

An Old Soldier's

EXPERIENCE... I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Wallo with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Waterloo, I contracted a severe cough which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases.

Thousands of testimonials testify to the prompt ease of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

Amputation of the Leg.

Money is the universal necessity, and none but a cynic or a fool will affect to despise it. Mr. Aaron KENNEDY, of Port Jervis, Otsego County, N. Y., had realized this truth. His disease involved the whole of his thigh-bone, and the suffering man looked, not without apparent reason, to death as his only deliverer. The family physician refused to amputate the limb, asserting that the operation would kill the patient on the spot. Dr. DAVID KENNEDY, of London, N. Y., who was consulted, held a different opinion and amputated the limb. The doctor then administered freely, his great Blood Specific FAVORITE REMEDY to afford tone and strength to the system and prevent the return of the disease, and Mr. Fletworth returned to his life in the bloom of health. This gentleman's disease was the offspring of great blood, and Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY purified the blood and restored to him the power to once more enjoy his life. Are you suffering from any disease traceable to the same cause? Try FAVORITE REMEDY. Your straight hair. One Dollar a bottle. Bear in mind the proprietor's name and address, Dr. DAVID KENNEDY, Mountout, N. Y.

To keep the blood pure is the principal end of inventors and discoverers in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of London, N. Y., in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered liver and kidneys, cures constipation, dyspepsia and all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

FARMERS' COLUMN.

How to get Early Garden Crop.

There are many ways of getting early crops, or of trying to get them, such as starting the plants in the house or hot-bed, and covering them with glass, etc., after they are set out. But when these methods are not adopted, there is still a chance to have early vegetables and a good garden. It is simply to select the warmest and driest soil, and sow or plant the main crops before the soil is in good working condition. But for a few early crops on a small scale, we can well afford to run a little risk of losing our seed by too early sowing. One thing however should not be overlooked. Do not depend on this early sowing, but sow or plant again a little later, when the soil and weather are more favorable. If the first sowing succeeds, you are so much ahead; if it fails, you have lost only the seed and your labor. You can afford to run this risk. There are some crops which can be sown the moment the frost is out of the soil, with little or no risk. Among these we may mention peas, cabbage, cauliflower, beans and radish, etc. It is seldom that these crops are hurt, by early frost. Last year a frost in May destroyed many cabbage plants, but this is a very unusual occurrence. Among the crops which we should re-sow without waiting to see if the first sowing will escape, are beets, radishes, cabbage, cauliflower, beans and sweet corn. —Am. Agriculturist.

He Kept the Whole House Awake.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mr. F. O. McCleary, a prominent solicitor of patents of this city, was troubled for several weeks with a severe cough, which not only deprived him of his sleep but annoyed others. The only thing which did him any good, he says, was the new preparation, Dr. King's New Discovery, a purely vegetable compound, free from opiates, narcotics or poisons of any kind.

Manuring Old Orchards.

One of the popular fallacies that still lingers in rural districts, is that mature orchards do not need fertilizers. Farmers may be painstaking in the planting, and in cultivating the orchard for a few years, until it comes into bearing, but, as a rule, after that, it is neglected, and not infrequently either pastured or mowed, and the soil is compelled to bear two crops annually, without manure, until it is exhausted. Then the cry is raised that "it does not pay to plant orchards, at best we only get fruit in abundance every other year." The folly of this neglect is demonstrated every year, and the facts are published abundantly in the agricultural papers, but unfortunately these journals have quite a limited circulation, even in the farming towns. They are numbered by tens and twenties, where they ought to be by hundreds. On the old homestead, where the writer ate apples from the tree and the barrel, raw, cooked and preserved, there was an old tree famous for its early apples, a seedling, and an inveterate bearer in alternate years. It happened in the enlargement of the garden, that the ground underneath this tree was plowed, manured, and planted with potatoes, and as a result, the bearing year was changed, and we had two full crops in successive years. The manure helped this result, and the rotting of the sod that had been accumulating for years helped still more. The fact did not impress the owner much, but it did impress, the boy who helped to eat the apples, and turned the gristle under the grateful shade. It is a well-known fact that pear and apple trees that stand in gardens, especially in village gardens which have liberal fertilizing and cultivation every year, bear regularly, and are seldom without fruit, except when the frost or hail destroys it. Men who make a specialty of growing fruit for market, and feed their trees abundantly, get well paid for their labor, and send apples to the city markets by the car or box-load. In the secret of their uniform success is the fact that they feed their trees regularly, and this not all superfluous wood, and give the orchard all needed attention. They do not steal away the food of the trees in grass or grain crops. They are content with the fruit. There is no reason why the average farmer, who has suitable land for fruit trees, should not have an abundant supply of fruit for home use, and for market. It is in the line of his business to raise crops for market, and to make the manure that is needed to produce them. It is in the line of a true economy to purchase the fertilizers that are lacking to grow maximum crops. Cultivate only so much land as you can fertilize and improve by cultivation. Riches increase with the depth rather than breadth of the soil turned by the plow. The orchard warden regular feeding, as much as any other crop, and fruit-growers have learned that there is economy in it. It will not be very difficult for any thrifty farmer to increase his home-made fertilizers, and to supply the wants of his fruit trees. —Am. Agriculturist.

The American Agriculturist,

A NEW PORTRAIT OF GENERAL GRANT, AND THE Carbon Advocate

8 Months For $1.65.

The American Agriculturist has just issued a magnificent stipple style line portrait of General Grant, executed by one of the great artists in the country. The very best artist in the country, in his new famous library, the expansion of his countenance is exceedingly life-like, and it is a whole picture in grand striking appearance, far surpassing any previous likeness of General Grant. Its great merit is due to the fact that it is from General Grant's best fitting, prior to the final preparation; that is, it presents him as a picture of health just before the fatal disease compelled him to withdraw from the world. Other portraits, while they present him in health, do not show his features and general appearance at a late period.

The regular price of the American Agriculturist is $1.50 per year. We have made arrangements with the publishers, whereby we are enabled to send, post free, a table specially made for the purpose, this portrait of General Grant, the American Agriculturist from now, until the 1st of December (8 months), and the Carbon Advocate all for the sum of $1.65.

The portrait alone sells for $1.00 in New York; no copies have been disposed of at less than that figure.

This offer only good for 60 days.
