GEN. WASHINGTON'S VISIT. On May 31st, 1791, President Wash ington visited Salem. He was on a visit to Alexander Martin, Governor of North Carolina. He remained there one day houses of the Single Brethern and the Single Sisters, and saw all the sights that town boasted of a water works, pump on the hillside to the village below. The noble old patriot examined the "water works' with a deep interest and expressed himself as deeply pleased with their efficiency. When the news went forth that ie was to honor Salem with his presence there was great excitement. The hotel at which he was to stop was the centre f attraction. The proprietor with a vise forethought sent men to prepare a huge stick of timber, which he fastened beneath the floor on which the chieftain was to sleep, and where he also was to hold his reception, for fear the floor would give way beneath the weight of those who would pay their respects to and first in the hearts of his country-

The room in which the noble Washngton slumbered is still intact. The neavy stick of timber is still retained in position, and the writer feels that he has been on sacred ground because his eyes have rested on objects that were gazed apon by Washington, and because he has cathed the air in the identical room where Washington slept.

What they really Want is a Good, Big Crop. THEY ARE UNIFORM.

The goods we manufacture are uniform in composition, and are only varied in proportions, year after year, as we believe it to an advantage to the crop. We have such large supplies of Bone, Blood, etc., from the shughtering establishments of New York, that our fertilizers are largely composed of those, and there is not that inducement for us to use cheaper material, that there might be, if we did not have this material.

BONE FERTILIZERS.

Our products are of none mass, because we believe that is the most satisfactory source of phosphoric acid, and the large amount of animal matter our fertilizers contain makes them especially valuable in what may be called the off or poor seasons. Some years it is noticed that almost any fertilizer will give fairly good results, but we find the most favorable comparisons for our products are in the poor years.

Royal Bone Phosphate.
