Are Northern men wanted, and are they treated kindly by native North Carolininns? We answer the question emphatically YES! To back us up we refer to the following Northern men who have settled among us: Rev. S. Mattoon, Charlotte, N. C., formerly of New York; Jno. Woodhouse, Concord, N. C., formerly of Morris Co., N. J.; A. Hagen, Newton, N. C., formerly of Fredrick, Md.; F A. Vollmer, Durham, N. C., formerly of Williamsport, Pa., and the hundreds of others that have settled in the State. When writing for information please enclose stamp for return postage.

THE CLIMATE

North Carolina surpasses that of any other State in the Union, being tempered on one side by the Atlantic ocean and on the other by the high peaks of the Appalachian Mountains. The average fall of snow for the entire winter is six inches. The average number of foggy days are two (2). No part of the State is subject to destructive gales. Mean annual temperature for the State 59. Summer 75, Winter 43, rainfall 45 inches. While the cold of the winter is not severe, the temperature of mid-summer is not so trying or excessive as farther North. While there are hundreds of sunstrokes in New York State every summer, the disease is almost unknown in N. C. During a late winter of unusual severity, the thermometer several times dropped to 20 degrees, and even to 40 degrees below zero in Iowa, Michigan and New York, here 10 degrees above zero was reached but once, and then only for one single night.

TIMBER.

At least thirty thousand square miles of our territory is still covered with timber, consisting in part of yellow and white pine, several varieties of oak, hickory, walnut, chestnut, poplar, cypress, juniper, maple black ash, elm, mulberry, dog-wood, persimmon, holly, locust, wild cherry, red cedar, mountain mahogany, curly maple and poplar.

MINERALS

are found in great variety and abundance over a large part of the State. Among the more useful and important are marl, iron, coal, peat, limestone, gold, copper, silver, lead, zinc, mica, tin (very recent discovery), graphite, corundum, muganese, kaolin, fire clay, whitestone, grindstone and millstone: a great variety of building and precious stones, including diamond.

WATER POWER of the State aggregate more than three million horse power.

THE SOIL AND CROPS.

The great variety of soils together with the climatic conditions gives rise to the great variety of natural products and large yields, and lays the foundation for an immense range of agricultural products.

Cotton, grain, tobacco and rice are the leading staple crops.

The Chinese tea plant flourishes throughout the Eastern half of the State.

Flax, hemp and jute grow to perfection, and could be made a paying crop.

SILK.—The products of this industry in our State are equal in quality to the French and Italian silk.

Irish and sweet potatoes are paying crops.

VEGETABLES.—No where in America can the trucking business be carried on to more profit than in the eastern counties of North Carolina.

MARKETS.—The distance to New York from the eastern and northern parts of our State is no farther than from the western part of N. Y. State to New York.

Price of land varies with the distance from market and fertility. The price of average quality is from three to ten dollars per acre

IMMIGRATION.

Many immigrants have come into the State during the past year chiefly from the Northern and New England States. We have special rates with transportion companies from Boston, New York and Baltimore for very cheap rates of passage and freight. For special information, call on local agents through the Northern and New England States, or address

FARMERS' COLUMN:

Timely Brief Hints.

From the Prairie Farmer

—Farmers can not expect to raise choice vegetables without labor now, but the garden crop really pays better than field crops for the time and labor given it. Weed seeds are germinating rapidly and most garden soils are well filled with them. The hoe and the rake must be plied constantly or weeds will get the best of the struggle. Turowing the earth up a little around most growing vegetables is better than level culture.

—The Gardener's Monthly says that anywhere South of the Potomac autumn planting of evergreens is undoubtedly best, while in the latitude of the Middle States there is possibly no advantage in fall over spring planting. Further North spring is preferable, and of all the spring months May is best for the work. At this time both the young shoots of branches and roots are starting into their season's growth.

—Parker Earle says strong soils produce the best shipping strawberries. Poor land gives soft fruit, which suffers from long transportation.

