

Advertising Rates.

We desire to be distinctly understood that all advertisements to be inserted in the columns of THE CARBON ADVOCATE...

CARDS.

Attorneys. T. A. SNYDER, ATTORNEY AT LAW. Office—Corner of Bank Street & Bankway...

Physicians and Dentists. W. G. M. SCIPLE, Physician & Surgeon. Has removed his office and residence from Second St. to South St. in the building formerly occupied by A. J. HULL...

Physician and Surgeon. W. A. DERHAMER, M. D. Special attention paid to Chronic Diseases. Office, South East corner Iron and 2nd Sts., Lehighton, Pa. April 3, 1893.

Physician and Surgeon. D. C. W. BOWER. May be consulted in the German or English language. Office, opposite Darling's Drug Store, Bank St., Lehighton, Pa. Jan. 19, 1893.

Mauch Chunk, Pa. Patients of the world of the latest improvements in our dental appliances and the best methods of treatment in all surgical cases...

General Insurance Agent. THOMAS KEMMER, CONVEYANCER. The following Companies are Represented: LEHIGH MUTUAL FIRE, READING MUTUAL FIRE, WYOMING FIRE, POTTSVILLE FIRE, LEHIGH FIRE and the TRAVELERS ACCIDENT INSURANCE...

CARBON HOUSE. J. W. RAUDENBUSH, PROPRIETOR. Bank St., Lehighton, Pa. The Carbon House offers first-class accommodations to the traveling public...

MAUCH CHUNK HOUSE. T. F. FELL, Proprietor. When staying at the County Seat this Hotel will be found to be first-class in every respect...

DAVID EBBERT'S Livery & Sale Stables. My well known hotel is admirably fitted and has the best accommodations for transient and traveling guests...

FAST TRAITING HORSES. ELEGANT CARRIAGES. And positively LOWER PRICES than any other Livery in the County.

J. W. RAUDENBUSH. Respectfully announces to the public that he has opened a NEW LIVERY STABLE in connection with his hotel...

WM. DUFFY & SON, of East Mauch Chunk, are prepared to do all kinds of Plastering & Ornamental Work...

The Carbon Advocate.

H. V. MORTIMER, Proprietor.

INDEPENDENT—“Live and Let Live.”

$1.00 a Year if Paid in Advance.

VOL. XI, No 51.

LEHIGHTON, CARBON COUNTY, PA., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1893.

If not paid in advance, $1.25.

FALL AND WINTER GOODS

Mrs. Fath has much pleasure in announcing to the ladies of Lehighton and vicinity, that she has just returned from the City with a large, elegant and fashionable assortment of the very latest novelties in FALL AND WINTER Millinery Goods, INCLUDING Hats, Bonnets, Ribbons, Feathers, Flowers, &c., suitable for Ladies, Misses and Children's Wear.

MRS. E. FATH, BANK Street, Second door below the M. E. Church. [sep15m3] Look to Your Interests! James Walp, Successor to A. D. MOSSER, Manufacturer of and Dealer in all kinds of Stoves Ranges, Heaters, Tia and Sheet Iron Ware, House Furnishing Goods, &c., &c. Is now offering extraordinary Bargains for Cash! He is the only Agent in town for the sale of the Bessemer, Sunshine, Othello, New Champion and Apollo Ranges; Montour, Lighthouse, Excelsior Penn, and Eclipse Cook Stoves; the Princeton, Early Dawn, Belmont and Real Double Heaters, with a variety of other Square and Round Heaters.

Roofing and Spouting, Prompt and Cheap. Store on SOUTH Street, a few doors above Bank Street. (Postage included, as satisfaction guaranteed. June 23, 1893.) Buy Your Fall and Winter Dress and Dry Goods, Groceries, Queensware, etc., AT C. M. SWEENEY & SON'S, Old Post-Office Building, Bank St. Lehighton.

