As to destroying the weeds after they ar nes on the farm-there are weads and words, and a knowledge of their nature B. W. PAYNE & SONS, Manufacturers all styles Auto-matic Engineerrow 2 to 200 H. P. will be a great aid in the warfare against thom. Like other plants, they are annual,

Elmirn, N. Y., Box 1427. bleanial, or perannial. Annual weeds come up, and die the first sesson, and that is the ond of them. But before they depart, they make abundant provision for a successio by producing a multitude of seeds to carry on the work. The earlier such weeds are destroyed, the better, as some perfect their seeds when quite small. The cultivation of crops that must be frequently worked by hand or horse implements, is the most ready way of getting rid of them. Biennial and perennial weeds the first year from sowing, prepare to produce seeds the next year, and are usually not conspicuous the first season, there being only a tuft of leaves lying close to the ground, looking innocent, but preparing for mischief, by taving in provision for an active growth the next year. The bionnial, the second year, shoots up a flow er-stalk, perfects its seeds, and dies. The perennial shoets up a flower stalk, perfects its seeds and don't die, but on the coutrary lays up in its roots provisions for a more active campaign the third year, and so or continually. When such woeds are established, their spread should be prevented by utting off their seed stalks, or rather flow r-stalks, before seeds are formed. . If the flower stalks of a biennial weed are cut away, the plant will die cooner or later. and give no further trouble. Not so the prennial weeds, the measures for their extermination numbers. In some cares pulling or dizging up the roots will be hespers; in others, the constant cutting of the leaves as soon and as often as they appear at the surjace of the ground, will an wer. Again, it may be best to smother th reads with a heavy growth of Buckwhear or the Southern Cow Pen. This last make remarkable dense mat of vines and foly ge, under which nothing can live. We ave thus indicated the general methods b e followed in the destruction of weeds. Those persons will be most successful in applying them who acquaint themselves with the plants known as weeds, and ar able to recognize them at every stage, and who consider their habit of growth in un lertaking their destruction. Every farmer should recollect that a sharp hos properly upplied to any weed in its youth, will avoid uch trouble in future. - Da. Tuvanan, in Am. Agriculturist.

Heavy Manureing in the Garden-The garden, though a small patch upon he tarm, generally an acre or less, if pro serly eared for will bring more profitable returns than any cultivated fields. All th regetables and small fruits that can be con used in a large family, with a surplu or market, can be raised with very little ifficulty. It will add much to the bealth and happiness of the household to hav very appetite satisfied with a daily suppry f seasonable fruit and vegetables. To de his the garden must have abundant ma ure. Though other fields lack, give the arden all it can appropriate, for the same ason that the Jersey cow or the best milker has all the ford she can digest. The profit is in the surplus feed above what will sustain her normal weight. The gar den is to supply the finest products to the table; fot the soil have all the fertilizers the table; for the soil have all the fertilizers the plants can make use of. The profit is in their full feeding. Their quality will be better, and the est at its minimum. The garden is ordinarily near the barn yard, the piggry, the henners, the prive, and the sink drain, and should have the first claim apon every fertilizer made upon the farm, and if that is not enough add, concentrated fertilizers from abound. It is none too much to fartilize the sweden at the rate of these fertilizers from aboved. It is none too much to fertilize the garden at the rate of twenty corfs of well-rotted manure to the acre. To tevery every plant, true and simulation in it have enough to ent. Give the garden the first chain apon your compasts heave, and when you have spread broadcast and plowed in all the community of each of the true to dressing during the growing season.
