The crabbed, the graye and the gay; I have traveled with beauty, with virtue, I have been with the ugly and bad, have laughed with the ones who were INSLLA And wept with the ones who were sad.

One thing I have learned on my journey-Ne'er to judge one by what he appears, The eyes that seem sparkling with laughter Oft battle to keep back the tears. And long, sanctimonious faces

Hide often the souls that are wile. While the heart that is merry and cheerful Is often the freest from guile. And I've learned not to look for perfection

In one of our frail human kind, In hearts the most gentle and loving Some blemish or fault we can find; But yet I have ne'er found the creature So low, so depraved, or so mean, But had some good impulse, some virtue

That 'mong his bad traits might be seen. And, too, I have learned the most friendships

We make are as brittle as glass, Just let a reverse overtake us-Our "Irlends" on the "other side" pass, But, ah! I have found some few loyal-Some hearts ever loving and true! And the joy and the peace they have