Dr. CLARR JOHNSON'S INDIAN BLOOD SYRUP. Cures all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Kidneys, Skin and Blood. Millions testify to its efficacy in healing the above named diseases, and pronounce it to be the BEST REMEDY KNOWN TO MAN. Guaranteed to Cure Dyspepsia. AGENTS WANTED. Laboratory 77 West 3d St., New York City, Druggists sell it. LEKENS, DARTMOUTH CO., PA.

Fall and Winter Stock! The undersigned calls the attention of his many friends and patrons to his Large and Fashionable Stock of Fall and Winter Goods, Consisting of BOOTS AND SHOES Every description and Style in the Market, including a special line of Lady's Fine Shoes Also, a full line of Umbrellas, Rubbers, Hats, Caps,

LEWIS WEISS, Old Post Office Building, BANK Street, LEHIGHTON. April 4, 1893-17

Thomas' Drug Store. With Medicine the most important is Quality and not Quantity, and the knowledge of Dispensing the same. Go to THOMAS' DRUG STORE for Pure Drugs and Patent Medicines, Toilet Articles and Perfumery. Choice Wines and Liqueurs for medicinal purposes. Go to THOMAS' DRUG STORE for Wall Paper and Borders, always a large stock on hand. Go to THOMAS' DRUG STORE for Station & Sore's New Wink CIGARS—ask for the "Capadocia." Special attention given to Prescriptions. At THOMAS' Drug Store, Grading's Old Stand, Robert's Block, Bank Street, Lehighton, Pa.

BILL MASON'S BRIDE. BERTIE HARRIS. Half an hour till train time, sir, An' a fearful dark time, too; Take a look at the switch lights, For in a tick when you go through, "Oh time!" Well, yes, I guess so; Left the rail station all right— She'll come round the curve a-tyin'!

THE MYSTIC NOTE. I was a harum-scarum youth, and for a dozen years of my manhood had no settled home. I started out as a clerk in a country store, then I became a school teacher, next a clerk in a drug store, where I learned my chemical mysteries finally, I became a law student, and it was my knowledge of chemistry—science of which I am passionately fond—that gave me a start as a law student.

to be you. As I knew your father well, and knew you when you was a boy, I thought I could not do better than to put the case in your hands; I'd at least be sure of fair treatment, I thought. "You would be sure of that at the hands of any lawyer, whom you should instruct your case," said I. "Now, let me know what it is, and I will see what can be done." "Well, it is this. I've worked quite hard all my life at my trade, and accumulated some money—about six thousand dollars, in fact. I have seven children I should like to provide for, and it has been my steady aim to increase my money all I could. A year ago, a friend of mine, who is in the same business I am in, told me if he could take a partner in the spring, and if I should like to, we could make a lot of money. I looked into the matter, and found he was not mistaken about it. I saw I could, in a few years, increase my six thousand to twenty thousand, and I told him I would be ready to join him in the business when the time came. Meantime, my money was lying in the bank, where I ought to have left it, drawing five and a half per cent interest.

"I put it in this pocket-book, where I keep all my important papers; but when I came to look for it among some other notes, and the like, I couldn't find it. "He produced a large old-fashioned leather pocket-book, as he spoke, and I looked through it, and examined a lot of receipts and notes that were packed together in one of its pockets, thinking that two of the papers might be sticking together. "There is no promissory note for that amount here," said I, "but what is the blank sheet of paper doing here?" and I took up a slip of white paper that I found among the documents. "Who is the man that gave you the note?" "Alexander Bolton, the druggist." "I knew Alexander Bolton well. He was wealthy and generous, and had the name of being very tricky. I was satisfied that Mr. Campbell was telling the truth. I was as well convinced that Alexander Bolton was not a man who would be likely to forget having borrowed such a large sum of six thousand dollars, and I jumped to the conclusion that he had played some cunning trick to wrong the confiding merchant out of the fruits of many years of labor. But what was the trick? That was the question that puzzled me.

