

PRINTED AT THE LEHIGHTON POST-OFFICE AS SECOND CLASS MAIL MATTER.

HON. SAMUEL J. RANDALL AND JOHN B. STORM will please accept our thanks for three bundles of public documents.

WE TAKE PARTICULAR PLEASURE in directing the attention of the people to the pages of the ADVOCATE as well as to the high journalistic character of the newspaper. Interesting New York, Philadelphia and Washington correspondences, together with choice local news makes the ADVOCATE the people's paper. We would like to have you down as a subscriber—you have read your neighbor's paper long enough.

ALTHOUGH THE FALL ELECTION OF 1888 is some distance off, the names of several prominent gentlemen have been mentioned in connection with the office of Assembly by the Democratic leaders. Particularly prominent in this connection we might mention that intelligent and capable young Democrat Joseph Fisher, Esq. Possessing qualifications such as preeminently fit him for a legislative career, he would reflect credit upon the people of this section.

OUR ESTEEMED CONTEMPORARY, THE Herald, of Weatherly, deviates not from the truth when it says that "control of the telegraph by government would be robbing individual enterprise of its just rights." THE CARBON ADVOCATE would perform break up pools and syndicates which impose heavily upon the masses, but the centralizing of individual enterprise in the hands of a free government would be injudicious inasmuch as it would be highly imprudent and impracticable.

ON THE FIRST DAY OF JANUARY, 1888, the county officials elected at the late election will be sworn in as full-fledged public servants. The voters who by their franchises placed these men in positions of important public trust, expect at their hands a careful, wise and practical dispensation of matters pertaining to the public weal. In this they will not be disappointed; happily and capable, the new officials will rapidly win a reputation for integrity of purpose that cannot be questioned.

THERE HAS BEEN NO PERCEPTIBLE change in the condition of affairs in the Lehigh coal region during the past week. Contributions of money and edibles are reported as being generously distributed to those who are in need, which fact conclusively testifies that their brother workers have the success of the present fight at heart. As to the readiness of the termination of the coal strike, Brother Mahony, of the Record says: "The seventh week of the strike has ended and we are but midway on our journey."

AN ORGANIZATION KNOWN AS THE Federation of Labor threatens to supersede the membership of the former far exceeds that of the latter. The new organization, it is said, is composed of more economical and business-like leaders; innumerable officials, drawing large salaries are to be tolerated, and taken altogether the Federation of Labor promises much that is good and necessary in the way of a first-class labor organization.

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION for 1888 has been fixed for the 10th of June. The convention will assemble at Chicago, draft resolutions of party platform and put in nomination men for standard bearers in the approaching presidential contest. It is not unlikely that James G. Blaine will head the ticket, with a possible New York State man for vice president. The Democratic party will platform of the two organizations will differ only in regard to tariff sentiments.

THERE HAS BEEN MORE OR LESS TALK of late regarding the erection of a new court house; in view of such an event the citizens of Lehighton will make a strenuous effort to have the building located in this borough. The practicability, in case of success, cannot be disputed in face of the fact that our population is rapidly increasing, the variety of our manufacturing industries constantly augmenting, our accommodations second to none, and a territory on which to build a town that would be a credit to the people as a county seat. When the time comes the citizens of this borough must more in this matter as one man.

THE ILLOGICAL MANNER in which partisan journals discuss the policy marked out in the president's message shows a prostitution of journalism that is becoming noxious to an American people. Defined clearly and correctly the president says and means that the present high tariff rates must be reduced. There is not a fair-minded Republican who endorsed the attached section of the Republican party platform of 1884, that can honestly and conscientiously disagree with the president. "The Democratic party has failed completely to relieve the people of the burden of unnecessary taxation by a wise reduction of the surplus. The Republican party pledges itself to correct the irregularities of the tariff and to reduce the surplus."

