Attention! Farmers!
We respectfully request the farmers who may have anything of interest under this head to send it to, thereby making this department more of a "home" notice. All articles not in the shape of advertisements inserted free of charge.—(ED. ADVOCATE.)

Keeping Onions Through the Winter
There are many ways of keeping good, small, ripe, dry onions. The great point is to keep them dry. But you must recollect that even a ripe, dry onion contains at least eighty per cent. of water, and when a large mass of them are kept together they are liable to "sweat," and the skins and tops become damp, and if the temperature is above freezing they will throw out roots and commence to grow. Just as they would in the damp soil. It is necessary to keep them in a large mass, put them in a dry place, such as a shed or barn; then they will freeze solid, and stay frozen till covered in spring. They must be well covered to keep them from thawing, and you should avoid putting them in a barn with a basement underneath where horses, cattle, sheep or hogs are kept, as the warmth from the animals might thaw them out.

They can be placed three or four inches deep on shelves in a dry cellar, or in slat-boxes holding about a bushel each. The lower boxes should be placed on boards, and not on the cellar floor. The boxes may be piled up one above another, but in such a way as to break joints and admit of a circulation of air all round and through every box. In other words, do not place the boxes and sides of the boxes close to each other. Leave a space of two or three inches between the boxes. A little ingenuity may be required to stack them up, and it is well to think out the method before you commence, so as to know exactly what you are going to do. At any rate, see that the onions are dry before storing them in the cellar or house, and do not pack the boxes too close, and give frequent ventilation and change of air by opening the doors and windows. Keep as near the freezing point as possible, and see that the cellar is clean and that there is no damp organic matter anywhere.

Miscellaneous Receipts.
W. W. Reed, druggist, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Louise Pike, Bartonia, Randolph Co., Ind., was a long sufferer with Consumption was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and began buying it of me. In six months time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles, and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to this trial bottle at T. D. Thomas' Drug Store."

Late Sowing of Wheat.
Late sowing is recommended where there is a probability of attacks from the Hessian Fly, or other insect enemies. If sowing is delayed until October 1st, the flies will have deposited their eggs before the wheat plants become large enough to receive them, and there will be no harm to such the life out of the wheat later on. Very often the ground is sown in early September that if the seed germinates the plant will not thrive, but will beyond recovery. If sowing is delayed until the fall rains have moistened the ground, the plants will be as far along until winter stops their growth, and there will be more of them. It is now possible, and certainly profitable, so to prepare the seed-bed and apply fertilizers that the plants, though started quite late, will reach sufficient size and have a root-growth strong enough to withstand the winter. It is not necessary to sow so early as half a century ago. Better implements for preparing the ground and sowing the seed, and better methods for fertilizing, with under-drainage, have so changed conditions that the rules relating to wheat and other crops, found good for the conditions of 1836, must now be varied somewhat.

Packing Apples.
Handle apples as you would handle eggs. Use good apple. Old flour-barrels, unless carefully washed and dried, will impart a musty flavor to the fruit before midwinter especially if the air in the cellar is moist. The first apples which are put in market barrels should be "faced." The facing consists in placing two or three layers on the lower head with stems down; that is, with stems pointing towards the head. Clean, bright apples of ordinary size should be selected for this purpose. The rest of the apples may be poured into the barrel. This pouring, if properly done, will not injure the apples. Eggs can be poured. Use a basket with a swinging handle, one which can be lowered into the barrel and turned while there, and hold the apples back with the hand, so that they will not pour out too rapidly. Two or three times during the filling have the barrel gently to settle the apples firmly. Fast the upper head in the same manner as the lower one. It is desirable too to head up the barrel at once. Cover with boards to keep out the rain, and let the barrel stand open four or five days. It is not, however, always possible to cover the barrels, in which case they may be headed up at once and turned down on their sides. In this condition they will shed water,

Your Children

Are constantly exposed to danger from the Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge.—Mary Parkhurst, Precinct, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to find any effective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and invariably cures the complaint.—David G. Starks, Chatham, Columbia Co., N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it especially valuable in Whooping Cough. This medicine always irritates, prevents inflammation from extending to the lungs, and quickly subsides any tendency to Long Cough.—J. B. Wellington, Plainville, Mich.

I find no medicine so effective for Croup and Whooping Cough, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saved the life of my little boy, only six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of Cough I ever saw.—Jas Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn.
