Fifty-five degrees would be better, and sait the butter at sixty de grees. Water is a great solvent of easeing and sugar-traces of which will be found in all butter, however well worked-but the more water remaining after working over, the greater the chemical action, and acting upon the minute particles of card or cheese, it becomes raneid by well known chemical action. Butter should not con tain more water than is necessary to all olye what salt it will retain in the form o Solicitor of American & Furcign Palents brine, and fourteen per cent, seems to be about the amount. More water than this dilutes the brine, and defeats by no much the object of the use of salt in butter-to preserve the caseine from chemical change -nor can this be accomplished says in a temperature below fifty degrees. In the usual creamery butter, and all that made by cold setting, the maker often uninten tionally scaves more than twenty per cent of water in butter, not understanding that butter made from cream slightly achl, retales more moisture than that made from source cream. The souring breaks up the texture of the cream, and the butter separ ates better from the butter milk. Than all the butter-maker needs to do is to churn the ripened cream at a lower temperature than is needed for sour, to use sait each time in washing it free from buttermilk, and when the regulation amount of salt is used to season the butter, let it dissolve, and then by gently working and packing know that the butter is free from any excess of water above fourteen per cent. Then it kept below fifty degrees, and away from the influence of the air butter made from soured milk must keep well.

> Haise Better Horses. Fashion has brought many changes in horse breeding among American farmers, and no race has set the new style more orcibly or to larger purpose than the American trotting horse. The American trotter is a horse capable of every service; there is, in almost literal truth, no limit to the speed in which he can trot one mile, and his capacity of endurance, whereof such contests are most exacting proof, is accepted as a fact in the minds of all observant men, while his patient temper, and good size, combined with the extraordinary muscularity with which true systems of breeding have endowed him, render him an exceedingly valuable animal for any work ollabor and routine.

The farmer who is looking forward to aprovement in his stock, must be careful in making selection of his breeding animals, and, herein, it is of the atmost importance that the sire chosen be an available, valuable, and in every respect, a choice animal, possessing individually and acestrally the best qualities which the offspring is desired
