Row to Ship Freh Eggs. The principal points necessary for the accessful shipment of fish eggs on a long ourney are care and skill in packing them, and also judgement and experience to deermine when the eggs are in the proper condition for the trip. The eggs must also be packed so as to maintain as even a temperature as possible, and also withstand the jars incident to rallway and steamship trayel. A few degrees of heat or cold is liable to affect them, and a sudden jar, such, for example, as the dropping of the package, would be almost certain to result in the death of all the eggs. The temperature of the eggs should remain as near that of the water out of which they were taken as possible. The ova best able to stand transportation are of fish be