"I was only an accident." A slip of paper in your hand, a careless glance, a new left thumb, a sprained ankle from a slip on a loose stone, a bruised shin by a slip from a car platform, a cut on your cheek by a clumsy barber's razor, a contusion on your elbow by poking it through a street car window, a swelling on your nose from running against an open door in the dark—these are likely to happen without a moment's notice. To be ready for them have a bottle of FRAY'S PATENT KIDNEY PILLS.

THE MYSTIC NOTE. I was a harum-scarum youth, and for a dozen years of my manhood had no settled home. I started out as a clerk in a country store, then I became a school teacher, next a clerk in a drug store, where I learned my chemical mysteries finally, I became a law student, and it was my knowledge of chemistry—science of which I am passionately fond—that gave me a start as a law student.

THE MYSTIC NOTE. I was a harum-scarum youth, and for a dozen years of my manhood had no settled home. I started out as a clerk in a country store, then I became a school teacher, next a clerk in a drug store, where I learned my chemical mysteries finally, I became a law student, and it was my knowledge of chemistry—science of which I am passionately fond—that gave me a start as a law student.

THE MYSTIC NOTE. I was a harum-scarum youth, and for a dozen years of my manhood had no settled home. I started out as a clerk in a country store, then I became a school teacher, next a clerk in a drug store, where I learned my chemical mysteries finally, I became a law student, and it was my knowledge of chemistry—science of which I am passionately fond—that gave me a start as a law student.

A RATTLESAKE CAUGHT. THE WAY A STRAITENED COUNTRY FARMER CAPTURED THE RATTLESAKE FOR HIS NEIGHBORS. PORT JEFFERS, Oct. 26.—John C. Greer, of Long Eddy, a veteran rattlesnake catcher, has just shipped four rattles, averaging over four feet in length, to a museum in Rochester. Mr. Greer does a lively business in rattlesnakes. He catches them for traveling shows and menageries, and sells them at a good round price. His method of capture is very simple. With his feet encased in a pair of heavy cowhide boots, through which the fangs of the snake cannot penetrate, he goes out into the woods only a short distance from his farm house. Armed with a heavy cane, he walks along until he hears or sees a rattler. If it is coiled up a blow with the cane will straighten it out, and while it is uncoiled it cannot strike. Holding it firmly back of the head with the cane, slips a small hood of thick woolen cloth over its head and ties it fast. The snake can then wriggle and strike as much as it pleases, it is then harmless. After two or three are captured they are put in a bag and carried home. There they are put in a box specially prepared for their reception, having a foot of thick plate glass. At first they are furious, and wriggle and plunge about striking at the sides of the glass in an most extraordinary manner, but they finally quiet down and take kindly to their new quarters. They are fed three times a day regularly. Their food consists of frogs, mice, gophers, and sometimes small birds. Mr. Greer says August is the most dangerous of all months for capturing the snakes, because they are shedding their skins and cannot see and so do not give the customary three alarm rattles.

