THE CLIMATE

Nor Carolina surpasses that of any other State in the Union, being tempered on one side by the Alantic ocean and on the other by the high peaks of the Appalachian Mountains. The average fall of snow for the entire winter is six inches. The average number of foggy days are two (2). No part of the State is subject to destructive gales. Mean annual temperature for the State 19, Summer 75, Winter 43, rainfall 45 inches. While the cold of the winter is not sayore, the tem-pecature of mid-summer is not so trying or excessive as farther North White there ar hundreds of sunstrokes in New York Stat every summer the disease is almost unknown In N. Grass for Permanent Pastures. nan, after stating some of the points in faxor of permanent pastures says: "There are three varieties of grass which I find exceedingly valuable in permanent pastures, viz., due grass,orchard-grass,aud red-top. Bluegrass flourishes on all limestone lands, and makes the best sward of any grass I am ac quainted with. It starts very early in spring, is little injured by tramping or close grazing, and I believe it to be the met nutritions of all the grasses. It is surprising how soon well-wintered cattle will be fit for the butcher when pastured on this. One disadvantage is the long time it takes to form a sward; but to compensat. for this, when once formed it will, with fair treatment, last a lifetime. For this reason it should always be sown with other grasses My experience is that it takes four years to get land well set with blue grass, and it will improve for several years longer. I sow just as much of other grass as though I did not use the blue gross, and then add one pushel of seed of the latter. In the spring of 1879 I seeds I ten acres, using one bushel f blue grass seed to an acre, and a liberal quantity of clover and timothy, with a prinkling of other grasses. Neither that or the succeeding summer could I discov. r any blue-grass, but the year following i egan to show, and now is crowding out all ther grasses .- Orchard grass is best adapted to loamy or alluvial lands, and in eding a permanent pasture, if there are my spons of black land or creek bottom, I here seed heavily with this grass .--- Red on does best on the wet lands where other ume grasses would be drowned out; but a attie of it mixed with the other grasses will be of advantage on all pastures. In fact the more varieties you can get to grow on the land the greater the yield will be, and the cattle will thrive better for it. It would all largely increase the value of our grain farms, to the comfort of the stock, and the profits of the owner, if more attention was paid to this subject of permanent pasture it is suggested that farmers take a small p'ot of hand, say one acre, manure heavily a of cultivate theroughly to bern whether t w uld pay them to employ sufficient help to work all the the farm in the same way.-

Washing Butter. "There is a stage in the churning process at which it is comparatively easy to remove the buttermilk and all it contains. When the lutter is yet in a granulated form, the churning may be stopped, and the butter wash d with cold water and brine. Advanlug : is taken, at this stege, of the different specific gravity of the several parts of the whole mixture. The butter is lighter han the water; the easeine, etc., is mostly heavier than the water. After agitation the batter rises to the top of the water, and ne other solid matter remains mixed with he water, with a tendency to fall to the strom. By drawing off the buttermils, or water, from the bottom, the solid matte oreign to butter is more or less carried away with it. Two or three repetitions of the covers complete the separation, sufficiently at least for practical purposes. Advantage my be taken, also, of the difference between the size of the granulated butter and of the sold matter in the buttermilk. -Prairie Farmer. -Fodder corn may be seeded at intervals f ten days or two weeks, up to the first of luly so as to furnish a succession of cuttings. Broadcast sowing is not desirable, as the rowth will be poor, watery, and less nutrious. It is better to plant in drills 28 or 30 i whee apart and close together in the rows. If poor ground is not already well manue ed, some guano, or other commercial fertil zer may be dropped with the seed, or the trills top dressed with wood ashes. Keep he weeds down and the ground cultivated The best varieties of corn for soiling pur ones, are the Evergreen Sweet, or the small

A Stirring Triumph: (From the New York " World.") LONDON, ENGLAND (SPECIAL BY CABLE). In the suit of The Charles A. Vogeler Co., f Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A., against Parrott & Co., of this city, the Court of Ap seal has granted the plaintiffs a perpetual nju-ction with costs. The action, which grew out of an alleged infringement of laintiffe' well known trade mark, St. lucibs Oil, was originally heard in the High Court of Justice, where Vice Cancel or Bacon, without going into the merits of the case, considered it was one that should go before the Compireller of Tr. de-Marks from this opinion The Charles A. Vogeler Company appeared, claiming that they were using injured by the goods of the detom ants, entitled St. Davids Oil, being mistaken for theirs, and that while they had taken steps to arong a case before the Compitation Traits Marks, months would clause be fore a decision could be abtained, and as inear business would be seriously injured by such delay, a restraining order should be granted at once. The result of the appeal was that a perpetual injunction was made with costs. The proceedings before the Compireller have been abandoned by the defendants, and the Baltimore house has thus achieved a double victory. By the order of the Court of Appear, Parintt & Co. and their agents, are perpetually restrained go before the Comptroller of Tr. de-Marks order of the Court of Appeal, Parriott & C and their agents, are perpetually restrained from using the term "St. Dayids Oil," any similar term, as well as the word "The Great German Remedy," and as worder marks similar to these used to The Charles A. Vogeler Company in connection with their St. Jacobs Oil The perpetual of the second with the control of the perpetual of the second with the control of the perpetual of the second with the control of the second with the control of the second thousands of trade-marks of almost inculculated value are owned. It was shown by evidence that plaintiff had sold carring the past few years, over seven million but less of St. Jacobs Oil, and expended as high as five hundred thousand dollars in a single year for advertising throughout the world. Their success in this suit is regarded with great satisfaction in binsiness cricies. Eminent English and American legal talent figured in the case. The counsel for The Gnarica A. Vegeler Genarany, of which latter Mr. H. D. Umbatactier was personally present, were Queen's Counsel Throulore MacKenna of London, Rowland Cox of New York and Gen. William Henry Browne of Washington, D. C.
