A Boy's Trick in Nuwling. The brown nuts are falling, and the boys are "hot-foot" for them, so we will tell them a trick which we learned last year, but too late to tell it to our young readers. We noticed, day after day, two boys going to the woods, carrying a bag and a clothes-line, and saw them return in a short time with the bag well filled. We followed, to see whether their good luck was due to accident, activity, or their wits. They used the line in this way-selecting a tree in the open, on which the nuts were ripe and the shucks opened by the frost; they shook the tree by climbing into it, and shaking and jarring the branches in the usual way, by stamping and clubbing. Still the finest nuts seem to stick to outermost branches. To get these, was a stroke of genius, and the clothes-line and a little "mother-wit" were brought into play. The boy in the tree threw the line over a prumising branch, so that both ends reached the ground. The buy on the ground made one end fast to sapling at a suitable distance, and then drawing the other end as taunt as possible, made it also fast around the trunk of a small tree. He tugged at the line after fastening it, and then took up the slack. The bough, of course, was swayed down. Then he tugged and tugged, and took up the slack again, until the line was almost as tant as a bow-etring. Then he beat the line with a club, as hard as he could strike, and with each clip, down came the nuts. Finally he unfastened one end, and drew it off with some difficulty, to be sure, over the ends of the branch. sweeping off a lot of nuts that still held on. Thus the principal branches were stripped. They were lively boys and did very little loafing, but their energy was pretty well repuid.-Am. Agricul

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Is., says: "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remeders between the disc without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle releved her very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years."

Save the Corn Stalks-

Of the many things I admire in my German neighbor, none excite my respect more than the very successful way in which he manages his corn stalks. His plan does not differ from that generally adopted. He husks his corn in the field, ties the stalks into bundles stands these bundles into stooks, and when dry, draws them into the barn, or makes them into a high, narrow stack, that is prestly much all roof. The Descon and I do the same thing. The only difference is, that we propose to draw them in to-morrow, or the next day, or as soon as convenient, and the result is, that something happens to postpone the work, and before we know it the stalks are wet, and we must wait until they get dry again. And sometimes we repeat this process of waiting for a convenient time, and November snow finds the stalks still in the field. Not so Mr. Jacobs. He does not wait. His stalks are frequently secure in the barn or stack, before some of us com meace to husk. His cows and young stock are in the field, picking up the stray cars and scattered fodder, before they are injureed by the rain, and before we realize what has been done, the field is harrowed to level down the stubbs, and the next day the boys are plowing and getting the land ready to sow barley next spring .- Joseph Habris in Am.

In these days, when so much atten tion is given to "civil service reform," and the merit system, in filling variou offices and clerkships in Governmental departments-National, State, Municipal, etc.-it may be well to inquire whether the rules adopted in these are not, applicable, at least to some extent, to the engagement of employes in industrial pursuits, and notably to that of the leading occupation of the country

If farmers, everywhere, will resolve o employ only industrious, skillful and trustworthy men, or the best that can possibly be obtained, and require strangers, who apply for work, to present strong recommendations as to character and competency, the difficulty may be measurably overcome. But it order to render this plan practicable, and of benefit to those especially inter ested. farmers must scrupulously regard each others interest. For example, no me who desires to do as he would be done by, should recommend, either verbally or in writing, a person that he would not himself employ-a thing which is often done by preminent people of various occupations, either from kindness, or to get rid of applicants. This is a matter about which farmers should be extremely careful, lest they do injury to other employers, by influencing them te engage men who prove incompetent, or otherwise objectionable. Whenever feasible, it would be well for farmers to organize, or have an understanding about the employment of farm hands, for mutual protection against the impositions of pretended skilled laborers, who are really incapable, if not idle and victors. - D.