LITIGIOUS PETER QUICK. HIS STROGLES AND FORTUNES IN THE PILE COUNTY COURTS SINCE 1857. HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—In 1875 Peter A. L. Quick, of Pike county, this State, came into a fortune of $50,000. It was the result of a law suit which he began in 1857, with only $200 in his pocket, against the Wyoming Coal and Lumber company, with millions at its back. He claimed a title to a tract of land in his possession, valued at $2,000,000. After ten years' litigation, to carry on which Quick's only resources were the proceeds of the sale of hoop poles, railroad ties, and the product of a primitive saw mill in the Pike county woods, he obtained a verdict in his favor for $300,000. The Supreme Court reversed the decision. Quick at once brought in another suit. The coal company offered him $50,000 in cash to compromise the case. He refused. After six years of further litigation, being unable to raise sufficient funds to carry off the fight, he accepted an offer of $40,000 from the company, which had spent over $600,000 in defending the suit. The money was attached by his lawyer, who claimed it for fees. Quick employed the Hon. D. M. Van Auken, a shrewd Pike county lawyer, to get him out of his law difficulty. The lawyer settled for $10,000. Quick's Pike county lawyer Van Auken, had been elected Governor in 1868, and again in 1869, but the expenses of his campaigns had left him badly in debt. He owned a stable of Hambletonian horses, among them a stallion sired by old Hambleton himself. For this horse Van Auken had retained an offer of $12,000 in cash, and another offer of twenty blooded brood mares and 20 blooded yearling colts. At the time he was employed by Quick, Van Auken was greatly harassed by his creditors. He had recovered the $10,000 from Quick the latter loaned him money from time to time. To secure one of these loans Quick took a chattel mortgage on the Hambletonian stallion. State Senator George H. Rowland held another chattel mortgage on the same horse. The stallion was at that time being served in Central New York, and Van Auken's share of his earnings was $1,000 a year. In 1879 Van Auken heard by accident that Quick had gone to Farmersville, N. Y., where the horse was stationed, and had issued an execution, and he advertised the horse for sale. Van Auken and Senator Rowland arrived in Farmersville in time to stop the proceedings. An agreement was then signed by the three that the horse could not be sold at any time without the consent of two of the parties. Shortly afterward, however, Quick went quietly back to Farmersville and had the horse sold. Van Auken knowing this, went to Quick to recover damages for the sale of the stallion. He obtained a judgment of $4000. The case was taken to the Supreme Court. A decision has just been rendered sustaining the judgment with costs.

LITIGIOUS PETER QUICK. HIS STROGLES AND FORTUNES IN THE PILE COUNTY COURTS SINCE 1857. HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—In 1875 Peter A. L. Quick, of Pike county, this State, came into a fortune of $50,000. It was the result of a law suit which he began in 1857, with only $200 in his pocket, against the Wyoming Coal and Lumber company, with millions at its back. He claimed a title to a tract of land in his possession, valued at $2,000,000. After ten years' litigation, to carry on which Quick's only resources were the proceeds of the sale of hoop poles, railroad ties, and the product of a primitive saw mill in the Pike county woods, he obtained a verdict in his favor for $300,000. The Supreme Court reversed the decision. Quick at once brought in another suit. The coal company offered him $50,000 in cash to compromise the case. He refused. After six years of further litigation, being unable to raise sufficient funds to carry off the fight, he accepted an offer of $40,000 from the company, which had spent over $600,000 in defending the suit. The money was attached by his lawyer, who claimed it for fees. Quick employed the Hon. D. M. Van Auken, a shrewd Pike county lawyer, to get him out of his law difficulty. The lawyer settled for $10,000. Quick's Pike county lawyer Van Auken, had been elected Governor in 1868, and again in 1869, but the expenses of his campaigns had left him badly in debt. He owned a stable of Hambletonian horses, among them a stallion sired by old Hambleton himself. For this horse Van Auken had retained an offer of $12,000 in cash, and another offer of twenty blooded brood mares and 20 blooded yearling colts. At the time he was employed by Quick, Van Auken was greatly harassed by his creditors. He had recovered the $10,000 from Quick the latter loaned him money from time to time. To secure one of these loans Quick took a chattel mortgage on the Hambletonian stallion. State Senator George H. Rowland held another chattel mortgage on the same horse. The stallion was at that time being served in Central New York, and Van Auken's share of his earnings was $1,000 a year. In 1879 Van Auken heard by accident that Quick had gone to Farmersville, N. Y., where the horse was stationed, and had issued an execution, and he advertised the horse for sale. Van Auken and Senator Rowland arrived in Farmersville in time to stop the proceedings. An agreement was then signed by the three that the horse could not be sold at any time without the consent of two of the parties. Shortly afterward, however, Quick went quietly back to Farmersville and had the horse sold. Van Auken knowing this, went to Quick to recover damages for the sale of the stallion. He obtained a judgment of $4000. The case was taken to the Supreme Court. A decision has just been rendered sustaining the judgment with costs.

