THE CITY OF LOVERS TRUE. BY J. H. REAGAN.

fresh wind blew at the clove of day; Long lances of light on the landscape lay; The red sun strode from the flaming sky Like a wrathful monarch, with robes awry And the cloudy lords of his retinue Bowed to the earth as he withdrew.

Now dear little damsel, what do you see, That steals your bewitching eyes from me?" 'A city I see, most strange and fair, That hangs in the vault of the sunset air: Chariots glitter along its street, And laties fair ride far and fleet.

"A golden dust from the travel blows, Where a silver rippled river flows, And ships, gondolas, skallops and sloops, Like the pictures on mother's wedding cups, Sail out of its port and drop from sight; I think they are bound for the 'Isles o Night.'"

'How glad I am you are wingless, dear; would pine to a shade if you left me here But I, too, know of a city fair, It is - yet it is not anywhere, It is called the 'City of Lovers True,' And how I do wish I was there now with

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

April 26, 1894.

The Rev. E. P. Wilds, well-known ett missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Suprema Court, writes of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Suprems Court, writes as follows:

"75 E. Safa St., New York, May 16, 1825.

Means, J. C. A ven & Co., Gentleman:

Last winter I was troubled with a meet uncomfortable iteling humor affecting more opecially my limbs, which isched se intelegrably at night, and burned so intensely, shall could careely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a sewer centarth and entarrial cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of Aven's Sarafrantita, by observation of many other cases, and from personal usin former years, I began taking it for the above handed disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first case. After a short time the fever and fething were alloyed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the sagne means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these resolute to the use of the Sansaparanta, which I recommend with all couldents as the best blood medicine ever devised. I see these facts as your service, hoping that publication may do good.

Yours respectfully. Z. P. Wilso."
