DROWNED IN BEER.

Concerning this Popular Beverage Two Men Express their Minds.

"The fact is, you may stick a pin there, that the people of this country are likely to be drowned in a flood of lager beer," shouted an enthusiastic tetterer the other day into the ear of your honored correspondent.

"That German drink has struck us hard. It is the second deluge." "Yes, and the worst of this beer drinking business is that it gets up kidney troubles, as a heavy wind raises the waves," added a city physician, who had a knowledge of the lines and a tendency to metaphor. "The mistletoe 'skeleton' leaves behind it a wake of ferred tongues, headaches, torpid livers, nausea, and all that, and lays the foundation of Bright's Disease."

This mischievous fact accounts in part for the increasing sales of PARSONS' CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, which at once mitigates these symptoms. Price 25 cents. Ask your physician about it.

FARMERS' COLUMN.

Science in Farming.

We have much poor land in the United States, and an immense area of good land. The poor land will be used to grow timber, or be improved by converting more or less of it, gradually, into pasture, and stocking it with sheep and cattle. The main point is, to feed the sheep or cattle with some rich nitrogenous food, such as cotton-seed cake, malt sprouts, bran, shorts, mill-feed, refuse beans, or bean meal made from beans injured by the weevil, or bug. In short, the owner of such land must buy such food as will furnish the most nutriment and make the richest manure at the least cost—taking both of these objects into consideration. He will also buy more or less artificial manures, to be used for the production of fodder crops, such as corn, millet, Hungarian grass, etc. And, as soon as a portion of the land can be made rich enough, he will grow more or less manure weeds, sugar beets, turnips, and other