LITIGIOUS PETER QUICK. HIS STROGLES AND FORTUNES IN THE PILE COUNTY COURTS SINCE 1857. HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—In 1875 Peter A. L. Quick, of Pike county, this State, came into a fortune of $50,000. It was the result of a law suit which he began in 1857, with only $200 in his pocket, against the Wyoming Coal and Lumber company, with millions at its back. He claimed a title to a tract of land in his possession, valued at $2,000,000. After ten years' litigation, to carry on which Quick's only resources were the proceeds of the sale of hoop poles, railroad ties, and the product of a primitive saw mill in the Pike county woods, he obtained a verdict in his favor for $300,000. The Supreme Court reversed the decision. Quick at once brought in another suit. The coal company offered him $50,000 in cash to compromise the case. He refused. After six years of further litigation, being unable to raise sufficient funds to carry off the fight, he accepted an offer of $40,000 from the company, which had spent over $600,000 in defending the suit. The money was attached by his lawyer, who claimed it for fees. Quick employed the Hon. D. M. Van Auken, a shrewd Pike county lawyer, to get him out of his law difficulty. The lawyer settled for $10,000. Quick's Pike county lawyer Van Auken, had been elected Governor in 1868, and again in 1869, but the expenses of his campaigns had left him badly in debt. He owned a stable of Hambletonian horses, among them a stallion sired by old Hambleton himself. For this horse Van Auken had retained an offer of $12,000 in cash, and another offer of twenty blooded brood mares and 20 blooded yearling colts. At the time he was employed by Quick, Van Auken was greatly harassed by his creditors. He had recovered the $10,000 from Quick the latter loaned him money from time to time. To secure one of these loans Quick took a chattel mortgage on the Hambletonian stallion. State Senator George H. Rowland held another chattel mortgage on the same horse. The stallion was at that time being served in Central New York, and Van Auken's share of his earnings was $1,000 a year. In 1879 Van Auken heard by accident that Quick had gone to Farmersville, N. Y., where the horse was stationed, and had issued an execution, and he advertised the horse for sale. Van Auken and Senator Rowland arrived in Farmersville in time to stop the proceedings. An agreement was then signed by the three that the horse could not be sold at any time without the consent of two of the parties. Shortly afterward, however, Quick went quietly back to Farmersville and had the horse sold. Van Auken knowing this, went to Quick to recover damages for the sale of the stallion. He obtained a judgment of $4000. The case was taken to the Supreme Court. A decision has just been rendered sustaining the judgment with costs.

LITIGIOUS PETER QUICK. HIS STROGLES AND FORTUNES IN THE PILE COUNTY COURTS SINCE 1857. HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—In 1875 Peter A. L. Quick, of Pike county, this State, came into a fortune of $50,000. It was the result of a law suit which he began in 1857, with only $200 in his pocket, against the Wyoming Coal and Lumber company, with millions at its back. He claimed a title to a tract of land in his possession, valued at $2,000,000. After ten years' litigation, to carry on which Quick's only resources were the proceeds of the sale of hoop poles, railroad ties, and the product of a primitive saw mill in the Pike county woods, he obtained a verdict in his favor for $300,000. The Supreme Court reversed the decision. Quick at once brought in another suit. The coal company offered him $50,000 in cash to compromise the case. He refused. After six years of further litigation, being unable to raise sufficient funds to carry off the fight, he accepted an offer of $40,000 from the company, which had spent over $600,000 in defending the suit. The money was attached by his lawyer, who claimed it for fees. Quick employed the Hon. D. M. Van Auken, a shrewd Pike county lawyer, to get him out of his law difficulty. The lawyer settled for $10,000. Quick's Pike county lawyer Van Auken, had been elected Governor in 1868, and again in 1869, but the expenses of his campaigns had left him badly in debt. He owned a stable of Hambletonian horses, among them a stallion sired by old Hambleton himself. For this horse Van Auken had retained an offer of $12,000 in cash, and another offer of twenty blooded brood mares and 20 blooded yearling colts. At the time he was employed by Quick, Van Auken was greatly harassed by his creditors. He had recovered the $10,000 from Quick the latter loaned him money from time to time. To secure one of these loans Quick took a chattel mortgage on the Hambletonian stallion. State Senator George H. Rowland held another chattel mortgage on the same horse. The stallion was at that time being served in Central New York, and Van Auken's share of his earnings was $1,000 a year. In 1879 Van Auken heard by accident that Quick had gone to Farmersville, N. Y., where the horse was stationed, and had issued an execution, and he advertised the horse for sale. Van Auken and Senator Rowland arrived in Farmersville in time to stop the proceedings. An agreement was then signed by the three that the horse could not be sold at any time without the consent of two of the parties. Shortly afterward, however, Quick went quietly back to Farmersville and had the horse sold. Van Auken knowing this, went to Quick to recover damages for the sale of the stallion. He obtained a judgment of $4000. The case was taken to the Supreme Court. A decision has just been rendered sustaining the judgment with costs.