OUR PHILADELPHIA LETTER. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 15, '87. One of the things that will soon be of the past and should have been abolished long ago is the car stove. Let Pennsylvania, at the assembling of the next Legislature, enact some statute making it compulsory upon all transportation lines within the confines of Pennsylvania to put away the stove and apply some other heating apparatus. This is the law now in New York State and the railroad companies there are complying. As a result the dangers of this many lives and painful catastrophes, the result of the car stove will be obviated. The car stove must go.

The Booth-Barrett combination which held theatrical audiences spell bound for two weeks at the Chestnut street Opera House, netted as proceeds of their Shakespearean performances, $40,850—an average of over $4000 per night. Another strong combination, containing the great English actor Henry Irving, is performing in Faust at the same theatre this week. The first few evenings of this troupe's acting promise to equal Booth and Barrett's receipts. To attend these plays horses will make one wonder where all the many thousands of people come from who attend these scenes and acting night after night. The theatrical season in Philadelphia so far, this season, has been a very profitable and successful one. There are twelve or thirteen theatres of first-class character in Philadelphia, with a seating capacity of from 2500 to 4000, not taking into consideration the standing room, etc., etc. These theatres as stated before are crowded evening after evening. This is proof that the demands of the Quaker City are great lovers of amusement and pleasure thus afforded. Think of it, say on an average of 45,000 people paying nightly 25 cts., 75 cts., $1, $1.50 and $3, and more of the $1.50 and $3 class than of the 25 cent class. At the end of a week this makes a big total, but at the end of a year or season, a bligger one.

The great question of discussion in all clubs, social and political and economic, ever since given to the public is Cleveland's term, inclusive, vicarious and courageous message as it relates to the financial condition of the country. Everybody, even though they disagree with it, praise the straightforward manner in which he declared his belief as to what would be the best interest of the country in the specific line of which he treats. The Republican, upon reflection, and recognizing the judicial force of his arguments and perceiving the manner in which the people read and discussed its features and purposes, they are not as hiliarious over it as at first. It is a slyly message and everybody reads it and hereafter it is its force because nothing can possibly obscure the justice of its pleadings. They recognize that the patriotism that underlies it means the greatest good to the greatest number, nothing local or sectional about it. It is a message that is universally read, and the more it will be read the more support it will attain. The bumbling that a high tariff, protective prerogative, is necessary to the prosperity of the American people, and everybody reads it and hereafter it is its force because nothing can possibly obscure the justice of its pleadings. They recognize that the patriotism that underlies it means the greatest good to the greatest number, nothing local or sectional about it. It is a message that is universally read, and the more it will be read the more support it will attain.

Now that Mr. Sparks has ceased to hold the office of Commissioner of the General Land Office, a good story is told as having occurred during his recent administration. A street was received at the Department last year from a man

In Montreal, stating that upon many of the streets in the Territory quantities of timber had been cut down and was lying indiscriminately about the ground where it had been left to rot, while a small portion of the trees, which were used in building houses and dams. A special agent was sent all the way to Montana to investigate the matter, who upon inquiry, was informed that the damage was entirely the work of the lumbermen, (one of the families in Montana). The Commissioner decided that it would hardly be wise to institute suit for damages and so the matter dropped.

Broadbrim's New York Letter.

Special to THE CARBON ADVOCATE. It is now about two years since a notorious thief and swindler was killed in his own office by a desperado from Texas. The affair was the result of a quarrel over a bill, which was the result of the thieves' known as the Green Goods deal. The terrible and sudden death of this notorious crook, it was thought at the time, would put a quietus on that peculiar sort of swindling; but the man was hardly laid in his grave when dozens of places were opened in the city and hundreds of new victims were taken in. It is astonishing to see where these people come from, and what they rate for at home.

