AS WE CLIP HUMOROSITIES.

—It is a calumny on men to say that they are roused to heroic actoin by ease, hope of pleasure, recompense. In the meanest mortal there lies something nobler. Difficulty, abnegation martyrdom, death are the allurements that act on the heart of man.

—The lark goes up singing toward heaven; but if she stops the motion of her wings then straightway she falls. So it is with him who prays not. Prayer is the movement of the wings of the soul; it bears one heavenward, but without prayer we sink.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

How to Feed Horses.

Horses have small stomachs; remember this. A good plan is to divide corn rations into three daily portions, the hay two. Many object to giving hay just previous to work, as it distends the stomach and causes the animal inconvenience.

Delicate feeders must be tempted to take their rations, and such should never be fed too strongly at one time. "A Scotch plate is a rule very generally observed in England—everything cleaned up before placing other food in the racks of mangers. A little linseed boiled to a jelly and mixed with the corn is seductive. Hay dampened and salted will tempt others. Beans, a double handful, a relish in weakly subjects, pale malt for the convalescent or indisposed; damp bran and oats are engaging for others. Some grooms give carrots and tares in small quantities. Carrots superinduce diabetes if given in excessive quantities. The peculiar habits of horses demand the attention of all horse owners and grooms. A sufficiency of flesh is all that is required, and not "hog fat," "beastly fat" as some phrase it.

A Gift for All.

In order to give all a chance to test it, and thus be convinced of its wonderful curative powers, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, will be, for a limited time, given away. This offer is not only liberal but shows unbounded faith in the merits of this great remedy. All who suffer from coughs, colds, consumption, asthma, bronchitis, or any affection of throat, chest, or lung, are especially requested to call at T. D. Thomas' Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle Free. Large Bottles $1.

Things Farmers Tell One Another.

—A. B. Allen says: The first thing in the morning is to water the horse, which should be done before feeding, otherwise it might work more or less of the food just eaten undigested from the stomach.

—A Vermont maple sugar maker says that the great point is to keep the sap pure and clean so as to retain its original color; this once lost or lessened cannot be regained.

—A Connecticut farmer claims for common unbleached muslin, that it makes satisfactory covering for hot beds, and at a much less cost than glass.

—A Maryland farmer tells that low wagons with wide tires make easier work in hauling out manure.

—John M. Stahl believes that no improvement in southern agriculture would be of greater advantage than making sheep rearing an important industry. No animal is so well adapted to the purification and enrichment of worn lands that are given over to noxious growths.

—As soon as young seedling plants of any kind show a third or fourth leaf they should be "pricked out" in a bed,—with suitable heat for their needs, says W. D. Philbrick.

—A New York horticulturist reports having applied liquid manure to a peach orchard last year with excellent success.

A Stab in the Dark.

Sometimes fails of its murderous intent. The insidious and dastardly attacks made upon the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters by persons who seek to palm off cheap and fiery tonics are identical with it, or "the same thing under another name," or "equally as good," in most instances react disastrously upon the unprincipled traders upon popular credulity who attempt them, converting their speculations into ruinous failures. The Bitters is a pure, wholesome and thorough medicine, adapted to the total cure and prevention of fever and ague, bilious remittent, dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, debility, nervousness and kidney troubles. Its every ingredient unlike those in the imitations of it, is of at, ascertained standard of excellence, and while they, by reason of their fiery properties, react injuriously upon the brain and nervous system, of both these organs it is a sedative and invigorant. Refuse all these harmful imitations.

Give Milk Cows Plenty of Water.

Milk stock are averse to any great amount of exercise, and do not ordinarily take any more than is necessary in supplying themselves with food. Give them plenty of food and an easy access to water and they will quickly fill themselves and spend most of their time at rest. When water is situated in out of the way places on a farm, cows will often go thirsty for a considerable portion of the day rather than make a special journey to obtain it. This has been observed by all practical farmers, and yet it is curious that many who are conversant with the fact neglect to take proper advantage of this peculiarity in the habits of the animal. It is an important object with the dairy man who desires the highest success to promote, as far as may be (without resorting to artificial means), the taking of an abundant quantity of water by his herd. Milk cannot be made without water, and when it is secreted largely a large amount of water is absolutely required.

Farm and Garden Notes.

—Professor L. H. Bailey, considers native trees and shrubs preferable for wind-breaks. Of exotic trees, only the Norway spruce and apple are desirable for wind-breaks in Michigan.

—A practical butter-maker says: "I find that from open setting a can of cream raised when the cows are fed hay and grain will make thirty pounds of butter, for the same quantity when the cows are feeding on grass, twenty pounds."

—If eggs are the main desideratum in keeping fowls, avoid short-legged fowls of any breed. They rarely lay well the second year on account of laying on too much fat, while a fowl of good length of leg will ordinarily lay well until three years of age.

—When a horse has a nail in his foot, either picked up or the broken part of a shoe nail, the lameness is peculiar. The animal holds up the leg; when he moves he gets the foot tenderly on the ground, resting it on the toe, and steps slowly and carefully. When this is perceived the foot should be examined. At first the foot will not be hot, but in a few days inflammation will occur, and unless the foot is cleaned and the nail cut out ulceration may take place and cause permanent injury.

—In relation to the cow that suck herself, the better way would be to fatten and beef her. You may possibly prevent he doing so by making a cage of slats to fit the neck, and large enough so the cow cannot reach the udder with her mouth. The only advice for the cows so thin that you have to lift them up at calving time, is to feed better during the winter. Give the cows equal parts by weight of bran and corn meal, commencing with eight pounds per day, with plenty of good hay, and warm water to drink, and gradually increase the feed to fifteen pounds per cow per day.
