In order to carry out this programme to the letter, we are at present negotiating with correspondents throughout the country for more regular and complete accounts of local events.

With regard to subjects of wider interest and of national import arrangements have been made with Washington parties which will enable us to procure interviews with the Congressmen from this district as occasion may require.

That wonderful musical instrument, the ORGAN, is advertised in this issue. It is the most beautiful instrument you can purchase.

Climbing the Spiral Stairs.

Invisible Architecture in a New England Parsonage.

"Yes," she said, "my children are married and gone, and my husband and I sit by winter fires, and as we did before the little ones came to widen the circle, Life is something like a spiral staircase; we are all the time coming around over the spiral we started from, only one degree further up the stair."

"That is a pretty illustration," remarked her friend musingly, "going into the glowing circles which radiate a pleasant heat from the many windowed stove. You know we cannot stop toiling up the hill, though."

"Surely we cannot, and for myself I don't care for the necessity provided the advance in life is not attended with calamity or suffering, for I have had my share of that. Not long since my health utterly broke down. My system was full of malaria. My digestion became thoroughly diseased, my nerves were in a wretched state. I was languid, irritable, and that without trying, and had no strength or ambition to perform even my light household duties. Medical treatment failed to reach the seat of trouble, the disease—

"My husband had heard of the merits of PARKER'S Tonic, and inquired if I could get some. I took it, and felt its good effects in a few days. My appetite returned, my body, as though the blessing of new life had come to me. Taking no other medicine I continued to improve, and am now in better health than I have been for a long time."

Rev. P. Perry, Pastor of Baptist Church, Colbrook, Mass. nov. 8-11.
