What Henry George Proposes. He does not propose that the State shall attempt to control production, conduct distribution, or in anywise interfere with the freedom of the individual to use his labor or capital in any way that may seem proper to him and that will not interfere with the equal rights of others. Nor does he pro-pose that the State shall take possession of land, and either work it or rent it out.— What he proposes is not the disturbing of any man in his holding or title, but, by abolishing all taxes on industry or its pro-ductions, to leave to the producer the full fruits of his exertion.
