Destroying Anoual Weeds. Annual weeds may be most easily killed when they first show themselves above ground in starting from the seed. At this time of its life it line little vitality of its own as an independent plant. Its life has been derived from the seed, and to the seed, or parts of the seed, it clings for nourishment and support until it is well stablished. Many of the worst weeds are in this stage very small, and if in the moist Spring time, plowed land has lain quiet for a few days, the surface may or close inspection be seen to be covered with minute plants, frequently exhibiting some bright color, red or brown or green. At this time a light harrowing, or any thorough disturbance of the surface on a warm, bright day, will destroy myriads in an hour. A week later the place might need plowing again to kill them, and then ten times as many might escape.

Tillage implements cannot be expected to stir the whole sell where a crop is growing, but while the rows or drills is well disturbed a good portion of fine earth is thrown upon each side, and so the whole surface is renewed. It is very fortunate that of these little weeds many are smothered by being covered by a small quantity of earth, so that those which survive and are subsequently found growing in the rows are comparatively few, and usually such as were protected by standing close to valuable plants. Weeds in the seed leaf, are therefore killed by being uprooted, disturbed, cut up, or smothered. If allowed to live they gain stregth daily, and must ordinary be cut up below the ground, or upmoted, operations involving much laborplowing, tilling by the cultivator or horse oc, or hand pulling. This class of weeds s especially annoying in ground under plow and summer tillage; those of a more permanent character occur chiefly in grass
