of the bee-keeping year in northern too early in the spring, which is to the advantage of the seller, but seldom so to Prepared by Dr. J. C. Aver & Co., Lowell, Man. Bold by all Draggists. Privagl , six bottles, $5 the buyer. I would advise the beginner never to purchase bees before May, and it the spring is cold and backward, I would be preferable to wait until the weather is well settled and warm, a rule which applies to all latitudes. The cold spring months is the critical time for even the most experienced bee-keepers

I would also suggest to beginners, that as a rule, it is better to start in bee-keepin the year directly following a season which has been poor for bees, than after one of the very best. One and often two good sensons are almost sure to follow a poer me. Beginners, in deciding whether to commence bee-keeping, are apt to be governed by the success or failure of others. If those who understand it, fail to secure good results, others are not encouraged to commence the following season. If they notice the successof the experienced for one or two consecutive years, they are induced to invest, and usually do so at such a time, as the poor season may reasonably be anticipated. It is quite upt to be the case, that every third season will be comparatively un remunerative. To commence at such a time often entirely discourages the begin er. In beginning immediately after it.