—The same authority recommends mulching strawberry plants well with clean straw just before the berries begin to ripen, to keep them from being soiled by earth spattered upon them in showers, and blown over them by winds. This treatment is for plants in hills, with the runners pinched off. It is added that those desiring the best results will grow strawberries in no other way. [The straw is to be cut in a common feed-cutter, short enough to work down among and around the plants, but not as short as to blow away. Ed.]

In feeding oats to horses during the season of hard labor, remember that the best are not always those which look bright and are free from mustiness or other odor indicating previous dampness or heat; weight of oats determines value, if their condition is good. Light oats contain little nutriment. It pays at this hard working time of year to feed good grain and good hay.

—It is now the proper time to tag sheep. Especially should ewes with lambs have the filthy locks clipped off, and many of them need the shears used about the udder. The longer the wool there often interferes with suckling the lambs, and they are also liable to sicken, from the filth they take in.

—The greatest drawback to profitable farming in this country, and especially in the Western States, is the lack of good cultivation. It is better to raise one hundred bushels of corn to an acre than fifty bushels. With proper management and culture, the arable lands in these States would yield double their present average product per acre. Better preparation of the soil and thorough after cultivation is needed.

—When the animals are turned out to grass provide them with salt freely and regularly. Many good farmers prefer placing rock salt where stock can get to it at all times. When this is done the animals will never take more salt than is good for them.

—Grape vines, if they have been kept from pushing their buds, may now be planted. The buds of old canes should be rubbed off as far back as the second one from the ground. Blackberry and raspberry roots can yet be planted successfully. A well kept berry patch is one of the best things to have about the home.

—The poultry manure accumulated during the winter should be carefully gathered, mixed with dry earth, and used in the garden. Tons prepared it is better for nearly all vegetables than the much advertised fertilizers for which high prices are asked. The best way to use hen manure is to distribute it broadcast over the surface soil, and work it in, but for special purposes it is sometimes employed with more immediate effect in the hills and drills, with the seed, but separated from direct contact with it by a little earth.

—Mr. Wm. Saunders, Superintendent of the Department of Agriculture grounds and gardens, says that no part of a pear or apple tree coated with lime has ever been affected with blight.

—Few people understand how the small white onions, pickled, and sold in glass jars by grocerymen, are grown. The same seed is used as for large onions, but it is sown thickly—say forty or more pounds to the acre, while to produce the large ones but five or six pounds are sown. A rich black mold is best for onions. The largest crops we ever saw, those where the bulbs fairly covered the ground at harvest, were on soil produced by removing the "Tamarac" trees and other brush from a swamp, lowering the water two to four feet from the surface by deep open drains, and planting the onion seed on the black mucky soil of almost unknown depth.

—Young pigs deserve a chance at the fresh pasture of early spring. Clover is perhaps better for them than other pasturage.

—GERMANTOWN TELEGRAPH:—A correspondent asks us for a remedy for the leaf pest of the currant, saying that he lost last year a fine crop of currants by the sudden disappearance of the leaves, which he discovered to be done by this destructive worm. We know not how often we have referred to the depredations of this pest. Their operations are rapid, and unless their first appearance is watched they may do their work before one is aware of it. There are several remedies. We have used fine, sifted coal ashes, first sprinkling the leaves thoroughly with water, so as to reach the under parts, apply the dust profusely, and repeat it once or twice if necessary, which may be the case. But there is nothing so effective as white hellebore, dusting it over as well as on the under side of the leaves, which never fails in destroying it. It can be had at the druggist's and some general stores. The leaves should be watched as soon as they appear, as the worms sometimes get to work very early.

—The St Louis, Mo., Post-Dispatch says, that Mrs. Phoebe Rice, 1208 Madison street, a sister of Hon. H. Clay Sexton, Chief, St. Louis Fire Depart., has been suffering from inflammatory rheumatism for seven years; the muscles of her hands and limbs were contracted and she used crutches. By a single application of St. Jacobs Oil she was benefited instantaneously, and finally completely cured
