FARMERS' COLUMN.

The Advantages of Fish Culture-The fish culturist selects the ripe fish which are about to east their spawn, and by handling them very carefully, extracts to spawn from the female and vivides it by placing it in contact with the living germs from the male fish, This, if done correctly, and the parent fish are in the proper condition, should vitalize from ninety to one hundred per cent of the eggs taken.

After the spawn has been taken and vitalized it is allowed to stand in the pans for a certain length of time, usually from twenty to thirty minutes; the eggs are then rinsed off and are placed in the hatching troughs or other hatching apparatus. Here they are allowed to remain until they hatch, which, as I explained in my previous article, varies in length of time with different varieties of fish, some requiring a longer and some a shorter period. When the eggs are in the hatching apparatus, they are directly under the fish culturist's eye and he watches over them daily with almost as much care as a mother doe her child, to see that they are receiving REMOVAL! her child, to see that they are receiving the proper circulation which they min have in order to hatch, and althoug precautions are taken to exclude the enemies, they are liable to get amon his new store room opposite the Public Square and also observed that some were miss ing. I was not long in discovering tha rats were the cause of the trouble, and a few steel traps judiciously set, soon disposed of them. I mention this to show that enemies which we would least suspect, have to be discovered and guarded against. On one occasion took the shells of three hundred eggs from the stomach of one rat. While the eggs are in the process of hatching they must be looked over and examinevery day, and if any dead ones are dis covered they must be Immediately re moved, for the reason that after an eg has been dead for a thort time a fungu growth begins to encircle it, the feather arms of which reach out from it, an coming in contact with the living egg deal death among them. Unless removed in time, one dead egg would b the means of destroying thousands of

When the spawn has laid in the hatch ing apparatus the proper time for the eggs to hatch, the little fish which plainly seen wiggling in the egg some ime before it hatches, breaks through the shell, straightens out, and is a fish They are then, in the case of most vari cties of young fry, very helpless, th large yolk sae which is attached to the bodies, renders locomotton differst, an unless protected, they would full an eas prey to their enemies. The fish cultuist looks after them until they are relieved of this encumbrance, or nearly o, and then they are in condition t strike out for themselves and fight the battle of life.