An office was raided last week in which were twenty female clerks, whose sole business it was to direct employees. Now, don't jump at the conclusion that all these girls were engaged in nefarious business in which they were engaged, for they were not. They simply direct the employees, the clerks were raised in the city and were not engaged in any business. They were not engaged in any business, they were not engaged in any business. They were not engaged in any business, they were not engaged in any business.

The "bucket shop," or one of the mediums of stock gambling carried extensively all over the country, and especially in large cities like Philadelphia, were raided and pretty thoroughly exterminated during the week by the police authorities in Philadelphia. The betting on stock through these agencies is like poker playing; the only difference is that in the latter game the interested party holds his own cards while in the "bucket shop" somebody else does. Of the two poker is the safest and most creditable.

Coverer Ashbridge by statistics prove that the crime of murder has doubled in the past year in Philadelphia. He ascribes this great increase to jealousy, insanity and whisky as a second. Crime is on the increase and hardly a day passes in this great city that is not murdered or stabbed and shooting affray is announced on account of some woman or vice versa.

From Washington: News Notes.

Special to THE CARBON ADVOCATE. WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 12. MR. EDITOR: The opening of Congress, the meeting of the National Republican Committee, and the annual session of the American Evangelical Alliance have contributed to render the past week a memorable one in the history of Washington. The Associated Press dispatches furnished a graphic representation of the scenes at the Capitol upon the opening day of the session, but they convey but a poor idea of the keen sense of disappointment felt by the crowds that filled the galleries, and the cheering and shouting, who anticipated witnessing exciting and unanticipated proceedings. The questions with reference to the seating of certain Senators, and the seating of the House of Representatives, during the morning, and as no emergency arose, those who had struggled to get into the crowded galleries, hardly felt recommended for their pains. The opening scenes in the House of Representatives were not unlike those attending the opening day of a session. The floor of the galleries were thronged upon an early hour, and soon every seat was occupied and the corridors were crowded. There was an unusual large attendance of ladies. The floor gifts to the Members were both numerous and beautiful. Here, however, as in the Senate, the spectators who had expected to witness an unusually exciting opening were disappointed. The only excitement being occasioned by a religious canon in the gallery, who, as he had made a call, called arose and in a loud voice requested all present to join him in singing the old familiar hymn "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow." That, with his hands before him, he sang at the top of his voice. The gallery was so crowded that it was impossible for the officers to reach him until he had finished the song. After the election of officers of the House, the drawing for seats was commenced. It was highly amusing to watch the expressions upon the faces of some of the unfortunate members as the best seats were selected before their names were called.

The President created a decided sensation by sending to Congress the shortest annual message ever written and by devoting it entirely to a single subject. The reading of the message was listened to with marked attention by both Members and spectators, and the subject of the message and its probable effect upon the coming Presidential contest has been the theme of discussion during the week. The more timid Democrats are apprehensive as to its effect while the more aggressive Republicans are confident that it will enhance the strength of their party in the manufacturing districts. Whatever the effect may be, it is generally deemed that the message will prove the foundation of the coming Presidential contest.

The Evangelical Alliance, which commenced its session at the Congressional Church on Wednesday, attracted to the city a large number of prominent church workers from all sections of the country. The sessions have been extremely interesting and so largely attended that it was found necessary to hold overflow meetings in other churches. Prof. Boyesen, who is a naturalized citizen of the United States, read a paper before the Alliance on Thursday evening under the subject of "Immigration," which has attracted universal and wide-spread attention. He pointed out the evils arising from unrestricted immigration, and the disastrous consequences sure to follow. When at this point a foreigner who allies his interests with ours, informs us that it is time to throw obstacles in the way of paper immigration, we may well take heed.

The National Republican Committee at its session at the Arlington Hotel on Thursday last, listened to the claims presented by the severities and finally decided upon Chicago as the place and the 18th of June the date for holding the Nominating Convention. The meeting of a caucus nature to follow. When at this point a foreigner who allies his interests with ours, informs us that it is time to throw obstacles in the way of paper immigration, we may well take heed.