LITIGIOUS PETER QUICK. HIS STROGLES AND FORTUNES IN THE PILE COUNTY COURTS SINCE 1857. HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—In 1875 Peter A. L. Quick, of Pike county, this State, came into a fortune of $50,000. It was the result of a law suit which he began in 1857, with only $200 in his pocket, against the Wyoming Coal and Lumber company, with millions at its back. He claimed a title to a tract of land in his possession, valued at $2,000,000. After ten years' litigation, to carry on which Quick's only resources were the proceeds of the sale of hoop poles, railroad ties, and the product of a primitive saw mill in the Pike county woods, he obtained a verdict in his favor for $300,000. The Supreme Court reversed the decision. Quick at once brought in another suit. The coal company offered him $50,000 in cash to compromise the case. He refused. After six years of further litigation, being unable to raise sufficient funds to carry off the fight, he accepted an offer of $40,000 from the company, which had spent over $600,000 in defending the suit. The money was attached by his lawyer, who claimed it for fees. Quick employed the Hon. D. M. Van Auken, a shrewd Pike county lawyer, to get him out of his law difficulty. The lawyer settled for $10,000. Quick's Pike county lawyer Van Auken, had been elected Governor in 1868, and again in 1869, but the expenses of his campaigns had left him badly in debt. He owned a stable of Hambletonian horses, among them a stallion sired by old Hambleton himself. For this horse Van Auken had retained an offer of $12,000 in cash, and another offer of twenty blooded brood mares and 20 blooded yearling colts. At the time he was employed by Quick, Van Auken was greatly harassed by his creditors. He had recovered the $10,000 from Quick the latter loaned him money from time to time. To secure one of these loans Quick took a chattel mortgage on the Hambletonian stallion. State Senator George H. Rowland held another chattel mortgage on the same horse. The stallion was at that time being served in Central New York, and Van Auken's share of his earnings was $1,000 a year. In 1879 Van Auken heard by accident that Quick had gone to Farmersville, N. Y., where the horse was stationed, and had issued an execution, and he advertised the horse for sale. Van Auken and Senator Rowland arrived in Farmersville in time to stop the proceedings. An agreement was then signed by the three that the horse could not be sold at any time without the consent of two of the parties. Shortly afterward, however, Quick went quietly back to Farmersville and had the horse sold. Van Auken knowing this, went to Quick to recover damages for the sale of the stallion. He obtained a judgment of $4000. The case was taken to the Supreme Court. A decision has just been rendered sustaining the judgment with costs.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

The Carbon Advocate. An Independent Family Newspaper, Published every SATURDAY, in Lehighton, Carbon Co., Pa., by HARRY V. MORTIMER. OFFICE—BANK STREET, a short distance above the Lehigh Valley R. R. Depot. TERMS: $1.00 per Annum in Advance.

Job Printing. At VERY LOW PRICES. The Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.

THE Hon. Bill's Flirt. Life Senator at the Dominion Parliament, Belleville, Ontario, Canada, writes, I used to know Bill's flirt when he was in my favored town. It used to be a charm. A few times rubbing with it took away all my troubles and I have been ever since drawn at the age of seventy seven.