A Frightful Explosion in the Mineral Fpring Colliery at Wilkesbarre-

The Mineral spring Colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, at Wilkesbarre, was the scene of a disastrous explosion of mine gas Monday morning, by which great damage was done to the mine and six men terribly injured. One died shortly after the secident and others are fatally injured. The names of the victims are: Patrick Joyce, aged 26, dead; Barney Farrell, Patrick Lawler, James Hammond, John Reese and Michael Corbey are terribly burned and the former has also several ribs broken. Their injuries are fatal. The others are all badly burned and much croshed and bruised. Owing to the uncertainty always attending burns of fhis nature it cannot be said whether they will recover

John 7, 37-52. Golden Text, Matt. 15, 16. Time, Oct. 17. A. D. 29. Place, Jerusalem, in the Temple Court. It was the feast of the Tabernacles The harvest was gathered and the people were assembled in Jerusalem to render thanks to God, as well as to commemorate the life of Israel in the wilderness and their settlement in permanent places of abode. At this feast every one lived in booths, rough huts of living boughs and twigs of trees. These were erected in open squares and courts and upon the house tops. The feast lasted seven days, and every day the priests, with a large choir and followed by wast crowds of people, went cut to the spring of Sileam, where they drew water in a golden vessel amidst the most extaordinary rejoleings Magnificent chants from the writings of Isaiah rose on the morning air as the singers and people joined in the beautiful come ve to the waters;" and "with io shall ye draw water from the wells of salvation.' Returning to the temple the water was poured upon the alterand the impressive services of the day were celebrated. Jesus arrived in Jerusalem during this feast, and at once took up a position in the temple and began to teach, His words aroused a bitter feeling of antag nism in the minds and hearts of the Rabbis and leaders, as well as many of the common people; and yet not a few believed on Him. A warrant was issued for His arrest and given to the temple police; but, although they kept Him under constant surveilance, they did attempt to arrest Him. The last day of the feast was the culmination of its rejoicing and splendor. The people went forth with a branch of citron in one hand and a lulab (a branch of palm woven round with willow and myrtle) in the other. An immense procession passed round the walls seven times amidst the most tremendors enthusiasm, and inspired with glorious music, in commemoration of the fall of Jericho. From the vast multitude arose, ever and anon, the ringing Hosanna and Hallelujah of praise, while every one was carried away with the intense enthusiasm of the hour. Another and a similar procession went, as usual, to the pool of Seloam to draw the pitcher of water for use at the altar. It was when this procession was returning that Jesus seized the opportunity for making a grand declaration of His divinity, and at the same time giving a true spiritual signifi-ance to the exercise in which they were engaged. During a temporary bill in the outbursts of song and shout the voice of Jesus, sweet, soft and clear, was heard: "If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink. He that believeth on me ex the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water." In that borning parched autumn weather, the very word "water" would have a magical interest for every hearer. We can well imagine that the words of Jesus commanded instant attention, and we denot wonder that they made a profound impression. This was the last recorded utterance of Christ at this feast, and it is a great and fitting close to His remark-able teachings, and His claims of divine Sonship on this occasion. His divinity was unimpeachable, for, as the temple police said in justification of their neglect to arrest Him, "Never man spake like LESSON THOUGHTS 1. Jesus Christ Is the Son of God.

2. As Son of God and Son of Man, He the Savior of the world. 3. Believe on Him and thus secure the blessings He alone can give.
4. The teachings and life of Christ are a proof of His divinity. "Never man spake like this man."
