time from Heart Disease, since using Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator the English language would fail me in telling the good I received.—Kate Murgrove, Columbia, Ind. For sale at druggists.

FIGHT—SIGHT—NIGHT.

I saw a vision in the night Which chilled my blood almost; And care I me into dreadful States— An awful, horrid ghost!

With turtle's head and lobster's claws, Ghastly made it plain to see, I'd eaten rather late at night More than was good for me.

There came a sound like angel's voice, Clear as a silver bell; It said, take "PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER,"—and be well!

A dentist's sign—drawing, music and dancing.

"Blood food" is the suggestive name of ten given to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, because of its blood-enriching qualities.

What men call accident is God's own part.

A startling fact. Heart Disease is only inferior in fatality to consumption, do not suffer from it but use Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator. It has cured thousands, why not you? $1 at druggists.

Uncle Sam's Navy. In a communication published in the Army and Navy Journal, Commander J. B. Goghan, U. S. N., states that the consultations of eminent naval and other surgeons, respecting his rheumatic attacks, failed to afford him the slightest relief. By advice of Dr. H. H. Hyle he used St. Jacobs Oil, which brought a complete end, as he says, wonderful cure. John Carr Moody, esq., lawyer at Vallejo, Cal., was likewise cured of severe joint trouble.

TIED ALL OVER. What Rested and Refreshed a Weary Man in Memphis. "No, it never amounted to an acute pain, but continued to be a dull weary ache in the small of my back," writes Mr. James Thom as, of No. 39 Madison street, Memphis, Tenn. "This is an old experience, and has become duller. I was tired all over, with pain in the lower limbs, and the habit of being awake at night. Recently I tried one of BENSON'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER and was decidedly relieved within twenty-four hours. It may have been Providence that did the work, but I give the credit to Benson's porous plaster." Mr. Thom's reverential idea does him credit, but Providence works by agents, and among them Benson's plaster ranks first as an external remedy. It acts quickly to relieve and heal, and renders life better worth living. Price 25 cents. Look in the middle of the plaster for the word CAPSICUM, ask your physician about it. Seabury & Johnson, Chemists, New York. Sept 7-21.

FARMERS' COLUMN.

Attention, Peach Growers. To those who find themselves, for the first time, with a crop of peaches on their hands, the most important question is—how to dispose of it? If a commission dealer in a city market has not been selected, this should be attended to at once. It is not difficult to ascertain the reputation of such men, and having selected one, stick to him. All sorts of buyers will come along, as the fruit is near ripening, offering better terms than any one else; usually these have no regular place of business, but sell on the dock, or at the depot, if they get a consignment. In many localities drying or evaporating, and canning factories, have been established; it will be well to ascertain if the fruit may not be contracted for at these on favorable terms, and thus avoid much of the labor and uncertainty of marketing. If the crop is to be marketed, of course, the kind of packages used has become a question of importance. If these are to be returned when emptied, see that they are properly marked. The novice in peach growing has much trouble with his pickers. He cannot afford to pick himself, but must watch the others. The great trouble is from over-ripe fruit. A single soft peach will spoil a crate or basket, should it become "leaky." Where experienced pickers are to be had, they assort as they pick, but even in the large orchards it is now becoming the custom to assort afterwards. All the fruit properly ripe is picked, and then taken to the "sorters," or "enlers," who make three or four qualities, as may be decided upon. This work is done in a shed for the purpose, or temporary tables of boards upon horses, upon which to spread the fruit, are placed in the orchard. The very best peaches go as "extra," and the packages of these are "twigged," i. e., a small branch of peach leaves is placed upon the top. A second and a third quality are made by some, while others send but two. All the over-ripe, badly-shaped, specked, or otherwise faulty peaches are placed in a third or fourth basket, as may be, to be used at home, or taken to the pigs. Whether two or three grades are sent to the market, let them be distinctly marked. Let the quality be the same all through the package, if the grower wishes to have his brand acquire a good reputation. It is allowable to place the top layer with their colored sides uppermost, but not to "decolor" or "top off" with large peaches, while all below are inferior. Retailers, who buy the most of the peaches sent to market, soon learn which brands turn out the best, and select accordingly in purchases.

Give Digger Fox Scuttles. The loss to farmers who raise poultry, in turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens, amounts to thousands of dollars annually, after every period of neglect, in which the fowls have had time to multiply, in almost any agricultural town. It is so severely felt, and the visitations to the poultry yards are so evenly distributed, that virtuous indignation seizes all the freeholders, and at the first town meeting a bounty of five dollars is almost unanimously voted on every fox head presented to the town treasurer's office. The foxes, of course, must be killed within the town. The thirty farmers of Shadwell have no notion of paying for foxes caught in Bergholm, although the Bergholm foxes have no respect for town boundaries, and invade Shadwell every night. Under the five dollar bounty, foxes are hunted and begin to grow scarce. The old hunters, fond of the sport, invest in fox-hounds, and when the light snows of early winter come, there is a general muster of all the hunters, and the music of hounds is heard over all the hills and valleys. The holes of foxes are invaded every spring, and sometimes a lucky hunter digs from a single hole a half-dozen young ones, and draws from the treasury thirty dollars, as the reward of a morning's work. This is making money quite too fast in a rural community, and a spasm of economy seizes the freeholders, and at the next town meeting the bounty is put down to a dollar, or withdrawn altogether. In two or three years the foxes are as numerous as ever, and many farmers give up raising turkeys, because of the insecurity of the crop. What is wanted in all our Northern States is a State bounty upon foxes of ten dollars or more, payable at each town treasury in which the foxes are caught. This bounty from the State should be kept on persistently, until the foxes are as scarce as bears or wolves. This would make poultry raising comparatively secure, and greatly enlarge the profits of every farming region. The interests to be protected are immense, and are as great in the longest settled parts of the Eastern States as in newer sections.—AMERICAN CULTIVATOR.

An Ally of Prohibition. Grape juice is so scarce, that out of the State of California the adulteration of wine is almost universal in our country. Recipes for making wine of any brand, and of any age, without a drop of grape juice, are well known to some wine dealers. The prohibitionists from Maine to California, and from the Lakes to the Gulf, want more vineyards and more grape juice, and welcome grape culture as well as all other fruit culture, as a powerful adjunct in their reform. When the villagers and the rural cultivators can literally stand under their own vine and fig tree, when the tempting clusters of the vine in the fresh state are upon the poor man's table for six months in the year, when grape juice in its various preparations is among the family stores in every household, the enticements of the grog shop will have lost many of their charms.—AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
