KNOWLEDGE.—Acquired merely for its own sake, knowledge may lie a heavy and undigested mass in the mind of the owner, clogging his activities and feeding only his vanity. But, as a means to some beneficent and well-defined end, its preciousness can never be overestimated. Brought into practical operation for the benefit of mankind, it will bless a thousandfold him who gains it, and the world through him. It will preserve health, promote civilization, and lift up all life to a higher level. Simply storing it up in the memory will not do this; it must also be used intelligently, scattered liberally, and transmuted into the very life of the nation itself. Much of the knowledge of the present day will doubtless fade, pass away, and be outgrown, as much of the knowledge of the past has done; yet, if it has been used aright, its effects will remain. This is a flower year very decidedly, and for the nonce plumes are not worn on stylish millinery at all, unless it be a quill or two on a rough wear hat, when for traveling head gear these delicate flowers are entirely inappropriate. The popular materials for dust cloaks are pongee, striped and barred twill silk in dark colors, plaid and plain mohair. The Irish peasant cape is the fashionable form of these cloaks, but the loose Raglan is the most popular. Taking a party of young ladies to Europe, or ladies of a certain age who do not like the trouble of planning routs and looking after luggage, has become a regular profession for some women. Although there is considerable work attached to it, it is looked upon as more or less of a holiday by all who undertake it. Mrs. Cleveland always drinks an apollinaris lemonade before retiring. Mrs. Frank Leslie is an enthusiastic admirer of M. Ferdinand Lesseps. Clara Morris uses the phonograph for the pleasure of hearing her own voice. Rose Elizabeth Cleveland will go to England to pursue her literary studies. Miss Clara Barton's energy is the admiration of all women of advanced years. Mrs. Goodwin, widow of the well-known architect, will marry Whistler, the artist. Miss Hetty Green, twenty times a millionaire, will walk two miles to save car-fare. Mrs. Sarah W. Coats, of Kansas City, has $3,000,000 which she can use as she pleases. Mrs. Logan's championship of Alger's boom has recalled Alger's friendship for Logan four years ago. The Duchess of Cambridge has received $1,110,000 in pensions from the British Government. Since the beginning of her reign Queen Victoria has been paid $143,455,000 by her loyal subjects. Olive Pendleton says West-coast women have the knack of holding on to money when they once get it. Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, although past middle age, is still youthful in appearance and spirits. A Kansas City milliner cleared $26,000 in one year, quit business and doubled the money in real estate operations. Miss Elizabeth Stuart Phelps will be a close neighbor to William D. Howells and family at Nahant this summer. Mrs. Zerelia G. Wallace, who is commonly spoken of as his mother, is in reality the step-mother of General Lew Wallace. The Empress Dowager of China has been invited to occupy the throne with the Emperor as a recognition of her executive ability. Mrs. J. C. Againer of Cleveland, O., against whom her husband has brought suit for divorce, is going on the stage. The question naturally arises, Will the stage be a gainier? We are still a very young country. Marion Garlington recently died at Chattanooga, Tenn., leaving 200 descendants. She distinctly remembered the Presidency of George Washington. She passed away at the age of 110 years. To most of us George Washington is as unreal and legendary a personage as Leonidas. Frances Mc Neill Potter, a niece of President Franklin Pierce, draws a pension of $20 a month, and is asking Congress for an increase. Her father, Major McNeill, was a gallant officer in the war of 1812, and commanded a regiment at the battle of Chippewa.
