FARMERS' COLUMN. INTERESTING LETTER

How to Raise Chickens. There are so many different breeds owls that there is certainly an opportunity for all lovers of poultry to suit their own fancy. Yet it is difficult for a farmer to get just the hind that he wants. He desires a flock of hens that will lay plenty of eggs, produce good ment for the table, not try to sit all summer, or do too much running over the grain fields. We have found the Leghorns excellent layers, but they forage too much, go to the back end of the farm to scratch up the corn, and fly to the highest part of the barn to get on the wheat mow or grain streks. Most str. ins of Brahmas are intolerable sitters. We have finally made choice of the Plymouth Rocks for a farm breed, although in some respects they may be surpassed by others. The fowls should be provided with a building for their exclusive use. With a well plannes poultry house the care of fowls is lessened, and the annoyance of having them scratch ing everywhere is prevented. Considering the value of a good flock of chickens, the profit in keeping them wall,and the fertilizng qualities of the manure, it is strange that the lowis should be neglected as they are on many farms. The horse and cowstables are cleaned every day, why should not the hen-house? Keep their house clear and odorless, if you would be successful with fowls. Have a good floor under the roost, which can be scraped clean every day. After cleaning sprink le sawdust ove the floor. White wash the inside of the building frequently, and keep the air pure, Keep lies away by placing tobacco leaves in the next of the sitting ben. Pour : CATARRH ELY'S mall quantity of kerosene along the roost ing poles. If you do all this and canno kill the lice, then kill the hend In sum mer the chickens should have the run of a CATAPPH HEAD roomy,grassy yard, if they cannot be allowed at large on the farm. In winter feed a HAYFEVER plenty of green food, such as cabbage leaves, ite. Summer and winter give the hens milk, sourmilk or buttermilk, and the eggs will be plentiful. Have an arrange m ont for watering, so that the young chick will not be tempted to drown themselve in the water trough where the house drink.-Am. Agriculturist.
